

D R A F T
SECOND READING NOT FOR APPROVAL

UNIFORM TRUST ACT

NATIONAL CONFERENCE OF COMMISSIONERS
ON UNIFORM STATE LAWS

MEETING IN ITS ONE-HUNDRED-AND-EIGHTH YEAR
DENVER, COLORADO
JULY 23 – 30, 1999

UNIFORM TRUST ACT

WITH PREFATORY NOTE AND INTERIM SECTION COMMENTS

Copyright© 1999
By
NATIONAL CONFERENCE OF COMMISSIONERS
ON UNIFORM STATE LAWS

The ideas and conclusions set forth in this draft, including the proposed statutory language and any comments or reporter's notes, have not been passed upon by the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws or the Drafting Committee. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the Conference and its Commissioners and the Drafting

Committee and its Members and Reporters. Proposed statutory language may not be used to ascertain the intent or meaning of any promulgated final statutory proposal.

DRAFTING COMMITTEE ON UNIFORM TRUST ACT

MAURICE A. HARTNETT, III, Supreme Court, 57 The Green, Dover, DE 19901, Chair
FRANK W. DAYKIN, 4745 Giles Way, Carson City, NV 89704
E. EDWIN ECK, II, University of Montana, School of Law, Missoula, MT 59812
WILLIAM L. EVANS, Ohio Northern University, Pettit College of Law, 525 S. Main Street, Ada,
OH 45810
RUSSELL L. GEORGE, P.O. Box 907, 120 W. Third Street, Rifle, CO 81650
JOHN H. LANGBEIN, Yale Law School, P.O. Box 208215, New Haven, CT 06520
GLEE S. SMITH, P.O. Box 360, 111 E. 8th, Larned, KS 67550
NATHANIEL STERLING, Law Revision Commission, Suite D-1, 4000 Middlefield Road, Palo Alto,
CA 94303
RICHARD V. WELLMAN, University of Georgia, School of Law, Athens, GA 30602
DAVID M. ENGLISH, Santa Clara University, School of Law, Santa Clara, CA 95053, Reporter

EX OFFICIO

GENE N. LEBRUN, P.O. Box 8250, 9th Floor, 909 St. Joseph Street, Rapid City, SD 57709, President
MARTHA T. STARKEY, 10333 N. Meridian Street, Suite 100, Indianapolis, IN 46290, Division Chair

AMERICAN BAR ASSOCIATION ADVISORS

JOSEPH KARTIGANER, 425 Lexington Avenue, New York, NY 10017, Advisor
DAVID ALAN RICHARDS, 875 3rd Avenue, New York, NY 10022, Real Property, Probate & Trust Law Section Advisor
RAYMOND H. YOUNG, 26th Floor, 150 Federal Street, Boston, MA 02110, Real Property, Probate & Trust Law Section Advisor

EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

FRED H. MILLER, University of Oklahoma, College of Law, 300 Timberdell Road, Norman, OK 73019, Executive Director
WILLIAM J. PIERCE, 1505 Roxbury Road, Ann Arbor, MI 48104, Executive Director Emeritus

Copies of this Act may be obtained from:

NATIONAL CONFERENCE OF COMMISSIONERS
ON UNIFORM STATE LAWS
211 E. Ontario Street, Suite 1300
Chicago, Illinois 60611

312/915-0195

UNIFORM TRUST ACT

TABLE OF CONTENTS

ARTICLE 1. GENERAL PROVISIONS AND DEFINITIONS

SECTION 101. SHORT TITLE	11
SECTION 102. DEFINITIONS	11
SECTION 103. MANDATORY RULES	19
SECTION 104. NOTICE TO BENEFICIARIES	21
SECTION 105. COMMON LAW OF TRUSTS	22
SECTION 106. CHOICE OF LAW	23
SECTION 107. PRINCIPAL PLACE OF ADMINISTRATION	24
SECTION 108. NONJUDICIAL SETTLEMENTS	27

ARTICLE 2. JUDICIAL PROCEEDINGS

SECTION 201. ROLE OF COURT IN ADMINISTRATION OF TRUST	29
SECTION 202. JURISDICTION OVER TRUSTEE AND BENEFICIARY	31
SECTION 203. NOTICE OF JUDICIALLY APPROVED SETTLEMENT	32
[SECTION 204. SUBJECT-MATTER JURISDICTION]	33
[SECTION 205. VENUE]	34

ARTICLE 3. REPRESENTATION

SECTION 301. REPRESENTATION: BASIC PRINCIPLES	37
SECTION 302. EFFECT OF CONSENT BY REPRESENTATIVE; OBJECTION	37
SECTION 303. REPRESENTATION BY HOLDERS OF GENERAL TESTAMENTARY POWER OF APPOINTMENT	37
SECTION 304. REPRESENTATION BY FIDUCIARIES AND PARENTS	38
SECTION 305. REPRESENTATION BY PERSON HAVING SUBSTANTIALLY IDENTICAL INTEREST	38
SECTION 306. APPOINTMENT OF REPRESENTATIVE	39

ARTICLE 4. CREATION, VALIDITY, MODIFICATION, AND TERMINATION OF TRUST

SECTION 401. METHODS OF CREATING TRUST	41
SECTION 402. REQUIREMENTS FOR CREATION	43
SECTION 403. TRUST PURPOSES	45
SECTION 404. CREATION OF TRUST INDUCED BY UNDUE INFLUENCE, DURESS, OR FRAUD	46
SECTION 405. EVIDENCE OF ORAL TRUST	46
SECTION 406. TRUST FOR CARE OF ANIMAL	47
SECTION 407. TRUST FOR NONCHARITABLE PURPOSE	49
SECTION 408. CHARITABLE TRUSTS	50
SECTION 409. TERMINATION OF TRUST; PETITIONS FOR APPROVAL OR DISAPPROVAL	54
SECTION 410. MODIFICATION OR TERMINATION OF IRREVOCABLE TRUST BY CONSENT	55
SECTION 411. MODIFICATION OR TERMINATION BECAUSE OF UNANTICIPATED CIRCUMSTANCES OR INABILITY TO EFFECTIVELY ADMINISTER

TRUST	58
SECTION 412. TERMINATION OF UNECONOMIC NONCHARITABLE TRUST	60
SECTION 413. REFORMATION TO CORRECT MISTAKES	61
SECTION 414. MODIFICATION TO ACHIEVE SETTLOR'S TAX OBJECTIVES	62
SECTION 415. COMBINATION AND DIVISION OF TRUSTS	63

ARTICLE 5. CREDITOR'S CLAIMS; SPENDTHRIFT PROVISIONS; DISCRETIONARY TRUSTS

SECTION 501. SPENDTHRIFT PROVISION: GENERAL	66
SECTION 502. CLAIM OF BENEFICIARY'S CREDITOR AGAINST TRUST WITHOUT SPENDTHRIFT PROVISION	68
SECTION 503. EXCEPTIONS TO SPENDTHRIFT PROVISION	69
SECTION 504. DISCRETIONARY TRUSTS AND TRUSTS SUBJECT TO STANDARD	70
SECTION 505. CREDITOR'S CLAIM AGAINST SETTLOR	72
SECTION 506. OVERDUE DISTRIBUTION	76
SECTION 507. PERSONAL CREDITORS OF TRUSTEE	76

ARTICLE 6. REVOCABLE TRUSTS

SECTION 601. CAPACITY OF SETTLOR OF REVOCABLE TRUST	78
SECTION 602. REVOCATION OR AMENDMENT OF REVOCABLE TRUST	79
SECTION 603. SETTLOR'S EXERCISE OF RIGHTS OF BENEFICIARIES; PRESENTLY EXERCISABLE POWERS OF WITHDRAWAL	83
SECTION 604. LIMITATION ON ACTION CONTESTING VALIDITY OF REVOCABLE TRUST	85
SECTION 605. RULES OF CONSTRUCTION	87

ARTICLE 7. OFFICE OF TRUSTEE

SECTION 701. ACCEPTANCE OR DECLINATION OF TRUSTEESHIP	90
SECTION 702. TRUSTEE'S BOND	92
SECTION 703. COTRUSTEES	93
SECTION 704. VACANCY IN TRUSTEESHIP; APPOINTMENTS BY BENEFICIARIES OR COURT	95
SECTION 705. RESIGNATION OF TRUSTEE	97
SECTION 706. REMOVAL OF TRUSTEE	98
SECTION 707. DELIVERY OF PROPERTY BY FORMER TRUSTEE	100
SECTION 708. COMPENSATION OF TRUSTEE	101
SECTION 709. REPAYMENT OF EXPENDITURES	103

ARTICLE 8. IDUCIARY ADMINISTRATION

SECTION 801. DUTY TO ADMINISTER TRUST	105
SECTION 802. DUTY OF LOYALTY	106
SECTION 803. IMPARTIALITY	110
SECTION 804. PRUDENT ADMINISTRATION	111
SECTION 805. COSTS OF ADMINISTRATION	111
SECTION 806. TRUSTEE'S SKILLS	112
SECTION 807. DELEGATION BY TRUSTEE	112
SECTION 808. POWERS TO DIRECT	114
SECTION 809. CONTROL AND PROTECTION OF TRUST PROPERTY	115
SECTION 810. SEPARATION AND IDENTIFICATION OF TRUST PROPERTY	115

SECTION 811. ENFORCEMENT AND DEFENSE OF CLAIMS	117
SECTION 812. FORMER FIDUCIARIES	117
SECTION 813. DUTY TO INFORM AND REPORT	118
SECTION 814. DUTY WITH REGARD TO DISCRETIONARY POWER	122
SECTION 815. GENERAL POWERS OF TRUSTEE	123
SECTION 816. SPECIFIC POWERS OF TRUSTEE	124

ARTICLE 9. UNIFORM PRUDENT INVESTOR ACT

ARTICLE 10. LIABILITY OF TRUSTEES AND RIGHTS OF PERSONS DEALING WITH TRUSTEE

SECTION 1001. DEFINITION	135
SECTION 1002. BREACH OF TRUST; EQUITABLE REMEDIES	136
SECTION 1003. DAMAGES AGAINST TRUSTEE FOR BREACH OF TRUST	138
SECTION 1004. LIABILITY OF TRUSTEE IN ABSENCE OF BREACH	139
SECTION 1005. ATTORNEY'S FEES AND COSTS	140
SECTION 1006. LIMITATION OF ACTION AGAINST TRUSTEE FOLLOWING TRUSTEE'S REPORT	140
SECTION 1007. RELIANCE ON TRUST INSTRUMENT	142
SECTION 1008. EXCULPATION OF TRUSTEE	142
SECTION 1009. BENEFICIARY'S CONSENT, RELEASE, OR RATIFICATION	144
SECTION 1010. LIMITATION ON PERSONAL LIABILITY OF TRUSTEE	145
SECTION 1011. PROTECTION OF PERSON DEALING WITH TRUSTEE	146
SECTION 1012. CERTIFICATION OF TRUST	148

ARTICLE 11. TRANSITIONAL AND MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS

SECTION 1101. UNIFORMITY OF APPLICATION AND CONSTRUCTION	152
SECTION 1102. SEVERABILITY CLAUSE	152
SECTION 1103. EFFECTIVE DATE	152
SECTION 1104. REPEALERS AND AMENDMENTS	152
SECTION 1105. APPLICATION TO EXISTING RELATIONSHIPS	153

1

UNIFORM TRUST ACT

2

PREFATORY NOTE

3

The Uniform Trust Act is the first comprehensive national codification of the law of trusts. The Uniform Law Commissioners appointed a Study Committee in 1993. The Drafting Committee, appointed in 1994, met once during the 1994-1995 year, and twice yearly during 1995-1996, 1996-1997, 1997-1998 and 1998-1999. The Act had its first reading at the Commissioners's 1998 Annual Meeting.

9

Reasons for Trust Act – There are several reasons why the drafting of a Uniform Trust Act is timely. The primary stimulus is the greater use of trusts in recent years, both in family estate planning and in commercial transactions, both in the United States and internationally. This greater use of the trust, and consequent rise in the number of day-to-day questions involving trusts, has led to a recognition that the trust law in many States is thin. It has also led to a recognition that the existing Uniform Acts relating to trusts, while numerous, are incomplete. The primary source of trust law in most States is thus the Restatement (Second) of Trusts and the multivolume treatises by Scott and Bogert, sources which fail to address numerous practical issues and which on others provide insufficient guidance. While there are numerous Uniform Acts related to trusts, none is comprehensive. The Uniform Trust Act hopefully will provide States with precise guidance on trust law questions in an easily findable place, providing the basis for an efficient system that is fair to both trustees and beneficiaries.

23

Existing Uniform Laws on Trust Law Subjects – There are numerous Uniform Acts on trusts and related subjects, but none provide comprehensive coverage of trust law issues. Certain of these Acts are incorporated into the larger Uniform Trust Act. Others, addressing more specialized topics, will continue to be available for enactment in free-standing form. The following are the most relevant Acts:

29

Uniform Trustee Powers Act – approved in 1964, it has been enacted in 16 States. The Act, as its name implies, contains a list of specific trustee powers and deals with selected other issues, particularly relations of a trustee with persons other than beneficiaries. The Trustee Powers Act is badly outdated and is entirely superseded by the Trust Act, principally at Sections 816 and 1011. States enacting the Uniform Trust Act should repeal this other uniform act.

35

Uniform Prudent Investor Act – approved in 1994, this Act has been enacted in over half of the States. This Act, and variant forms enacted in a number of other

36

1 States, has displaced the older “prudent man” standard, bringing trust law into 2 line with modern investment practice. States which have enacted the Uniform
3 Prudent Investor Act are encouraged to recodify it as part of this Act. A place
4 for this is provided in Article 9.

5 Uniform Principal and Income Act – a major revision of this widely enacted
6 Uniform Act was approved in 1997. The Act extensively revises the accounting
7 rules applicable to both trusts and estates. Because this other uniform act
8 addresses issues with respect to both decedent’s estates and trusts, a jurisdiction
9 enacting this other uniform act may wish to codify it either as part of this Act or 10 as part of its probate code.

11 Uniform Management of Institutional Funds Act – approved in 1972, this Act
12 has been enacted in 46 jurisdictions. This Act governs the administration of 13 endowment funds held by charitable, religious, and other eleemosynary
14 institutions. The Act establishes a standard of prudence for use of appreciation 15 on assets, provides specific authority for the making of investments, authorizes 16 the delegation of this authority, and specifies a procedure, through either donor
17 consent or court approval, for removing restrictions on the use of donated funds.

18 Uniform Custodial Trust Act – approved in 1987, this Act has been enacted in 19 13 jurisdictions. This Act, which allows standard trust provisions to be 20 automatically incorporated into the terms of the trust simply by referring to the 21 Act, is not displaced by the Uniform Trust Act but complements it.

22 Uniform Probate Code Article VII – approved in 1969, Article VII has been 23 enacted in about 15 jurisdictions. Article VII, although titled “Trust 24 Administration,” is a modest statute, addressing only a limited number of topics, 25 including trust registration, jurisdiction, and trustee liability to persons other 26 than beneficiaries. The substance of Article VII, other than its provisions on 27 trust registration, are absorbed into the Uniform Trust Act, portions of its 28 provisions on jurisdiction in Article 2, and the provision on trustee liability to 29 persons other than beneficiaries at Section 1010.

30 Uniform Common Trust Fund Act – approved in 1938, this Act has been 31 enacted in 34 States. The drafters of the Uniform Trust Act have elected not to 32 address the subject of common trust funds and will leave this other Act
33 undisturbed. In recent years, many banks have replaced their common trust 34 funds with proprietary mutual funds that may also be made available to non-trust
35 customers. The Uniform Trust Act addresses the use of proprietary funds, 36 principally at Section 802.

1 Uniform Trusts Act (1937) – this largely overlooked Act of the same name was 2 enacted in only six States, none within the past several decades. Despite a title
3 suggesting comprehensive coverage of its topic, this Act, like Article VII of the 4 UPC, addresses only a limited number of topics. These include the duty of 5 loyalty, the registration and voting of securities, and trustee liability to persons
6 other than beneficiaries. States enacting the current Uniform Trust Act should 7 repeal this earlier namesake.

8 Uniform Supervision of Trustees for Charitable Purposes Act – approved in 9 1954, this Act has been enacted in four States. This Act is limited to 10 mechanisms for monitoring the actions of charitable trustees and does not 11 address the substantive law of charitable trusts, including the doctrine of cy pres.
12 Cy pres is addressed in Section 408 of the Uniform Trust Act.

13 Uniform Testamentary Additions to Trusts Act – this Act is available in two 14 versions: the 1960 Act, with 31 enactments; and the 1991 Act, with 16
15 enactments through 1997. This Act validates pourover devises to trusts. While 16 not incorporated into the Uniform Trust Act, the Testamentary Additions to 17 Trusts Act, like the Uniform Trust Act, is designed to facilitate use of the 18 revocable living trust.

19 Uniform Probate Code – approved in 1969, and enacted in close to complete
20 form in about 20 States but influential in virtually all, the UPC overlaps with 21 trust topics in several areas. One area of overlap, already mentioned, is UPC
22 Article VII. Another area of overlap concerns representation of beneficiaries.
23 UPC Section 1-403 provides principles of representation for achieving binding
24 judicial settlements of matters involving both estates and trusts. The Uniform
25 Trust Act adopts these representation principles, and extends them to nonjudicial 26 settlements concerning trusts and to required and optional notices and consents.
27 See Uniform Trust Act, Sections 108, 203, and Article 3. A final area of 28 overlap between the UPC and trust law topics concerns rules of construction.
29 The UPC, in Article II, Part 7, extends rules on the construction of wills to 30 trusts and other nonprobate instruments. The Uniform Trust Act similarly 31 extends to revocable trusts the rules on the construction of wills. However, 32 unlike the UPC, the Trust Act does not prescribe the exact rules. Instead, 33 Section 605 extends to revocable trusts whatever rules the enacting jurisdiction
34 already has in place on the construction of wills.

35 Role of Restatement of Trusts – The Restatement (Second) of Trusts was 36 approved by the American Law Institute in 1957. Beginning in the late 1980s, work 37 on the Restatement Third began. The portion of Restatement Third relating to the 38 prudent investor rule and other investment topics was completed and approved in 39 1990. A tentative draft of the portion of Restatement Third relating to the rules on

1 the creation and validity of trusts was approved in 1996, and the portion relating to
2 the office of trustee is expected to be approved in May, 1999. The Uniform Trust
3 Act is being drafted in close coordination with the writing of the Restatement Third.

4 Models for Drafting – While the Uniform Trust Act is the first
5 comprehensive Uniform Act on the subject of trusts, comprehensive trust statutes
6 are already in effect in several States. Notable examples include the statutes in 7 California, Georgia, Indiana, and Texas, all of which have been referred to in the 8 drafting process. Most influential has been the 1986 California statute, found at 9 Division 9 of the California Probate Code (Sections 15000 et seq.), which was used
10 by the Drafting Committee as its initial model.

11 Overview of Act

12 Article 1 – General Provisions and Definitions – In addition to definitions
13 (Section 102), this article addresses miscellaneous but important issues, including 14 clarification that the common law of trusts supplements the Act (Section 105), and 15 that the settlor, absent overriding public policy concerns, is free to select the 16 governing law with respect to the effect and interpretation of the trust’s terms
17 (Section 106). The settlor, if minimum contacts are present, may also designate the 18 trust’s principal place of administration, and the trustee, if it would facilitate 19 administration and not impair the interests of the beneficiaries, may transfer the 20 principal place of administration to another State or country (Section 107). The Act 21 is primarily default law. A settlor, within specified limitations, is free to vary the 22 effect of the Act (Section 103). To encourage nonjudicial resolution of disputes, the 23 Act provides a test for determining when such settlements are binding. A binding 24 nonjudicial settlement can be entered into as to any matter a court could properly
25 approve (Section 108).

26 Article 2 – Judicial Proceedings – This article addresses selected issues 27 involving judicial proceedings concerning trusts, particularly trusts with contacts to 28 more than one State or country. The courts in the trust’s principal place of 29 administration have jurisdiction over both the trustee and beneficiaries as to any 30 matter relating to the trust (Section 202). The requirements for who must receive 31 notice of a judicially approved settlement are specified (Section 203). The article 32 concludes with optional provisions on subject-matter jurisdiction (Section 204) and 33 venue (Section 205). The minimal coverage of this article was deliberate. The 34 Drafting Committee concluded that most issues related to jurisdiction and procedure
35 are not appropriate to a Trust Act, but are best left to the courts and to other bodies 36 of law.

37 Article 3 – Representation – This article deals with the important topic of 38 representation of beneficiaries, both representation by fiduciaries (personal representatives, guardians and conservators), and what is known as virtual representation. The representation principles of the article apply to settlement of disputes, whether by a court or nonjudicially. They apply for the giving of required notices. They apply for the giving of consents to certain actions. The article also authorizes a court to appoint a representative if the court concludes that representation of a person might otherwise be inadequate. The court may appoint a representative to represent and approve a settlement on behalf of a minor, incapacitated, or unascertained person or a person whose location is unknown.

Article 4 – Creation, Validity, Modification and Termination of Trust –

This article specifies the requirements for creating, modifying and terminating trusts. Most of the requirements relating to creation of trusts (Sections 401 through 407) track traditional doctrine, including intention to create a trust, the requisite capacity, a requirement of property, and a permitted trust purpose. The Act articulates a three-part classification system for trusts; noncharitable, charitable, and trusts for noncharitable purposes. Noncharitable trusts require an ascertainable beneficiary and an appropriate purpose. Charitable trusts, on the other hand, are by their very nature created to benefit the public at large. A trust for a noncharitable purpose is a noncharitable trust which is valid despite the absence of an ascertainable (i.e., human) beneficiary. These trusts, which under the common law were honorary only and binding only on the trustee's conscience, are valid and enforceable under this Act. Examples include a trust for the care of an animal and a trust for the maintenance of a cemetery lot.

Sections 408 through 415 provide a series of interrelated rules on when a trust may be terminated or modified other than by its express terms. The overall objective of these sections is to enhance flexibility consistent with the principle that preserving the settlor's intent is paramount. Termination or modification may be allowed upon beneficiary consent if the trust no longer serves a material purpose or if the settlor concurs (Section 410), by the court in response to unanticipated circumstances or to remedy ineffective administrative terms (Section 411), or if the trust is of insufficient size to justify continued administration under its existing terms (Section 412). Trusts may be reformed to correct a mistake of law or fact (Section 413), or modified to achieve the settlor's tax objectives (Section 414). Trusts may be combined or divided (Section 415). Charitable trusts may be modified or terminated under cy pres to better achieve the settlor's charitable purposes (Section 408). A trustee or beneficiary has standing to petition the court with respect to a proposed termination or modification (Section 409).

Article 5 – Spendthrift Provisions and Claims by Creditors –

This article addresses the validity of a spendthrift provision and other issues relating to the rights of creditors, both of the settlor and beneficiaries, to reach the trust to collect a debt. Section 501 specifies the requirements for a valid spendthrift provision and, if valid,

1 its effect. For trusts without a valid spendthrift provision, Section 502 clarifies that 2 a beneficiary's creditors may reach the beneficiary's interest. Section 503 lists the 3 categories of creditors whose claims are not subject to a spendthrift bar, and the 4 extent to which such creditors may reach the debtor beneficiary's interest. Sections 5 504 through 507 address situations where the rights of a beneficiary's creditors do
6 not depend on whether or not the trust contains a spendthrift provision. Section 7 504 deals with creditor claims against discretionary trusts, trusts which provide for a 8 standard of distribution, and trusts which grant the trustee discretion but subject to a 9 standard of distribution. Section 505 addresses creditor claims against a settlor, 10 whether the trust is revocable or irrevocable, and if revocable, whether the claim is 11 made during the settlor's lifetime or incident to the settlor's death. Section 506
12 provides a creditor with a remedy if a trustee fails to make a required distribution
13 within a reasonable time. Section 507 clarifies that the fact a trustee holds legal title
14 to trust property does not imply that the trust property is subject to the trustee's 15 personal debts.

16 Article 6 – Revocable Trusts – This short article deals with issues of 17 significance not totally settled under current law. The basic policy of this article and 18 the Act in general is to treat the revocable trust as the functional equivalent of a will.
19 The article specifies a standard of capacity, provides that a trust is presumed 20 revocable unless its terms provide otherwise, prescribes the procedure for 21 revocation or modification of a revocable trust, provides a statute of limitations on 22 contests, and extends to revocable trusts the enacting jurisdiction's rules on 23 construction of wills.

24 Article 7 – Office of Trustee – This article contains a series of default rules 25 dealing with the office of trustee, all of which may be modified by the terms of the 26 trust. Sections 701 and 702 address the process for getting a trustee into office, 27 including the procedure for the trustee to accept the office and whether bond will be 28 required. Section 703 covers the office of cotrustee, permitting cotrustees to act by 29 majority action, specifying the extent to which one trustee may delegate to another, 30 and describing the circumstances under which a cotrustee may be held responsible 31 for the actions of the other trustee or trustees. Sections 704 through 707 address 32 changes in the office of trustee, specifying the circumstances when a vacancy must 33 be filled, the procedure for resignation, the grounds for removal, and the process for 34 appointing a successor. Sections 708 and 709 prescribe the standards for 35 determining trustee compensation and reimbursement for expenses advanced.

36 Article 8 – Duties and Powers of Trustee – This article states the 37 fundamental duties of a trustee and lists the trustee's powers. The duties listed are 38 not new, but the particulars have changed in detail over the years. This article was 39 drafted where possible to conform with the 1994 Uniform Prudent Investor Act.
40 The Uniform Prudent Investor Act prescribes a trustee's responsibilities with respect

1 to the management and investment of trust property. This article also addresses a
2 trustee's duties regarding distributions to beneficiaries.

3 Article 9 – Uniform Prudent Investor Act – This article provides a place
4 for the enacting State to codify its version of the Uniform Prudent Investor Act.
5 While trustee investment is central to the law of trusts, because of the widespread 6 adoption of the Uniform Prudent Investor Act, no effort has been made to integrate
7 it into the other portions of this Act. States adopting this Act which have previously 8 enacted the Prudent Investor Act are encouraged to recodify their version of the 9 Prudent Investor Act by reenacting it in this article.

10 Article 10 – Liability of Trustees and Rights of Beneficiaries – Sections
11 1002 through 1009 list the remedies for breach of trust, describe how money
12 damages are to be determined, provide a statute of limitations on claims against a 13 trustee, and specify other defenses, including consent of a beneficiary and 14 recognition of and limitations on the effect of an exculpatory clause. Sections 1010
15 through 1012 address trustee relations with persons other than beneficiaries. The 16 emphasis is on encouraging trustees and others to engage in commercial transactions
17 with respect to the trust property to the same extent as if the property were not held 18 in trust. Section 1012 permits a trustee to rely on a certification of trust, thereby 19 hopefully reducing requests by financial institutions and others for copies of the 20 complete trust instrument.

21 Article 11 – Transitional and Miscellaneous Provisions – The Act is 22 intended to have the widest possible application, consistent with constitutional 23 limitations. The Act applies not only to trusts created on or after the effective date, 24 but also to trusts in existence on the date of enactment.

STATEMENT OF POLICY ISSUES

The advice of the Conference is invited on the following policy issues. These policy issues are also reproduced immediately following each of the relevant sections.

Section 501. Spendthrift Provision Recognized. This section, in accordance with traditional doctrine, requires that for a trust to be spendthrift, the settlor must insert an express provision to that effect into the terms of the trust. At least one member of the Drafting Committee is of the opinion that spendthrift ought to be the default rule, that is, that a trust is automatically spendthrift unless the terms of the trust provide to the contrary. The advice of the Conference is invited on which is the better approach.

This section provides that a spendthrift provision, to be valid, must restrain both the voluntary and involuntary transfer of a beneficiary's interest. Several members of the Joint Editorial Board for Uniform Probate Code are of the view that the settlor should be able to restrain either voluntary or involuntary transfer. The Drafting Committee is unanimously of the view that the draft is correct but invites the Conference's opinion.

Section 503. Exceptions to Spendthrift Provision. This section specifies certain classes of creditors against whom a spendthrift provision is unenforceable, among whom include a beneficiary's child, spouse or former spouse who has a judgment against the beneficiary for support. The Advisors representing the Probate Division of the ABA Section of Real Property, Probate and Trust Law and the American College of Trust and Estate Counsel have objected to this section, particularly as it pertains to claims of a former spouse. The Drafting Committee is unanimously of the view that the draft is correct but invites the Conference's opinion.

Section 504. Discretionary Trusts and Trusts Subject to Standard. Subsection (b) of this section allows a spouse, former spouse, or child who has a judgment for support against a beneficiary to reach the interest of the beneficiary which is subject to the discretion of the trustee or a standard of distribution. The claimant can reach only that amount which would have been distributed to the beneficiary had the trustee not abused a discretion or failed to comply with a standard. The court is to award the claimant the portion of the shortfall which the court considers equitable under the circumstances. The Advisors representing the Probate Division of the ABA Section of Real Property, Probate and Trust Law and the Advisor representing the American College of Trust and Estate Counsel have objected to this provision, particularly as it pertains to claims of a former spouse.

1 The Drafting Committee is unanimously of the view that the draft is correct but
2 invites the Conference's opinion.

3 Section 505. Creditor's Claim Against Settlor. Subsection (a)(2) of this 4 section restates common law doctrine by providing that notwithstanding a 5 spendthrift provision a creditor or assignee of a settlor may reach the maximum
6 amount that the trustee could pay to or for the settlor's benefit. Recently, Alaska
7 and Delaware have passed statutes abrogating the common law doctrine. In those 8 two States, if the trust contains a spendthrift provision, the beneficial interest of a 9 settlor is generally protected from creditor claims until and unless the trustee makes
10 a distribution to the settlor. The Drafting Committee supports leaving subsection
11 (a)(2) as is but invites the Conference's comments on this issue.

12 Section 602. Revocation or Modification of Revocable Trust.
13 Subsection (a) of this section, following the lead of California, Montana, Oklahoma
14 and Texas, provides that a trust is revocable unless the terms of the trust provide 15 otherwise. The common law rule and the law of the other States is the opposite, 16 that is, a trust is irrevocable absent contrary intent. At least one member of the 17 Drafting Committee is of the view that the Act should follow the common law rule.
18 The Drafting Committee invites the Conference's views on this issue.

19 Section 813. Duty to Inform and Report. Subsection (b)(1) requires that 20 a trustee provide a beneficiary upon request with a copy of the complete trust 21 instrument. The view has been expressed to the Reporter in his meetings with 22 members of the ABA Section of Real Property, Probate and Trust Law and the 23 American College of Trust and Estate Counsel that a beneficiary should be entitled 24 to a copy of only those provisions which are relevant to the beneficiary's interest.
25 The Drafting Committee believes that subsection (b)(1) is correct as is but invites 26 the Conference's comments on this issue.

27 Subsection (e) provides that the terms of a trust may not dispense with the 28 reporting and other information requirements of the section except as to information 29 required to be furnished to the settlor (this exception as to the settlor ratifies the so 30 called "blind" trust) or a beneficiary who is under 25 years of age. The view has 31 been expressed to the Reporter in his meetings with members of the ABA Section of 32 Real Property, Probate and Trust Law and the American College of Trust and 33 Estate Counsel that the settlor should be able to waive required reporting to a 34 beneficiary. The Drafting Committee believes that subsection (e) is correct as is but 35 invites the Conference's comments on this issue.

36 Section 1012. Certification of Trust. This section creates a procedure for 37 providing a person dealing with a trustee with a certification of trust instead of with 38 a complete copy of the trust instrument. While all members of the Drafting

1 Committee support the concept of this section, one member of the Drafting
2 Committee prefers that some remedy other than damages be imposed against 3 persons whom the court determines did not act in good faith in demanding a 4 complete copy of the trust instrument after being furnished with a certification. The 5 Conference's comments are invited on this issue.

1
2
3
4
5
6
7
8
9
10
11
12
13
14
15
16
17
18
19 20
21
22
23
24
25
26
27
28
29
30
31
32
33
34

UNIFORM TRUST ACT

ARTICLE 1

GENERAL PROVISIONS AND DEFINITIONS

General Comment

In addition to definitions (Section 102), this article collects several provisions of importance which are not amenable to codification elsewhere in the Act. The Act is primarily a default statute. Most of the Act's provisions may be completely overridden in the terms of the trust. The exceptions are collected in Section 103. The exceptions to default treatment include the fundamental duty that a trustee act in good faith and with regard to the purposes of the trust and the interests of the beneficiaries, public policy exceptions to enforcement of spendthrift provisions, the requirements for creating a trust, and the provisions relating to termination or modification of trusts.

Section 104 addresses notice to beneficiaries, allowing beneficiaries with remote interests to request notice of certain actions, such as notice of a trustee resignation, which are normally given only to the "qualified beneficiaries" (defined at Section 102(11)). The section also excludes from the Act's notice requirements persons whose identity or location is unknown and not reasonably ascertainable.

Section 105 clarifies that despite the Act's comprehensive scope, not all aspects of the law of trusts have been codified. The Act is supplemented by the common law of trusts and principles of equity.

Section 106 addresses choice of law. Subsection (b) allows a settlor, absent overriding public policy concerns, to select the law that will determine the meaning and effect of a trust's terms. Subsection (a) provides that a trust not created by will is validly created if its creation complied with the law of specified jurisdictions in which the settlor had contact. Trusts created by will are excluded from subsection (a) because the validity of their creation is controlled by the law applicable to wills.

Changing a trust's principal place of administration is sometimes desirable, particularly to lower a trust's state income tax. Such transfers are authorized by Section 107. The trustee, if it would facilitate administration and not impair the interests of the beneficiaries, may, following notice to the qualified beneficiaries, transfer the principal place of administration to another place. The settlor, if minimum contacts are present, may also designate the trust's principal place of administration.

1 Section 108 ratifies the use of nonjudicial settlement agreements. While the 2 judicial settlement procedures may be used in all court proceedings relating to the 3 trust, the nonjudicial settlement procedures will not always be available. First, the 4 terms of the trust may direct that the procedures not be used, or settlors may negate
5 or modify them by specifying their own methods for obtaining consents. Second, a 6 nonjudicial settlement may not be used to approve actions that would otherwise be 7 illegal, such as to improperly terminate a trust. Only such matters as a court could 8 properly approve may be made the subject of a nonjudicial settlement.

9 SECTION 101. SHORT TITLE. This [Act] may be cited as the Uniform
10 Trust Act.

11 SECTION 102. DEFINITIONS. In this [Act]:

12 (1) “Beneficiary” means a person who:

13 (A) has a present or future beneficial interest in a trust, vested or 14 contingent, whether or not subject to the discretion of the trustee; or 15 (B) holds a presently exercisable or general testamentary power of 16 appointment over trust property in a capacity other than that of trustee.

17 (2) “Charitable trust” means a trust created for a charitable purpose
18 described in Section 408. The term does not include the beneficial interest of a 19 noncharitable beneficiary.

20 (3) “[Conservator]” means a person appointed by a court to administer the 21 estate of a minor or adult individual.

22 (4) “Fiduciary,” used as a noun, includes a personal representative, 23 [conservator], [guardian], and trustee.

1 (5) “[Guardian]” means a person appointed by a court [, a parent, or a 2 spouse] to make decisions regarding the support, care, education, health, and 3 welfare of a minor or adult individual. The term does not include a guardian ad 4 litem.

5 (6) “Interests of the beneficiaries” means the beneficial interests provided in 6 the terms of the trust.

7 (7) “Know,” with respect to a fact, means to have knowledge of the fact or 8 have reason to know, based upon all of the facts and circumstances known to the 9 person at the time, that the fact exists.

10 (8) “Person” means an individual, corporation, business trust, estate, trust,
11 partnership, limited liability company, association, joint venture, government;
12 governmental subdivision, agency, or instrumentality; public corporation; or any 13 other legal or commercial entity.

14 (9) “Petition” includes complaint and statement of claim.

15 (10) “Property” means anything that may be the subject of ownership,
16 whether real or personal, legal or equitable, or any interest therein. The term 17 includes a chose in action, a claim, and a beneficiary designation under a policy of 18 insurance, financial instrument, employees’ trust, or deferred compensation or other 19 retirement arrangement, whether revocable or irrevocable.

20 (11) “Qualified beneficiary” means a beneficiary who, on the date the 21 beneficiary’s qualification is determined:

1 (A) is entitled or eligible to receive a distribution of trust income or 2 principal; or

3 (B) would be entitled to receive a distribution if the event causing the 4 trust to terminate occurred on that date.

5 (12) “Record” means information that is inscribed on a tangible medium or 6 that is stored in an electronic or other medium and is retrievable in perceivable form.

7 (13) “Settlor” means a person who creates an inter vivos or testamentary
8 trust. If more than one person creates a trust, each person is a settlor of the portion 9 of the trust property attributable to that person’s contribution.

10 (14) “Spendthrift provision” means a term of a trust which restrains both the 11 voluntary and involuntary transfer of a beneficiary’s interest.

12 (15) “State” means a State of the United States, the District of Columbia,
13 Puerto Rico, the United States Virgin Islands, or any territory or insular possession
14 subject to the jurisdiction of the United States.

15 (16) “Terms of a trust” means the manifestation of the settlor’s intent
16 regarding a trust’s provisions as expressed in the trust instrument or by other proof 17 admissible in a judicial proceeding.

18 (17) “Trust” means:

19 (A) an express trust, charitable or noncharitable, with additions thereto, 20 wherever and however created; and

21 (B) a trust created pursuant to a statute, judgment, or decree under which 22 the trust is to be administered in the manner of an express trust.

(18) “Trustee” includes an original, additional and successor trustee, and a cotrustee.

Comment

“Beneficiary” (paragraph (1)) refers only to a beneficiary of a trust as defined in the Act. The term includes not only beneficiaries who received their interests under the terms of the trust but also beneficiaries who received their interests by any other means, including by an assignment, the exercise of a power of appointment, by a resulting trust upon the failure of an interest or gap in a disposition, or through the operation of an antilapse statute upon the predecease of a named beneficiary. The fact that a person incidentally benefits from the trust does not mean that the person is a beneficiary. For example, neither a trustee nor persons hired by the trustee become beneficiaries merely because they receive compensation from the trust. See Restatement (Third) of Trusts § 48 (Tentative Draft No. 2, 1999). See also Restatement (Second) of Trusts § 126 cmt. f (1959).

While the holder of a power of appointment was not a trust beneficiary under the common law of trusts, holders of certain powers are classified as beneficiaries under the Act. Included are holders of presently exercisable powers, whether general or nongeneral, and the holders of general testamentary powers of appointment. The holders of such powers are included on the assumption that their interests are significant enough that they should be afforded the rights of beneficiaries under the Act.

The definition of “beneficiary” includes only those who hold beneficial interests in the trust. Because a charitable trust is not created to benefit ascertainable beneficiaries but to benefit the community at large (see Sections 402(a)(3), 408(a)), persons receiving distributions from a charitable trust are not beneficiaries as that term is defined in this Act. However, charitable organizations expressly entitled to receive benefits under the terms of a charitable trust, even though not beneficiaries as defined, are granted the rights of qualified beneficiaries under the Act. See Section 408(f).

Also not traditionally classified as beneficiaries were individuals eligible to receive distributions in the discretion of the trustee. However, under paragraph (1), individuals who may receive distributions in the discretion of the trustee are classified as beneficiaries rather than as objects of a fiduciary power of appointment.

The Act leaves certain issues concerning beneficiaries to the common law. Any person with capacity to take and hold legal title to intended trust property has capacity to be a beneficiary. See Restatement (Third) of Trusts § 43 (Tentative Draft No. 2, 1999); Restatement (Second) of Trusts §§ 116-119 (1959). Absent a

1 violation of public policy, the extent of a beneficiary's interest is determined solely 2 by the settlor's intent. See Restatement (Third) of Trusts § 49 (Tentative Draft No.
3 2, 1999); Restatement (Second) of Trusts §§ 127-129 (1959). While most 4 beneficial interests terminate upon a beneficiary's death, the interest of a beneficiary 5 may devolve by will or intestate succession the same as a corresponding legal 6 interest. See Restatement (Third) of Trusts § 55 (Tentative Draft No. 2, 1999);
7 Restatement (Second) of Trusts §§ 140, 142 (1959).

8 Under the Act, only the charitable portion of a trust with both charitable and 9 noncharitable beneficiaries qualifies as a "charitable trust" (paragraph (2)).
10 Consequently, a split-interest trust will in certain instances be governed by two sets
11 of provisions, one applicable to the charitable interests, the other the noncharitable.

12 The definition of "fiduciary" (paragraph (4)) refers to the person holding a 13 fiduciary office as opposed to the duties or obligations of the office. A trustee may 14 engage in transactions with another trust, decedent's estate or conservatorship
15 estate of which the trustee is the fiduciary. See Section 802(g)(2). A trustee has a 16 duty to redress a breach of trust known to the trustee to have been committed by a 17 former trustee or other fiduciary from whom the trustee received trust property.
18 See Section 812.

19 Under the Act, a "guardian" (paragraph (5)) makes decisions with respect to 20 personal care; a "conservator" (paragraph (3)) manages property. The terminology
21 used is that employed in Article V of the Uniform Probate Code, and in its free-
22 standing Uniform Guardianship and Protective Proceedings Act. Enacting 23 jurisdictions not using these terms in the defined sense should substitute their own 24 terminology. For this reason, both terms have been placed in brackets. The 25 definition of "guardian" accommodates those jurisdictions which allow appointment
26 of a guardian by a parent or spouse in addition to appointment by a court. Enacting 27 jurisdictions which allow appointment of a guardian solely by a court should delete 28 the bracketed language "[, a parent, or a spouse]."

29 The phrase "interests of the beneficiaries" (paragraph (6)) is used with some 30 frequency in the Act. While a settlor is free in the terms of the trust to alter the 31 duties of the trustee which would otherwise apply, in no event may the settlor alter
32 the requirement, stated in Section 801, that a trustee administer the trust with regard 33 to the interests of the beneficiaries. See Section 103(b)(2). Similarly, absent an 34 overriding provision in the terms of the trust, a trustee may not change a trust's 35 principal place of administration if such transfer would be detrimental to the 36 interests of the beneficiaries. See Section 107(c). Other places where the phrase is 37 used are Section 706(c), authorizing the court to order such relief as necessary to 38 protect the interests of the beneficiaries pending a final determination on a petition 39 for removal, and Section 813(b)(5), negating a requirement to disclose certain

1 transactions in advance if such disclosure would impair the interests of the 2 beneficiaries. The definition of “interests of the beneficiaries “ clarifies that the 3 interests are as determined by the settlor and not by the beneficiaries.

4 The fact that a person does not have actual knowledge of a particular fact
5 does not mean that the person did not “know” the fact (paragraph (7)). But neither 6 is a person charged with knowledge of facts the person would have discovered upon
7 investigation. This definition takes an intermediate approach. A fact is known to a 8 person if the person had actual knowledge of the fact or had reason to know of the 9 fact’s existence based on all of the circumstances and other facts actually known to 10 the person. “Know” is used in its defined sense in Sections 812 (duty to redress 11 breach of trust committed by predecessor), and 1011 (protection of person dealing 12 with trustee). But actual knowledge is required if the knowledge requirement
13 relates to a proceeding in court. See Sections 203 (notice of judicial settlement), 14 306 (appointment of representative), and 604 (limitation on contest of revocable 15 trust). And for certain actions, a person is charged with knowledge of facts the 16 person would have discovered upon reasonable inquiry. See Sections 1006 17 (limitation of action against trustee following report), and 1009 (nonliability of 18 trustee upon beneficiary’s consent, release, or ratification).

19 The definition of “property” (paragraph (10)) removes any lingering
20 uncertainty that a revocable designation under an employee plan or life insurance
21 contract is not a sufficient property interest to activate a trust. See also Section
22 401 and Comment (methods of creating trust).

23 Because of the difficulty of identifying beneficiaries with remote contingent 24 interests and their probable lack of interest in the day-to-day affairs of the trust, the 25 Act uses the concept of “qualified beneficiary” (paragraph (11)) to limit the class of 26 beneficiaries to whom certain notices must be given or consents received. The 27 definition of qualified beneficiaries is used to define the class to whom notice must 28 be given of a trustee resignation. See Section 705(a)(1). A qualified beneficiary 29 must receive the trustee’s annual report and other notices required by Section 813.
30 Notice to the qualified beneficiaries is also required before a trust may be combined 31 or divided. See Section 415. Actions which may be accomplished by the consent of 32 the qualified beneficiaries include the appointment of a successor trustee. See 33 Section 704 (filling vacancy in trusteeship). Prior to transferring a trust’s principal 34 place of administration, the trustee must give at least 60 days notice to the qualified 35 beneficiaries. Such transfer may also include the appointment of a new trustee if 36 approved by all of the qualified beneficiaries. See Section 107(c).

37 The qualified beneficiaries are limited to the beneficiaries currently eligible to 38 receive a distribution from the trust as well as what might be termed the first line 39 remaindermen, that is, the beneficiaries who would receive the principal were the

1 event triggering the trust's termination to occur on the date in question. Such a 2 terminating event will typically be the death or deaths of the beneficiaries currently 3 eligible to receive the income. Should a qualified beneficiary be a minor,
4 incapacitated, unknown or unascertained, the representation and virtual
5 representation principles of Article 3 may be employed, including the possible
6 appointment by the court of a representative to represent the beneficiary's interest.

7 Charitable trusts and trusts for a valid noncharitable purpose do not have 8 beneficiaries in the usual sense. However, certain persons, while not technically 9 beneficiaries, do have an interest in seeing that the trust is enforced. In the case of a
10 charitable trust, this includes the Attorney General and charitable organizations 11 designated to receive benefits under the terms of the trust. To permit such 12 organizations to protect their interests, Section 408(f) provides that charitable 13 organizations expressly designated to receive benefits under the terms of a charitable 14 trust have the rights of qualified beneficiaries. Similarly granted the rights of 15 qualified beneficiaries are persons appointed by the terms of the trust or by the court
16 to enforce a trust created for an animal or other noncharitable purpose. See 17 Sections 406(b), 407(2).

18 The definition of "record" (paragraph (12)) is derived from the proposed 19 Uniform Electronic Transactions Act § 102(14) (Mar. 19, 1999 draft). The 20 definition recognizes that trust instruments may be prepared in forms other than 21 typewritten pages with a signature in pen. Because of the novelty of a trust 22 instrument executed in electronic form and the ease with which the term "record"
23 can be confused with recording of documents, the Act does not use the term
24 "record" in isolation but consistently refers to "writing or other record."

25 The definition of "settlor" (paragraph (13)) refers to the person who creates 26 a trust, whether by will, self-declaration, transfer of property to another person as 27 trustee, or exercise of a power of appointment. See Section 401(a). Determining 28 the identity of the "settlor" is usually not an issue. The same person will both sign
29 the trust instrument and fund the trust. Ascertaining the identity of the settlor 30 becomes more difficult when more than one person signs the trust instrument or 31 funds the trust. The fact that a person is designated as the "settlor" by the terms of 32 the trust is not necessarily determinative. For example, the person who executes the 33 trust instrument may be acting as the agent for the person who will be funding the 34 trust. In that case, the person funding the trust, and not the person signing the trust 35 instrument, will be the settlor. Similarly, should more than one person contribute to 36 a trust, all of the contributors will ordinarily be treated as settlors in proportion to 37 their respective contributions, regardless of which one signed the trust instrument.
38 However, in the case of a revocable trust, transfers made to the trust by a person
39 who did not participate in the trust's creation will frequently be intended as a

1 donative transfer to the person who originally created the trust. In that event, only 2 the person who created the trust, and not the later donor, will be the settlor.

3 Ascertaining the identity of the settlor is important for a variety of reasons.
4 It is important for determining rights in revocable trusts. See Sections 505(a)(1), 5 (3) (creditor claims against settlor of revocable trust), 602 (revocation or 6 modification of revocable trust), and 604 (limitation on contest of revocable trust).
7 It is also important for determining rights of creditors in irrevocable trusts. See 8 Section 505(a)(2) (creditor can reach maximum amount trustee could distribute to 9 settlor). While the settlor of an irrevocable trust traditionally has no continuing 10 rights over the trust except for a right to terminate the trust with the beneficiaries'
11 consent (see Section 410), under the Act the settlor of an irrevocable trust may 12 petition for removal of the trustee and to enforce or modify a charitable trust. See 13 Sections 706 (removal of trustee) and 408 (charitable trusts).

14 “Spendthrift provision” (paragraph (14)) means a term of a trust which 15 restrains the transfer of a beneficiary’s interest, whether by a voluntary act of the 16 beneficiary or by an action by a beneficiary’s creditor or assignee, which at least as 17 far as the beneficiary is concerned, would be involuntary. The effect of a valid
18 spendthrift provision is addressed in Article 5. The presence of a spendthrift 19 provision may also constitute a material purpose sufficient to prevent the 20 termination of a trust by agreement of the beneficiaries, although the Act does not 21 presume this result. See Section 410(a).

22 “Terms of a trust” (paragraph (16)) is a defined term used frequently in the 23 Act. While the wording of a written trust instrument is almost always the most 24 important determinant of a trust’s terms, the definition is not so limited. Oral 25 statements, the settlor’s family circumstances, and, to the extent the settlor was 26 otherwise silent, rules of construction, all may have a bearing on determining a 27 trust’s meaning. If a trust established by order of court is to be administered as an 28 express trust, the terms of the trust are determined from the court order as 29 interpreted in light of the general rules governing interpretation of judgments. See 30 Restatement (Third) of Trusts § 4 and cmt. f (Tentative Draft No. 1, 1996). See 31 also Restatement (Second) of Trusts § 4 (1959).

32 Not all evidence may necessarily be considered in determining the terms of a
33 trust. A manifestation of a settlor’s intention does not constitute evidence of a 34 trust’s terms if it would be inadmissible in a judicial proceeding in which the trust’s
35 terms are in question. See Restatement (Second) of Trusts § 4 cmt. a, b (1959);
36 Restatement (Third) of Trusts § 4 cmt. b (Tentative Draft No. 1, 1996). See also 37 Restatement (Third) Property: Wills and Other Donative Transfers §§ 10.2, 38 11.1-11.3 (Tentative Draft No. 1, 1995). For example, in many States a trust of real 39 property is unenforceable unless evidenced by a writing, although this Act does not

1 so require, leaving this issue to be covered, if the enacting jurisdiction so elects, by 2 separate statute. See Section 405 (evidence of oral trust). Evidence otherwise
3 relevant to determining the terms of a trust may also be excluded under other 4 principles of law, such as the parol evidence rule.

5 To allow a trustee to administer a trust with some dispatch without concern
6 about liability if the terms of a written trust instrument are contradicted by evidence
7 outside of the instrument, Section 1007 protects a trustee from liability to the extent
8 a breach of trust resulted from reasonable reliance on such written terms.

9 Under the Act, a “trust” (paragraph (17)) means an express trust, whether 10 private or charitable, including a trust created by statute, court judgment or decree
11 which is to be administered in the manner of an express trust. Excluded from the 12 Act’s coverage are resulting and constructive trusts, which are not express trusts but 13 remedial devices imposed by law. The Act is directed primarily at express trusts 14 which arise in an estate planning or other donative context, but the definition of 15 “trust” is not so limited. A trust created pursuant to a divorce action would be 16 included, even though such a trust is not donative but is created pursuant to a
17 bargained for exchange. The extent to which even more commercially-oriented 18 trusts are subject to the Act will vary depending on the type of trust and the laws, 19 other than this Act, under which the trust is created. Commercial trusts come in 20 various forms, including trusts created pursuant to a state business trust act and 21 trusts created to administer specified funds, such as to pay a pension or to manage
22 pooled investments. See John H. Langbein, The Secret Life of the Trust: The Trust
23 as an Instrument of Commerce, 107 Yale L.J. 165 (1997).

24 The definition of “trustee” (paragraph (18)) includes not only the original 25 trustee but also an additional and successor trustee as well as a cotrustee. Because 26 the definition of trustee includes trustees of all types, a trustee of any type, whether 27 original or succeeding, single or cotrustee, has the powers of a trustee and is subject
28 to the duties imposed on trustees under the Act. Any natural person, including a 29 settlor or beneficiary, has capacity to act as trustee if the person has capacity to hold 30 title to property free of trust. See Restatement (Third) of Trusts § 32 (Tentative 31 Draft No. 2, 1999); Restatement (Second) of Trusts § 89 (1959). State banking 32 statutes normally impose additional requirements before a corporation may act as 33 trustee.

34 SECTION 103. MANDATORY RULES.

1 (a) Except as otherwise provided in subsection (b), the terms of the trust
2 may govern the duties and powers of a trustee, relations among trustees, and the 3 rights and interests of a beneficiary.

4 (b) The terms of a trust may not alter:

5 (1) the requirements for creating a trust;

6 (2) the requirement that a trustee act as a fiduciary, in good faith, and 7 with regard to the purposes of the trust and the interests of the beneficiaries;

8 (3) the power of the court to take such action and exercise such 9 jurisdiction as may be necessary in the interests of justice, including:

10 (A) appointing a [representative] pursuant to Section 306;

11 (B) requiring a trustee to furnish bond pursuant to Section 702;

12 (C) removing a trustee pursuant to Section 706;

13 (D) entertaining actions for breach of trust pursuant to Sections 1002
14 through 1005;

15 (4) the ability of the beneficiaries pursuant to Section 410(a) to terminate 16 a trust that no longer serves a material purpose;

17 (5) the power of the court to terminate or modify a charitable trust
18 pursuant to Section 408, and the power of the court to terminate or modify any 19 trust, whether charitable or noncharitable, pursuant to Sections 410 through 414;

20 (6) the validity and effect of a spendthrift provision and the rights of 21 creditors as provided in [Article] 5;

22 (7) the period under Section 604 for contesting a revocable trust;

1 (8) the duties to keep the beneficiaries informed and to report to 2 beneficiaries, as required by Section 813; [and]
3 (9) the rights under Sections 1010 through 1012 of a person other than a 4 beneficiary[; and
5 (10) the subject-matter jurisdiction of the court and venue for 6 commencing a proceeding as provided in Sections 204 and 205].

7 Comment

8 This Act is a default statute. The duties and powers of a trustee, relations 9 among trustees, and the rights and interests of a beneficiary are in general as 10 specified in the terms of the trust. Subsection (a) states this general principle;
11 subsection (b) specifies the limits.

12 Before a settlor may alter the duties and powers specified in the Act a trust
13 must first exist. Similar to other legal arrangements, such as the execution of a will, 14 the requirements for a trust's creation, such as the necessary level of capacity, are 15 controlled by the statute, not the settlor. See subsection (b)(1). Nor may the terms 16 alter the period for contesting the validity of trust. See subsection (b)(7). For the 17 requirements for creating a trust, see Sections 401-407.

18 Similarly, a settlor may not so negate the responsibilities of a trustee that the 19 trustee would no longer be acting in a fiduciary capacity. The terms may not 20 eliminate a trustee's duty to act in good faith and in accordance with the purposes of 21 the trust and the interests of the beneficiaries. See subsection (b)(2)). This duty is 22 fundamental to the Act. See Sections 801 (duty to administer trust), 814 (duties 23 with regard to discretionary power), 1008 (exculpation of trustee).

24 Nor may the terms of a trust deny a court authority to take such action as 25 necessary in the interests of justice. See subsection (b)(3). Additionally, should the 26 enacting jurisdiction elect to enact the optional provisions on subject-matter 27 jurisdiction and venue, such provisions likewise cannot be altered in the terms of the 28 trust. See subsection (b)(10).

29 Certain provisions relating to trust termination or modification are not 30 subject to variation in the terms of the trust. However, all of these provisions 31 involve situations where the purpose of the trust has been achieved, a mistake was 32 made in the trust's creation, or circumstances have arisen which were not 33 anticipated by the settlor. See subsections (b)(4)-(5) and Sections 410-414.

1 While the settlor is generally free to determine the rights and interests of the 2 beneficiaries, a settlor is not free to limit the rights of other persons, such as 3 purchasers of trust property. See subsection (b)(9). A couple of limitations are 4 included as a matter of public policy. The claims of certain classes of creditors are 5 exempt from a spendthrift bar. See subsection (b)(6) and Sections 503, 504.
6 Additionally, a settlor may negate the obligation to keep the qualified beneficiaries
7 reasonably informed only to the extent provided in Section 813.

8 SECTION 104. NOTICE TO BENEFICIARIES.

9 (a) Whenever notice to the qualified beneficiaries of a trust is required under 10 this [Act], the trustee must also give notice to a beneficiary not otherwise entitled to 11 notice who has delivered to the trustee a request for special notice.

12 (b) Whenever notice to a person is required under this [Act], a trustee need 13 not give notice to a person whose identity or location is unknown to and not 14 reasonably ascertainable by the trustee.

15 Comment

16 Under the Act, certain notices must be given only to the “qualified”
17 beneficiaries. For the definition of “qualified beneficiary,” see Section 102(11).
18 Among these notices are notice of a trustee resignation (Section 705(a)(1)), notice
19 of a trustee’s annual report (Section 813(c)), notice of a trust division or 20 combination (Section 415), and notice of a transfer of the trust’s principal place of 21 administration (Section 107(c)). Subsection (a) of this section authorizes other 22 beneficiaries to receive one or more of such notices by filing a request for special 23 notice with the trustee.

24 Subsection (b) relieves a trustee of responsibility for what would otherwise 25 be an impossible task, the giving of notice to a person whose identity or location is 26 unknown and not reasonably ascertainable by the trustee.

27 Under the Act, certain actions, such as the appointment of a successor
28 trustee, can be accomplished by the consent of the qualified beneficiaries. See 29 Section 704 (filling vacancy in trusteeship). This section only addresses notice, not 30 required consent. A person who makes a request for special notice does not thereby 31 acquire a right to participate in actions that can be taken only by the qualified 32 beneficiaries. Nor does the fact a qualified beneficiary is missing mean that the

1 consent of that qualified beneficiary is no longer required. However, the fact a 2 beneficiary is unascertained or cannot be located may be a sufficient basis for the 3 consent to be given by another person on the beneficiary's behalf under the 4 representation principles of Article 3.

5 SECTION 105. COMMON LAW OF TRUSTS. The common law of trusts
6 and principles of equity supplement this [Act], except to the extent modified by this 7 [Act] or another statute of this State.

8 Comment

9 The Act codifies those portions of the law of express trusts that are most 10 amenable to codification. The Act is supplemented by the common law of trusts, 11 including principles of equity, particularly as articulated in the Restatement of 12 Trusts, Restatement of Property 3d: Wills and Other Donative Transfers, and the 13 Restatement of Restitution. The common law of trusts is not static but includes the 14 contemporary and evolving rules of decision developed by the courts in exercise of 15 their power to adapt the law to new situations and changing conditions.

16 SECTION 106. CHOICE OF LAW.

17 (a) A trust not created by will is validly created if its creation complies with 18 the law of this State, the law of the place where, at the time of creation, the settlor
19 was domiciled, had a place of abode, or was a national, or the law of the place 20 where at the time of creation a trustee was domiciled or had a place of business.

21 (b) The meaning and effect of the terms of a trust are determined by:

22 (1) the law of the State designated in those terms unless the application
23 of that State's law is contrary to a significant public policy of this State applicable to 24 the trust; or

25 (2) in the absence of a controlling designation in the terms of the trust, 26 the law of the State most significantly related to the issue in question.

1 Comment

2 Subsection (a) is derived from Section 2-506 of the Uniform Probate Code,
3 which validates wills executed in compliance with the law of a variety of places
4 where the testator had a significant contact. Unlike the UPC, however, this 5 provision is not limited to execution of the instrument but applies to the entire 6 process of a trust's creation, which includes the requirement of trust property. See 7 Section 402 (requirements for trust creation). In addition, unlike the UPC, this 8 section validates a trust based on the domicile or place of business of the designated 9 fiduciary.

10 Subsection (b), which is derived in part from Section 2-703 of the Uniform
11 Probate Code, allows a settlor to select the law to govern the meaning and effect of 12 the terms of a trust, regardless of where the trust property may be physically 13 located, whether it consists of real or personal property, and whether the trust was 14 created by will or during the settlor's lifetime.

15 Subsection (b) does not attempt to specify the particular public policies
16 sufficient to override a settlor's expression of intent. These public policies will vary
17 depending upon the locale and may change over time. But certain examples do 18 recur. Trusts which seek to defeat the marital property rights of a surviving spouse 19 or to encourage a beneficiary to divorce are examples of trusts which, depending on 20 the particular jurisdiction, may be overridden on public policy grounds. The mere 21 fact that a term of a trust is contrary to a public policy of the forum jurisdiction does 22 not necessarily mean that the term is invalid. The public policy violated must also 23 have some connection to the trust. The fact that the forum is a convenient location 24 to resolve a dispute does not mean that the court in the forum jurisdiction should 25 apply its own public policy restrictions if the forum is neither the trust's principal 26 place of administration nor a jurisdiction otherwise having a significant connection 27 with the trust or its beneficiaries.

28 SECTION 107. PRINCIPAL PLACE OF ADMINISTRATION.

29 (a) Except as otherwise provided in subsections (b) and (c), the principal 30 place of a trust's administration is the usual place where the day-to-day activity of 31 the trust is carried on by the trustee or cotrustee who is primarily responsible for its 32 administration. The trustee is under a continuing duty to administer a trust at a 33 place appropriate to its purposes and its sound efficient administration.

1 (b) Without precluding other means for establishing a sufficient connection
2 with the designated jurisdiction, terms of a trust designating the principal place of 3 administration are valid and controlling if:

4 (1) a trustee's principal place of business is located in or a trustee is a 5 resident of the designated jurisdiction; and

6 (2) all or part of the administration occurs in the designated jurisdiction.

7 (c) A trustee may transfer a trust's principal place of administration to 8 another State or country, if the transfer would facilitate the administration of the 9 trust and not impair the interests of the beneficiaries. Not less than 60 days before 10 initiating the transfer, the trustee must notify the qualified beneficiaries. In 11 connection with a transfer of the trust's principal place of administration, the trustee
12 may transfer some or all of the trust property to a new trustee outside this State if:

13 (A) the transfer is approved by unanimous agreement of the qualified 14 beneficiaries or by the court; and

15 (B) a trustee or successor trustee designated in the terms of the trust is 16 not able or willing to act in the new jurisdiction.

17 Comment

18 This section prescribes rules for determining a trust's principal place of 19 administration. Locating a trust's principal place of administration will ordinarily 20 determine where the trustee and beneficiaries are subject to suit concerning the trust.
21 It may also be important for other matters, such as payment of state income tax.

22 Under the Act, the fixing of a trust's principal place of administration will 23 determine where the trustee and beneficiaries have consented to suit (Section 202), 24 and the rules for locating venue within a particular State (Section 205). It may also 25 be considered by a court in another jurisdiction in determining whether it has 26 jurisdiction, and if so, whether it is a convenient forum.

1 Subsection (a) fixes the principal place of administration as the place where 2 the day-to-day activity of the trust is carried on by the trustee or cotrustee primarily
3 for the trust's administration. Settlers who expect to name a trustee or cotrustees
4 with significant contacts in more than one State may wish to address this issue in the 5 terms of the trust. Pursuant to subsection (b), a designation in the terms of the trust 6 is controlling if (1) a trustee is a resident of or has its principal place of business in 7 the designated jurisdiction, and (2) all or part of the administration occurs in the 8 designated jurisdiction. Designating the principal place of administration should be 9 distinguished from designating the law to determine the meaning and effect of the 10 trust's terms, as allowed by Section 106. A settlor is free to designate one 11 jurisdiction as the principal place of administration and another to control the 12 meaning of the dispositive provisions.

13 Most trusts will be controlled by subsection (a), which fixes the principal 14 place of administration at the place where the day-to-day activity of the trust is 15 carried on. The place where the day-to-day activity is carried on will fix the 16 principal place of administration even if the trust is created by will or contains real
17 property. For financial-service institution trustees, the place where the day-to-day 18 activity is carried on will usually be the place where the personal trust officer is 19 located and not the place where the investments are safeguarded or records 20 processed.

21 Subsection (c) addresses changing the principal place of administration.
22 Such a change may be desirable to secure a lower state income tax rate. Other 23 reasons may include the relocation of the trustee or beneficiaries, the appointment of 24 a new trustee, or a change in the location of the trust investments. This section is 25 not limited to transfers of jurisdiction to or from other States of the United States
26 but may include a transfer of jurisdiction to or from a different country.

27 Subsection (c) recognizes that a change in the principal place of 28 administration occurs upon the trustee's removal to another State and the carrying 29 on of the day-to-day activity of the trust in the new place. Pursuant to subsection 30 (a) of this section, the new location will become a new principal place of 31 administration, and under Section 202(a), the trustee will have consented to the 32 jurisdiction of the court in the new place. The trustee, following the move, may also 33 remain subject to the jurisdiction of the courts in the former place as to acts which 34 occurred prior to the move.

35 The procedure specified in subsection (c) for transferring a trust's principal 36 place of administration applies only in the absence of a contrary provision in the 37 terms of the trust. See Section 103. Absent such contrary intent, the trustee, before 38 initiating the transfer, must give at least 60 days notice to the qualified beneficiaries.
39 This allows the qualified beneficiaries time to express any disapproval and, if

1 necessary, take appropriate action to block the transfer. In connection with a 2 transfer of the principal place of administration, the trustee may transfer some or all
3 of the trust property to a new trustee located outside of the State. However, in 4 conformity with Section 704(c), which provides a procedure for filling a vacancy in 5 a trusteeship, such an appointment may be made only if approved by all of the 6 qualified beneficiaries or by the court. Also, the procedure provided in subsection
7 (c) may not be used to bypass the succession provided in the terms of the trust. As 8 long as a successor designated in those terms is able and willing to act in the new 9 jurisdiction, the designated successor is entitled to act.

10 While transfer of the principal place of administration will normally change 11 the governing law with respect to administrative matters, a transfer does not 12 normally alter the controlling law with respect to the validity of the trust and the 13 construction of its beneficial provisions.

14 SECTION 108. NONJUDICIAL SETTLEMENTS.

15 (a) An interested person may be represented and bound with respect to a 16 settlement agreement concerning a trust, whether or not the agreement is approved 17 by the court.

18 (b) Nonjudicial settlement agreements may include only terms and 19 conditions a court could properly approve. The agreement is binding, even if it 20 affects a trust or an inalienable interest.

21 (c) In connection with a nonjudicial settlement, the consent of a person who 22 may represent another person under [Article] 3 is the consent of the person
23 represented.

24 (d) Nonjudicial settlement agreements may extend to any question or 25 dispute involving a trust, including:

26 (1) the interpretation or construction of the terms of the trust;

27 (2) the approval of a trustee's report or accounting;

(3) direction to a trustee to refrain from performing a particular act or the grant to the trustee of any necessary or desirable power;

(4) a change of trustee or determination of a trustee's compensation;

(5) a change in a trust's principal place of administration;

(6) the modification of the trust to comply with federal and state statutes and regulations to achieve qualification for deductions, elections, or other tax provisions; and

(7) the liability of a trustee for actions or failures to act relating to the trust.

Comment

While the Act recognizes that a court may intervene in the administration of a trust to the extent its jurisdiction is invoked by interested persons or otherwise exercised as provided by law (see Section 201(a)), resolution of disputes by nonjudicial means is encouraged. The purpose of this section is to facilitate the making of such agreements by giving them the same effect as if approved by the court.

To achieve such certainty, however, the nonjudicial settlement must concern a matter that the court could properly approve. Under this section, a nonjudicial settlement cannot be used to produce a result not authorized by law, such as to terminate a trust in an impermissible manner.

Trusts ordinarily have beneficiaries who are minors, incapacitated, unborn or unascertained. Because such beneficiaries cannot signify their consent to an agreement, binding settlements can ordinarily be achieved only through the application of doctrines such as virtual representation or appointment of a guardian ad litem, doctrines traditionally available only in the case of judicial settlements. The effect of this section and the Act more generally is to allow for such binding representation even if the agreement is not approved by the court. For the rules on representation, including appointments of representatives by the court to approve particular settlements, see Article 3.

1 Subsection (d) is a nonexclusive list of matters to which a nonjudicial
2 settlement may pertain. Other matters which may be made the subject of a
3 nonjudicial settlement are listed in the Article 3 General Comment.

1
2

3
4
5
6
7
8
9

10
11
12
13
14
15
16
17
18

19 20
21
22
23

24

25
26
27

28
29

ARTICLE 2
JUDICIAL PROCEEDINGS

General Comment

This article addresses selected issues involving judicial proceedings concerning trusts, particularly trusts with contacts in more than one State or country. This article is not intended to provide comprehensive coverage of court jurisdiction or procedure with respect to trusts. Many such issues are better addressed elsewhere, such as in the State’s rules of civil procedure or as provided by court rule.

The jurisdiction of the court is available as invoked by interested persons or as otherwise provided by law (Section 201). Proceedings involving the administration of a trust will normally be brought in the court at the trust’s principal place of administration, which is determined under Section 107. The trustee and beneficiaries are deemed to have consented to the jurisdiction of the court at the principal place of administration as to any matter relating to the trust (Section 202). Section 203 specifies the persons who must be notified of a judicial settlement in order to bind a beneficiary represented under Article 3. Sections 204 and 205 are optional, bracketed provisions relating to subject-matter jurisdiction and venue.

The jurisdictional issues addressed in this part are also addressed in Article VII of the Uniform Probate Code, but the Drafting Committee has elected not to adopt the UPC provisions relating to trust registration. In this it is following the example of a number of States which have enacted Article VII of the UPC without the trust registration feature.

SECTION 201. ROLE OF COURT IN ADMINISTRATION OF TRUST.

(a) The court may intervene in the administration of a trust to the extent its jurisdiction is invoked by interested persons or otherwise exercised as provided by law.

(b) The commencement of a judicial proceeding involving a trust need not result in continuing judicial supervision.

1 (c) A judicial proceeding involving a trust may relate to any matter
2 concerning the trust's administration and distribution, including a petition for 3 instructions and an action to declare rights.

4 Comment

5 While the Act encourages the resolution of disputes without resort to the 6 courts through such options as the nonjudicial settlement authorized by Section 108,
7 the court is always available to the extent its jurisdiction is invoked by interested
8 persons. The jurisdiction of the court with respect to trust matters is inherent and 9 historical and includes the ability to act on its own initiative, to appoint a special
10 master to investigate the facts of a case, and to provide a trustee with instructions 11 even in the absence of a dispute.

12 Contrary to the trust statutes in some States, the Act does not create a 13 system of court supervision. While a court may direct that a particular trust be 14 subject to continuing court supervision, subsection (b) makes clear that invoking the 15 court's jurisdiction to decide a particular matter does not necessitate this result.

16 Subsection (c) makes clear that the court's jurisdiction may be invoked even 17 absent an actual dispute. Traditionally, courts in equity have heard petitions for 18 instructions and have issued declaratory judgments. This section makes clear that 19 this Act does not limit this historic jurisdiction. Beyond mentioning petitions for 20 instructions and actions to declare rights, subsection (c) does not attempt to list the 21 types of judicial proceedings involving trust administration that might be brought by 22 a trustee or beneficiary. But such an effort is made in California Probate Code
23 § 17200. Excluding matters not germane to the Uniform Trust Act, the California 24 statute lists the following as items relating to the "internal affairs" of a trust:

25 (1) Determining questions of construction;

26 (2) Determining the existence or nonexistence of any immunity, power, 27 privilege, duty, or right;

28 (3) Determining the validity of a trust provision;

29 (4) Ascertaining beneficiaries and determining to whom property will pass
30 upon final or partial termination of the trust;

31 (5) Settling accounts and passing upon the acts of a trustee, including the 32 exercise of discretionary powers;

- 1 (6) Instructing the trustee;
- 2 (7) Compelling the trustee to report information about the trust or account 3 to the beneficiary;
- 4 (8) Granting powers to the trustee;
- 5 (9) Fixing or allowing payment of the trustee's compensation or reviewing 6 the reasonableness of the compensation;
- 7 (10) Appointing or removing a trustee;
- 8 (11) Accepting the resignation of a trustee;
- 9 (12) Compelling redress of a breach of trust by any available remedy;
- 10 (13) Approving or directing the modification or termination of a trust;
- 11 (14) Approving or directing the combination or division of trusts; and
- 12 (15) Authorizing or directing transfer of a trust or trust property to or from 13 another jurisdiction.

14 SECTION 202. JURISDICTION OVER TRUSTEE AND 15 BENEFICIARY.

16 (a) By accepting the trusteeship of a trust having its principal place of 17 administration in this State, or by moving the principal place of administration to this 18 State, the trustee submits personally to the jurisdiction of the courts of this State as 19 to any matter relating to the trust.

20 (b) A beneficiary of a trust having its principal place of administration in this 21 State is subject to the jurisdiction of the courts of this State as to any matter relating 22 to the trust.

23 Comment

1 This section, which is based in part on Arizona Revised Statutes § 14-7202,
2 clarifies that the courts of the principal place of administration have jurisdiction to 3 enter orders relating to the trust that will be binding on both the trustee and 4 beneficiaries. Consent to jurisdiction does not dispense with any required notice,
5 however. With respect to jurisdiction over a beneficiary, the Comment to Uniform
6 Probate Code § 7-103, upon which the Arizona statute is based, is instructive:

7 It also seems reasonable to require beneficiaries to go to the seat of the trust
8 when litigation has been instituted there concerning a trust in which they claim 9 beneficial interests, much as the rights of shareholders of a corporation can be 10 determined at a corporate seat. The settlor has indicated a principal place of 11 administration by its selection of a trustee or otherwise, and it is reasonable to 12 subject rights under the trust to the jurisdiction of the Court where the trust is 13 properly administered.

14 Obtaining jurisdiction over the trustee and beneficiaries pursuant to this 15 section does not preclude jurisdiction elsewhere on some other basis. Furthermore,
16 the fact that the courts in the new State acquire jurisdiction following a change in a 17 trust's principal place of administration does not mean that the courts of the former 18 principal place of administration necessarily lose jurisdiction, particularly as to 19 matters involving events which occurred prior to the removal.

20 SECTION 203. NOTICE OF JUDICIALLY APPROVED

21 SETTLEMENT. Notice to a person who may be represented and bound under 22 [Article] 3 of an agreement to be approved by the court must be given:

23 (1) directly to the person or to one who may bind the person if the person
24 may be represented and bound under Section 303 or 304; or

25 (2) to all persons whose interests in the judicial proceedings are substantially 26 identical and whose identities and locations are actually known if the person may be 27 represented and bound under Section 305.

28 Comment

29 This section, which is based on Section 1-403(3) of the Uniform Probate
30 Code, specifies the notice requirements which must be met when the interests of one 31 or more persons to be bound by a judicial settlement are represented by others as

1 provided in Article 3. If, as authorized by Section 303, the holder of a general
2 testamentary power of appointment is representing those whose interests are subject
3 to the power, notice to the permissible appointees, takers in default, or others whose 4 interests are subject to the power is achieved by giving notice to the holder. If, as 5 authorized by Section 304, the person to be bound is represented by a conservator,
6 guardian, agent, trustee, personal representative, or parent, notice to the person
7 represented is achieved by giving notice to the fiduciary or parent. If representation
8 is virtual as authorized by Section 305, that is, if representation is assumed because 9 others have substantially identical interests, notice to the person represented is 10 achieved by giving notice to all persons whose interests in the judicial proceedings 11 are substantially identical and whose identities and locations are actually known.

12 [SECTION 204. SUBJECT-MATTER JURISDICTION.]

13 (a) The [designate] court has exclusive jurisdiction of proceedings brought 14 by a trustee or beneficiary concerning the administration of a trust.

15 (b) The [designate] court has concurrent jurisdiction with other courts of 16 this State of proceedings to determine the existence of a trust, proceedings by or 17 against creditors or debtors of trusts, and other judicial proceedings involving 18 trustees, beneficiaries, and other persons.]

19 Comment

20 This section provides a means for distinguishing the jurisdiction of the court 21 with primary jurisdiction for trust matters from the jurisdiction of other courts, 22 whether that court is denominated the probate court, chancery court, or by some 23 other name. The section has been placed in brackets because subject-matter 24 jurisdiction may already be addressed by other statute or court rule and may be 25 unnecessary to address in States having unified court systems.

26 For an explanation of types of proceedings which may be brought 27 concerning the administration of a trust, see the Comment to Section 201.
28 Subsection (a) of this section is derived from Section 7-201(a) of the Uniform
29 Probate Code. Subsection (b) is based on Section 7-204 of the Uniform Probate
30 Code.

The section is placed in brackets because in many States the subject of jurisdiction is addressed by separate legislation. Also, many States have only one category of trial court, making this section irrelevant.

[SECTION 205. VENUE.

(a) A judicial proceeding concerning a trust may be commenced in the [county] in which the trust's principal place of administration is or is to be located and, if the trust is created by will, in the [county] in which the decedent's estate is administered.

(b) If a trust created other than by will has no trustee, a judicial proceeding for the appointment of a trustee must be commenced in the [county] in which a beneficiary resides or the trust property, or some portion of the trust property, is located.

(c) A judicial proceeding other than one described in subsection (a) or (b) must be commenced in accordance with the rules of venue applicable to civil actions.]

Comment

This optional, bracketed section is based on Section 17005 of the California Probate Code and is made available for States which conclude that venue for a judicial proceeding involving a trust is not adequately addressed in the State's rules of civil procedure.

Subsection (b) applies only to appointment of a trustee of a trust not created by will. Judicial proceedings to appoint a trustee of a trust created by will are commenced in the county where the decedent's estate is administered. See subsection (a).

Subsection (c) provides venue rules applicable in cases not covered by subsections (a) and (b). This would include proceedings where jurisdiction over a trust, trust property, or parties to a trust is based on a factor other than that the

1 principal place of administration is in this State. When the principal place of 2 administration of a trust is in another State, but jurisdiction is proper in this State,
3 the general rules governing venue apply.

1
2

3
4
5
6
7
8
9

10
11
12
13
14
15

16
17

18
19 20

21

22
23

24

25

26
27

28
29
30
31

ARTICLE 3
REPRESENTATION

General Comment

This article deals with representation of beneficiaries, both representation by fiduciaries (personal representatives, guardians and conservators), and what is known as virtual representation. Virtual representation is a doctrine which allows binding representation by others of beneficiaries who are unborn or unascertained, and under more modern versions, beneficiaries who may be alive and known but who are legally incapacitated.

Section 301 is the general and introductory section, laying out the scope of the article. The representation principles of this article have numerous applications under this Act. The representation principles of the article apply for purposes of settlement of disputes, whether by a court or nonjudicially. They apply for the giving of required notices. They apply for the giving of consents to certain actions. The representation principles of this article may be used to facilitate:

- (1) Modification or termination of a trust upon the consent of the beneficiaries, with or without the consent of the settlor (Section 410);
- (2) Notice to qualified beneficiaries of a proposed trust combination or division (Section 415);
- (3) Notice to qualified beneficiary of temporary assumption of duties without accepting trusteeship (Section 701(c)(1));
- (4) Appointment of successor trustee upon agreement of qualified beneficiaries (Section 704(c)(1));
- (5) Notice to qualified beneficiaries of resignation of trustee (Section 705);
- (6) Notice of trustee’s report (Section 813); and
- (7) Nonliability of trustee upon consent, release, or affirmance of beneficiary (Section 1009).

Section 301 also clarifies that an agent with authority, a conservator, and a guardian, if no conservator has been appointed, may receive notices and give consents on behalf of the person represented. However, Sections 410 and 602, both of which are referred to in Section 301, limit the agent’s, conservator’s and

1 guardian's authority to revoke or terminate a trust that was created by the person
2 represented.

3 Section 302 deals with the effect of a consent, whether by actual or virtual
4 representation. A consent bars a later objection by the person represented, but a 5 consent is not binding if the person represented raises an objection prior to the date
6 the consent would otherwise become effective. The possibility that a beneficiary 7 might object to a consent given on the beneficiary's behalf will not be germane in 8 many cases because the person represented will be unborn or unascertained.
9 However, the representation principles of this article will sometimes apply to adult
10 and competent beneficiaries. For example, while the trustee of a revocable trust 11 entitled to a pourover devise has authority under Section 304 to approve the 12 personal representative's account on behalf of the trust beneficiaries, such consent
13 would not be binding on a trust beneficiary who registers an objection.

14 Section 303 deals with the effect of a consent by the holder of a general
15 testamentary power of appointment. (Revocable trusts and presently exercisable
16 general powers of appointment are covered by Section 603, which grant the settlor 17 or holder of the power all rights of the beneficiaries or persons whose interests are 18 subject to the power). Absent a conflict of interest, the holder of a general 19 testamentary power of appointment may bind those whose interests are subject to 20 the power.

21 Section 304 provides that a fiduciary, absent conflict of interest, may 22 represent and bind the beneficiary or beneficiaries of the respective fiduciary
23 relationship, whether of an estate, trust, conservatorship, or guardianship. Drawing
24 from Section 1-403 of the Uniform Probate Code, the section also allows a parent
25 without a conflict of interest to represent and bind a minor or unborn child. A 26 typical example of conflict of interest is a trustee who seeks the approval of an 27 accounting for an estate of which the trustee is acting as personal representative.

28 Section 305 is the virtual representation provision. It provides for 29 representation of and the giving of a binding consent on behalf of a minor,
30 incapacitated, unborn, or unascertained person by another person having a 31 substantially identical interest with respect to the particular issue. The minor, 32 incapacitated, unborn, or unascertained beneficiary is bound only to the extent (1)
33 the other person adequately represents the beneficiary's interest; (2) the beneficiary
34 is not otherwise represented under one sections of this article; and (3) there is no
35 conflict of interest between the of the other representative and the person
36 represented.

37 Section 306 authorizes the court to appoint a representative to represent the 38 interests of unrepresented persons or persons for whom the court concludes the

1 other available representation might be inadequate. To encourage the court to make 2 such appointments only when really needed, the court must first find that 3 representation of the beneficiary might otherwise be inadequate. Also, to encourage 4 some flexibility in how the representative approaches the job, the representative, in 5 approving a settlement, may consider general family benefit.

6 The provisions of this article are subject to modification in the terms of the 7 trust. See Section 103. Settlers are free to specify their own methods for providing 8 substituted notice and obtaining substituted consent.

9 SECTION 301. REPRESENTATION: BASIC PRINCIPLES.

10 (a) Whenever under this [Act] a notice to a beneficiary is required or 11 permitted, notice to a person who may represent and bind the beneficiary under this 12 [article] is notice to the beneficiary.

13 (b) Whenever under this [Act] a consent may be given by a beneficiary, the 14 consent of a person who may represent and bind the beneficiary under this [article]
15 is the consent of the beneficiary.

16 (c) Except as otherwise provided in Sections 410 and 602, a person who 17 under this [article] may represent a settlor who lacks capacity may receive notice
18 and give a binding consent on the settlor's behalf.

19 SECTION 302. EFFECT OF CONSENT BY REPRESENTATIVE;

20 OBJECTION. The consent of a person who may represent another under this 21 [article] is binding on the person represented unless the person represented objects
22 to the representation before the consent would otherwise have become effective.

1 SECTION 303. REPRESENTATION BY HOLDERS OF GENERAL
2 TESTAMENTARY POWER OF APPOINTMENT. To the extent there is no
3 conflict of interest between the holder of a general testamentary power of 4 appointment and the persons represented with respect to the particular question or 5 dispute, the holder may represent and bind persons whose interests, as permissible
6 appointees, takers in default, or otherwise, are subject to the power.

7 SECTION 304. REPRESENTATION BY FIDUCIARIES AND
8 PARENTS. To the extent there is no conflict of interest between the representative 9 and the person represented with respect to a particular question or dispute:
10 (1) a [conservator] may represent and bind the estate the [conservator]
11 controls;
12 (2) a [guardian] may represent and bind the ward if a [conservator] of the 13 ward's estate has not been appointed;
14 (3) an agent having authority to do so may represent and bind the principal;
15 (4) a trustee may represent and bind the beneficiaries of the trust;
16 (5) a personal representative of a decedent's estate may represent and bind 17 persons interested in the estate; and 18 (6) if a [conservator] or [guardian] has not been appointed, a parent may 19 represent and bind the parent's minor or unborn child.

1 SECTION 305. REPRESENTATION BY PERSON HAVING
2 SUBSTANTIALLY IDENTICAL INTEREST. Unless otherwise represented, a
3 minor, incapacitated, unborn, or unascertained person, or a person whose identity
4 and location is unknown and not reasonably ascertainable, may be represented by 5 and bound by another having a substantially identical interest with respect to the 6 particular question or dispute, but only to the extent that:
7 (1) the person’s interest is adequately represented; and 8 (2) there is no conflict of interest between the representative and the person
9 represented.

10 SECTION 306. APPOINTMENT OF REPRESENTATIVE.

11 (a) Even if there is representation under this [article], if the court determines 12 that representation of the interest might otherwise be inadequate, the court may 13 appoint a [representative] to represent the interest of and approve an agreement on 14 behalf of a minor, incapacitated, unborn, or unascertained person, or a person whose 15 identity or location is not actually known.

16 (b) If not precluded by conflict of interest, a [representative] may be 17 appointed to represent several persons or interests. In approving a settlement 18 agreement, a [representative] may consider general family benefit accruing to the 19 living members of the family of the person represented.

1
2
3

4
5
6
7
8
9
10
11
12
13
14
15
16

17
18
19 20
21
22

23
24
25
26
27
28
29
30
31
32
33
34

35
36
37

ARTICLE 4
CREATION, VALIDITY, MODIFICATION, AND TERMINATION OF TRUST

General Comment

Sections 401 through 407, which specify the requirements for the creation of a trust, track traditional doctrine. Section 401 specifies the methods by which trusts are created, that is by transfer of property, self-declaration, or exercise of a power of appointment. Section 402 lists the requirements for creation of a trust whatever method may have been employed. The requirements include intention, capacity and, for certain types of trusts, an ascertainable beneficiary. Section 403 enumerates purposes, such as illegality, for which a trust cannot be created, Section 404 lists some of the grounds for contesting a trust, Section 405 validates oral trusts. The remaining sections address what are traditionally referred to as “honorary” trusts, although such trusts are valid under this Act. Section 406 covers a trust for the care of an animal; Section 407 a trust created for another noncharitable purpose such as maintenance of a cemetery lot.

Section 408 lists special requirements for the creation, modification and termination of charitable trusts. Most significant are the provisions relating to cy pres. Absent contrary intent in the terms of the trust, upon failure of a particular charitable purpose, the trust does not revert to the settlor or settlor’s successors in interest, but instead must be distributed in accordance with the settlor’s charitable purposes.

Sections 409 through 415 provide a series of interrelated rules on when a trust may be terminated or modified other than by its express terms. The overall objective of these sections is to further the settlor’s intent. Termination or modification may be allowed upon beneficiary consent if the trust no longer achieves a material purpose or if the settlor concurs (Section 410), by the court in response to unanticipated circumstances or due to ineffective administrative terms (Section 411), or by the court or trustee if continued administration under the trust’s existing terms would be uneconomical (Section 412). Trusts may be reformed to correct a mistake of law or fact (Section 413), or modified to achieve the settlor’s tax objectives (Section 414). Trusts may be combined or divided (Section 415). A trustee or beneficiary has standing to petition the court with respect to a proposed termination or modification (Section 409).

Because a trust must first exist before a settlor may specify its terms, the requirements for the creation of a trust may not be altered in the terms of the trust. See Section 103(b)(1). Nor may the settlor negate the court’s ability to apply cy pres as provided in Section 408, the beneficiaries' ability to terminate a trust if continuation of the trust no longer achieves a material purpose as provided in Section 410(a), or the court's ability to modify or terminate a trust as provided in Sections 410 through 414. See Section 103(b)(5). The settlor is free to vary the trustee's ability to terminate a small trust as provided in Sections 408(d) and 412(a), and the trustee's ability to combine and divide trusts as provided in Section 415.

SECTION 401. METHODS OF CREATING TRUST.

(a) A trust may be created by:

(1) transfer of property to another person as trustee during the settlor's lifetime or by will or other disposition taking effect upon the settlor's death;

(2) declaration by the owner of property that the owner holds identifiable property as trustee; or

(3) exercise of a power of appointment in favor of a trustee.

(b) A trust instrument may contain language conveying property to a trustee or subjecting identified property to a self-declared trust.

Comment

Subsection (a) follows Restatement (Second) of Trusts § 17 (1959) and Restatement (Third) of Trusts § 10 (Tentative Draft No. 1, 1996). Under all three methods specified in this section for creating a trust, the trust is not created until it receives property. For what constitutes an adequate property interest, see Restatement (Third) of Trusts §§ 40-41 (Tentative Draft No. 2, 1999). See also Restatement (Second) of Trusts §§ 74-86 (1959). The property interest necessary to fund and create a trust need not be substantial. A revocable designation of the trustee as beneficiary of a life insurance policy or employee benefit plan has long been understood to be a property interest sufficient to create a trust. See Section 102(10) ("property" defined). Furthermore, the property interest need not be transferred contemporaneously with the signing of the trust instrument. A trust created by means of an instrument signed during the settlor's lifetime is not invalid simply because the trustee does not receive property until a later date, including by will or by contract after the settlor's death. A pourover devise to such a trust is also valid. See Uniform Testamentary Additions to Trusts Act § 1 (1991), codified at

1 Uniform Probate Code § 2-511 (pourover devise to trust valid regardless of 2 existence, size, or character of trust corpus).

3 While a trust created by will may come into existence immediately at the 4 testator's death and not necessarily only upon the later transfer of title from the 5 personal representative, the nominated trustee does not have a duty to act until there
6 is an acceptance of the trusteeship, express or implied. See Section 701 (acceptance
7 or declination of trusteeship). To avoid an implied acceptance, a nominated 8 testamentary trustee who is monitoring the actions of the personal representative but 9 who has not yet made a final decision on acceptance should inform the beneficiaries
10 that it has assumed only a limited role. The failure so to inform the beneficiaries
11 could result in liability if misleading conduct by the nominated trustee causes harm
12 to the trust beneficiaries. See Restatement (Third) of Trusts § 35 cmt.b (Tentative 13 Draft No. 2, 1999). See also Restatement (Second) of Trusts § 102 cmt. c (1959).

14 Consideration is not ordinarily required to create a trust, but a promise to 15 create a trust in the future is enforceable only if the requirements for a contract are 16 satisfied. See Restatement (Third) of Trusts § 15 (Tentative Draft No. 1, 1996); see 17 also Restatement (Second) of Trusts §§ 28-30 (1959). If the right to enforce the 18 contract is held by the trustee, however, the chose in action thus created in the 19 trustee is itself a property interest sufficient to create a present trust. Otherwise, the 20 enforceable right, if held by another, does not create a present trust but may give 21 rise to an action for breach of contract. A trust created by means of a promise
22 enforceable by the trustee is valid notwithstanding that the trustee may resign or die
23 before the promise is fulfilled. Unless expressly made personal, the promise can be 24 enforced by a successor trustee. For examples of trusts created by means of 25 promises enforceable by the trustee, see Restatement (Third) of Trusts § 10 cmt. g
26 (Tentative Draft No. 1, 1996); Restatement (Second) of Trusts §§ 14 cmt. h, 26 27 cmt. n (1959).

28 While this section confirms the familiar principle that a trust may be created
29 by means of the exercise of a power of appointment (subsection (a)(3)), this Act 30 does not attempt to legislate comprehensively on the subject of powers of 31 appointment but addresses only selected issues. See Sections 303 (representation by 32 holder of general testamentary power of appointment), 505(b) (creditor claims 33 against holder of presently exercisable power to withdraw), and 603(c) (rights of 34 holder of presently exercisable power to withdraw). For the law on powers of 35 appointment generally, see Restatement (Second) of Property: Donative Transfers
36 §§ 11.1-24.4 (1986); Restatement (Third) of Property: Wills and Other Donative
37 Transfers (in progress).

38 While trusts are usually created by a transfer of property by the settlor or by 39 a self-declaration, trusts may also be created by the courts or by special statute.

1 See, e.g., Unif. Probate Code § 2-212 (elective share of incapacitated surviving
2 spouse to be held in trust on terms specified in statute); Unif. Probate Code § 5-407
3 (conservator may create trust with court approval); Restatement (Second) of Trusts
4 § 17 cmt. i (1959) (trusts created by statutory right to bring wrongful death action);
5 Restatement (Third) of Trusts § 10 cmt. b (Tentative Draft No. 1, 1996).

6 Subsection (b) addresses some of the practical funding concerns that arise
7 with respect to self-declarations of trust. The very nature of the self-declaration of 8 trust negates a requirement that title to trust assets be reregistered and retransferred
9 into the name of the settlor as trustee. See, e.g., In re Estate of Heggstad, 20 Cal.
10 Rptr. 2d 43 (Ct. App. 1993) (citing relevant sections from Restatement (Second) of 11 Trusts). See also Restatement (Second) of Trusts § 17 cmt. a (1959); Restatement
12 (Third) of Trusts § 10 cmt. e (Tentative Draft No. 2, 1996). This subsection 13 validates the practice of merely attaching a schedule listing the assets that are to be 14 subject to the trust without executing separate instruments of transfer. To avoid 15 possible later problems with third party transferees and to better protect the interests 16 of the beneficiaries, it is recommended that settlors not rely on this subsection but 17 instead perfect title to the trust assets by executing separate instruments of transfer.

18 Subsection (b) also addresses a similar issue which sometimes arises with 19 respect to asset transfers to trusts in which someone other than the settlor is named 20 as trustee. While the execution of separate instruments of transfer for each asset is 21 recommended, this section recognizes that the trust instrument may itself contain 22 language effectively conveying assets to the trustee.

23 Subsection (b), by allowing property to be subjected to or transferred to a 24 trust without reregistering the specific trust assets out of the name of the settlor, is 25 an exception to the duty to earmark assets stated in Section 810(b).

26 SECTION 402. REQUIREMENTS FOR CREATION.

27 (a) A trust is created only if:

28 (1) the settlor has capacity to create a trust;

29 (2) the settlor indicates an intention to create a trust;

30 (3) the trust has a definite beneficiary, is a charitable trust as provided in

31 Section 408, a trust for the care of an animal as provided in Section

32 406, or a trust for a noncharitable purpose as provided in Section 407; and

(4) except for a trust over which the settlor holds a power of revocation or a presently exercisable power of appointment, the same person is not the sole trustee and sole beneficiary, present and future.

(b) A beneficiary is definite if the beneficiary can be validly ascertained now or in the future.

(c) A power in a trustee to select a beneficiary from an indefinite class is valid. If the power is not exercised within a reasonable time, the power fails and the property subject to the power passes to the persons who would have taken the property had the power not been granted.

Comment

Subsection (a) codifies the basic requirements for the creation of a trust. To create a valid trust, the settlor must indicate an intention to create a trust. Restatement (Second) of Trusts § 23 (1959); Restatement (Third) of Trusts § 13 (Tentative Draft No. 1, 1996). But only such manifestations of intent as are admissible as proof in a judicial proceeding may be considered. See Section 102(16) (“terms of a trust” defined).

To create a trust, a settlor must have the requisite mental capacity. To create a revocable or testamentary trust, the settlor must have the capacity to make a will. To create an irrevocable trust, the settlor must have capacity during lifetime to transfer the property free of trust. See Section 601 (capacity of settlor to create revocable trust), and see generally Restatement (Third) of Trusts § 11 (Tentative Draft No. 1, 1996).

Subsection (a)(3) requires that a trust, other than a charitable trust, a trust for the care of an animal, or a trust for another valid noncharitable purpose, have a definite or definitely ascertainable beneficiary. While some beneficiaries will often be definitely ascertained as of the trust's creation, subsection (b) recognizes that others may be ascertained in the future. A trust is not created if the beneficiary can only be ascertained beyond the applicable perpetuities period. The definite beneficiary requirement does not prevent a settlor from making a disposition in favor of a class of persons. Such a designation by its very nature is usually to a group whose membership can change. Class designations are valid so long as the membership of the class will be finally determined within the applicable perpetuities

1 period. For background on the definite beneficiary requirement, see Restatement
2 (Second) of Trusts §§ 112-115, 120-121 (1959); Restatement (Third) of Trusts
3 §§ 44-45 (Tentative Draft No. 2, 1999).

4 Subsection (a)(4) addresses the doctrine of merger, which, as traditionally 5 stated, provides that a trust is not created if the settlor is the sole trustee and sole 6 beneficiary of all beneficial interests. The doctrine of merger has been 7 inappropriately applied by the courts in some jurisdictions to invalidate self-
8 declarations of trust in which the settlor is the sole life beneficiary but other persons
9 are designated as beneficiaries of the remainder. The doctrine of merger is properly 10 applicable only if all beneficial interests, both life interests and remainders, are 11 vested in the same person, whether in the settlor or someone else. On the doctrine
12 of merger generally, see Restatement (Second) of Trusts § 341 (1959).

13 Subsection (a)(4) goes further than does the common law and the 14 Restatement, negating the application of the doctrine of merger in a situation where 15 its application would serve no purpose. Trusts are sometimes created which name 16 the settlor as trustee, name the settlor as sole beneficiary during the settlor's 17 lifetime, and provide for distribution to the settlor's estate upon the settlor's death.
18 Under the doctrine of merger, as traditionally stated, such a trust could never come 19 into existence because the settlor, following the attempted creation of the trust, 20 would continue to hold all legal and equitable interests. Section (a)(4), however,
21 adopting the approach taken by Virginia Statutes § 55-7.1, validates such a trust.
22 The doctrine of merger is not to be applied to a trust in which the settlor holds a 23 power of revocation or a presently exercisable power of appointment. Because the 24 settlor is free to terminate the trust at will, there is no reason to prevent its creation 25 as a matter of law.

26 Subsection (c) allows a settlor to empower the trustee to select the 27 beneficiaries even if the class from whom the selection may be made is indefinite.
28 Such a provision would fail under traditional doctrine; it is an imperative power with 29 no designated beneficiary capable of enforcement. But such a provision is valid
30 under both this Act and the Restatement. If the power is not exercised within a 31 reasonable time, the power will fail and the property will pass by resulting trust. See 32 Restatement (Third) of Trusts § 46 (Tentative Draft No. 2, 1999). See also 33 Restatement (Second) of Trusts § 122 (1959); Restatement (Second) of Property:
34 Donative Transfers § 12.1 cmt. e (1986).

35 SECTION 403. TRUST PURPOSES. A trust may be created only if its 36 purposes are lawful, not contrary to public policy, and possible to achieve.

1
2
3
4
5
6
7
8
9
10
11
12
13
14

15
16

17

18

19 20

21
22
23
24
25
26
27
28
29

30
31

Comment

For an explication of the requirement that a trust must not have a purpose that is unlawful or against public policy, see Restatement (Second) of Trusts §§ 60-65; Restatement (Third) of Trusts §§ 27-30 (Tentative Draft No. 2, 1999). A trust with a purpose that is unlawful or against public policy is invalid. Depending on when the violation occurred, the trust may be invalid at its inception or the invalidity may occur at a later date. The invalidity may also be limited to particular provisions. Generally, a trust has a purpose which is illegal or against public policy if: (1) its performance involves the commission of a criminal or tortious act by the trustee; (2) its enforcement would otherwise be against public policy even though not criminal or tortious; (3) the settlor’s purpose in creating the trust was to defraud creditors or others; or (4) the consideration for the creation of the trust was illegal. See Restatement (Second) of Trusts § 60 cmt. a (1959); Restatement (Third) of Trusts § 28 cmt. a (Tentative Draft No. 2, 1999).

For a provision allowing reformation of certain trusts which fail to comply with this section, see Section 413.

SECTION 404. CREATION OF TRUST INDUCED BY UNDUE

INFLUENCE, DURESS, OR FRAUD. A trust is void to the extent its creation was induced by undue influence, duress, or fraud.

Comment

This section is based on Restatement (Third) of Trusts § 12 (Tentative Draft No. 1, 1996), although the Restatement provides more generally that a trust can be set aside or reformed on the same grounds as those which apply to a transfer of property not in trust, among which include undue influence, duress, and fraud. See also Restatement (Second) of Trusts § 333 (1959), which is similar to Restatement (Third) of Trust § 12 (Tentative Draft No. 1, 1996), and Restatement (Second) Property: Donative Transfers § 34.7, which closely tracks the language above. For reformation of a trust on grounds of mistake, which is also covered by the language of the respective Restatements of Trusts, see Section 413.

Similar to a will, the invalidity of a trust on grounds of undue influence, duress, or fraud may be in whole or in part.

SECTION 405. EVIDENCE OF ORAL TRUST. Except as required by a statute other than this [Act], a trust need not be evidenced by a writing or other record, but the creation of an oral trust may be established only by clear and convincing evidence.

Comment

While it is always advisable for a settlor to reduce a trust to writing, the Act follows established law in recognizing oral trusts. Such trusts are viewed with caution, however. The requirement of this section that an oral trust can be established only by clear and convincing evidence is not part of the common law.

Absent some specific statutory provision, such as a provision requiring that transfers of real property be in writing, a trust need not be evidenced by a writing. States with statutes of frauds or other provisions requiring that the creation of certain trusts must be evidenced by a writing may wish specifically to cite such provisions.

For the Statute of Frauds generally, see Restatement (Second) of Trusts §§ 40-52. For a description of what the writing must contain, assuming that a writing is required, see Restatement (Third) of Trusts § 22 (Tentative Draft No. 1, 1996). For a discussion of when the writing must be signed, see Restatement (Third) of Trusts § 23 (Tentative Draft No. 1, 1996). For the law of oral trusts, see Sarajane Love, Imperfect Gifts as Declarations of Trust: An Unapologetic Anomaly, 67 Ky. L. J. 309 (1979).

SECTION 406. TRUST FOR CARE OF ANIMAL.

(a) A trust for the care of an animal living at the settlor's death is valid. The trust terminates upon the death of all animals covered by the terms of the trust.

(b) A trust authorized by this section may be enforced by a person appointed in the terms of the trust or, if there is none, by a person appointed by the court. A person appointed to enforce the trust has the rights of a qualified beneficiary under this [Act]. A person having an interest in the welfare of the animal may petition for an order appointing a person to enforce the trust or to remove that person.

(c) Property of a trust authorized by this section may be applied only to its intended use, except to the extent the court determines that the value of the trust property exceeds the amount required for the intended use. Except as otherwise provided in the terms of the trust, property not required for the intended use must be distributed to the settlor or settlor's successors in interest.

Comment

This section and the next section of the Act validate so-called honorary trusts. Unlike honorary trusts created pursuant to the common law of trusts, which are arguably no more than unenforceable powers of appointment, the trusts created by this and the next section are valid and enforceable and not dependent on whether the trustee decides to honor the settlor's wishes. For a discussion of the common law doctrine, see Restatement (Second) of Trusts § 124 (1959); Restatement (Third) of Trusts § 47 (Tentative Draft No. 2, 1999).

This section addresses a particular type of honorary trust, the trust for the care of an animal. Section 407 specifies the requirements for trusts created for other noncharitable purposes. A trust for the care of an animal may last for the life of the animal. While the animal will ordinarily be alive on the date the trust is created, an animal may be added as a beneficiary after that date as long as the addition is made prior to the settlor's death. Animals in gestation but not yet born at the time of the trust's creation may also be covered by its terms. A trust authorized by this section may be created to benefit one designated animal or multiple animals.

Subsection (b) addresses enforcement. Noncharitable trusts ordinarily may be enforced by their beneficiaries. Charitable trusts may be enforced by the State Attorney General or by a person deemed to have a special interest. See Restatement (Second) of Trusts § 391 (1959). But at common law, trusts for the care of an animal or a trust without an ascertainable beneficiary created for another noncharitable purpose were unenforceable because there was no person authorized to enforce the trustee's obligations.

This section and the next section close this gap. The intended use of a trust authorized by either section may be enforced by a person designated in the terms of the trust or, if none, by a person appointed by the court. In either case, the person

1 appointed is given the rights of a qualified beneficiary for the purpose of receiving
2 notices and consenting to certain actions. If the trust is created for the care of an
3 animal, persons with an interest in the welfare of the animal have standing to petition
4 for such an appointment, either of themselves or of others. The person appointed by 5 the court to enforce the trust should also be a person who has exhibited an interest
6 in the animal's welfare. The concept of granting standing to a person with a 7 demonstrated interest in the animal's welfare is derived from the Uniform
8 Guardianship and Protective Proceedings Act (1997), which allows a person
9 interested in the welfare of a ward or protected person to file petitions on the ward's 10 or protected person's behalf.

11 Subsection (c) addresses the problem of excess funds. If the court determine 12 that the trust property exceeds the amount needed for the intended purpose and the 13 terms of the trust do not direct the disposition, a resulting trust is ordinarily created
14 in the settlor or settlor's successors in interest. See Restatement (Third) of Trusts
15 § 47 (Tentative Draft No. 2, 1999). The settlor should also anticipate the problem 16 of excess funds by directing their disposition in the terms of the trust. Like most 17 other provisions in the Act, the disposition of excess funds is within the settlor's
18 control. See Section 103. To make that clear, subsection (c) provides for a 19 reversion only in the absence of a contrary provision in the terms of the trust.

20 This section and the next section are suggested by Section 2-907 of the 21 Uniform Probate Code, but much of this and the following section is new.

22 SECTION 407. TRUST FOR NONCHARITABLE PURPOSE. Except as 23 otherwise provided by another statute:

24 (1) A trust for a noncharitable purpose without a definite or definitely 25 ascertainable beneficiary or for a noncharitable purpose to be selected by the trustee
26 is valid. The trust may not be enforced for more than 21 years;

27 (2) A trust authorized by this section may be enforced by a person
28 appointed in the terms of the trust or, if there is none, by a person appointed by the 29 court. A person appointed to enforce the trust has the rights of a qualified 30 beneficiary under this [Act];

(3) Property of a trust authorized by this section may be applied only to its intended use, except to the extent the court determines that the value of the trust property exceeds the amount required for the intended use. Except as otherwise provided in the terms of the trust, property not required for the intended use must be distributed to those who would take must be distributed to the settlor or settlor's successors in interest.

Comment

This section authorizes two types of trusts without ascertainable beneficiaries; trusts for general but noncharitable purposes, and trusts for a specific noncharitable purpose other than the care of an animal, which is covered by Section 406. Examples of trusts for general noncharitable purposes might include a bequest of money to be distributed to such objects of benevolence as the trustee might select. Unless such trust was interpreted as charitable, such a trust at common law was honorary only. Under this section, however, such a trust is enforceable for a period of up to 21 years, the maximum period allowed under the rule against perpetuities for a disposition without lives in being.

The most common example of a trust for a specific noncharitable purpose is a trust for the care of a cemetery plot. Trusts and other funding devices for the perpetual care of cemetery plots is a topic frequently addressed by separate legislation. Such legislation will typically endeavor to provide for truly perpetual care as opposed to care limited for 21 years.

For the requirement that a trust, particularly the type of trust authorized by this section, must have a purpose that is not capricious, see Section 403 Comment. For examples of the types of trusts authorized by this section, see Restatement (Second) of Trusts § 124 (1959); Restatement (Third) of Trusts § 47 (Tentative Draft No. 2, 1999).

This section is similar to Section 406, although less detailed. Much of the Comment to Section 406 also applies to this section.

SECTION 408. CHARITABLE TRUSTS.

1 (a) A charitable trust may be created for the relief of poverty, the 2 advancement of education or religion, the promotion of health, governmental or 3 municipal purposes, or other purpose the achievement of which is beneficial to the 4 community. If the purposes of a trust are charitable but the terms of the trust do not
5 indicate a particular purpose or beneficiary, the trustee may select one or more
6 charitable purposes or beneficiaries.

7 (b) Except as otherwise provided in subsections (c) and (d), if a particular 8 charitable purpose becomes unlawful, impracticable, impossible to achieve, or 9 wasteful:

10 (1) the trust does not fail, in whole or in part;

11 (2) the property of the trust does not revert to the settlor or the settlor's
12 successors in interest;

13 (3) the court shall modify or terminate the trust and direct that the trust 14 property be applied or distributed, in whole or in part, in a manner consistent with 15 the settlor's charitable purposes.

16 (c) The power of the court to modify or terminate a charitable trust as 17 provided in subsection (b) is subject to a contrary provision in the terms of the trust 18 only if the provision directs that the trust property be distributed to a charitable 19 organization or used by the trustee for another charitable purpose or, if the 20 provision directs that the trust property be distributed to a noncharitable beneficiary, 21 less than 30 years have elapsed since the date of the trust's creation.

1 (d) If the trustee determines that the value of a charitable trust does not
2 exceed [$50,000] in value, upon at least [30] days' notice to the Attorney General
3 of this State, the trustee may modify or terminate the trust in the manner provided in 4 subsection (b).

5 (e) A settlor may maintain an action to modify a charitable trust under this 6 section or to enforce a charitable trust under this or any other section.

7 (f) A charitable organization expressly entitled to receive benefits under the 8 terms of a charitable trust has the rights of a qualified beneficiary under this [Act].

9 Comment

10 This section broadens the authority of courts and trustees to make charitable 11 gifts more effective. Many of the concepts implemented in this section have long 12 been advocated by commentators. See, e.g., Roger G. Sisson, Relaxing the Dead
13 Hand's Grip: Charitable Efficiency and the Doctrine of Cy Pres, 74 Va. L. Rev. 635
14 (1988); Report, Cy Pres and Deviation: Current Trends and Application, 8 Real 15 Prop. Prob. & Trust J. 391 (1971); Joseph A. DiClerico, Jr., Cy Pres: A Proposal
16 for Change, 47 B.U.L. Rev. 153 (1967); Kenneth L. Karst, The Efficiency of the 17 Charitable Dollar: An Unfulfilled State Responsibility, 73 Harv. L. Rev. 433 (1960).
18 This broadening of the ability of a court to apply cy pres is also reflected in a 19 number of the state statutes, See, e.g., Wis. Stat. § 701.10.

20 Subsection (b) codifies the court's inherent authority to apply cy pres. The 21 power may be applied to modify an administrative or beneficial term. The court may 22 order the trust terminated and distributed to other charitable entities. Partial 23 termination may also be ordered if the trust property is more than sufficient to 24 satisfy the trust's current purposes. Cy pres under the Act is a default rule. The 25 court's authority is subject to the settlor's right to specify an alternate disposition.

26 Subsection (b) modifies the doctrine of cy pres by presuming that the settlor
27 had a general charitable intent. Traditional doctrine does not supply that 28 presumption, leaving it to the courts, when a specific charitable purpose becomes 29 impossible to achieve, to determine whether the settlor had a general charitable 30 intent. If so, the trust property is diverted to other charitable purposes. If not, the 31 charitable trust fails. In the great majority of cases the settlor would prefer that the 32 gift not fail but be used for other charitable purposes. As a consequence, upon 33 failure of a particular charitable purpose, courts rarely divert the trust property to a

1 noncharitable use. Courts are almost always able to find a general charitable 2 purpose to which to apply the property, no matter how vaguely such purpose may 3 have been expressed by the settlor. Unless the terms of the trust provide to the 4 contrary, a charitable trust does not fail in whole or in part if the particular purpose 5 for which the trust was created becomes impracticable, unlawful, impossible to 6 achieve, or wasteful. The court must instead either modify the terms of the trust or 7 direct that the property of the trust be distributed in whole or in part in a manner
8 consistent with the settlor's charitable purposes.

9 Subsection (c) clarifies that cy pres is generally a default option. The settlor,
10 with one exception, is free to designate who is to receive the trust property upon 11 failure of a specific charitable purpose. The exception prohibits a gift over to a 12 noncharitable beneficiary if the failure of the charitable purpose occurs more than 30
13 years after the trust's creation. Because most charitable trusts are created to secure 14 a charitable tax deduction, the application of this subsection will be rare. Also, this 15 subsection would not apply to a charitable lead trust, under which a charity receives 16 payments for a term certain with a remainder to a noncharity. In this case the 17 settlor's specific charitable purpose does not fail. Upon the completion of the term 18 the settlor's specific charitable purpose has instead been fulfilled.

19 The doctrine of cy pres is also applied in the law applicable to other types of 20 charitable dispositions, including charitable corporations. This section, because it is 21 part of a Uniform Trust Act, does not control charitable dispositions made in 22 nontrust form. However, in formulating the rules for such dispositions the courts 23 commonly refer to the principles governing charitable trusts.

24 The required purposes of a charitable trust specified in subsection (a) restate
25 the well-established categories of charitable purposes listed in Restatement (Second)
26 of Trusts § 368 (1959), and ultimately derived from the Statute of Charitable Uses,
27 43 Eliz. I, c.4 (1601). Subsection (a) also restates an established estate planning 28 technique under which the trustee is permitted to select the charitable beneficiary or 29 purposes for which distributions are to be made. See Restatement (Second) of 30 Trusts § 396 (1959).

31 Subsection (d) allows a trustee to automatically terminate a charitable trust 32 with a value of less than $50,000, although the amount is placed in brackets to 33 signal that an enacting jurisdiction may select a different amount. For the 34 comparable provision on termination of small noncharitable trusts, see Section
35 412(a). Separate provisions are provided because of the significant differences 36 between the two provisions, including the requirement in this section that notice of 37 the intention to terminate be given to the State Attorney General. While the 38 Attorney General under this Act is not required to receive notices concerning a 39 charitable trust because comprehensive reporting to the State is normally required

1 by other law, few charitable trust statutes require notice to the Attorney General of 2 the termination of small charitable trusts.

3 Subsection (e), unlike Restatement (Second) of Trusts § 391 (1959),
4 authorizes the settlor to maintain an action to enforce or modify a charitable trust.
5 The settlor may enforce the trust under any section. However, a petition to modify 6 may only be brought by a settlor under this section.

7 Charitable trusts do not have beneficiaries in the usual sense. However,
8 certain persons, while not technically beneficiaries, do have an interest in seeing that 9 the trust is enforced. In the case of a charitable trust, this includes the Attorney
10 General and charitable organizations designated to receive benefits under the terms
11 of the trust. To permit such organizations to protect their interests, Section 408(f) 12 provides that charitable organizations expressly designated to receive benefits under 13 the terms of a charitable trust have the rights of qualified beneficiaries. Because 14 reporting to the State Attorney General is already required by other law, the 15 Attorney General is not granted a similar right.

16 SECTION 409. TERMINATION OF TRUST; PETITIONS FOR 17 APPROVAL OR DISAPPROVAL.

18 (a) In addition to the methods specified in Sections 410 through 412, a trust 19 terminates if the trust is revoked or expires pursuant to its terms or if the purposes 20 of the trust are achieved or become unlawful, impossible to achieve, or contrary to 21 public policy.

22 (b) A petition to approve or disapprove a proposed action under Sections
23 410 through 415 may be filed by a trustee or beneficiary, and a petition to approve 24 or disapprove a proposed action under Section 410 may be filed by a settlor.

25 Comment

26 Subsection (a) lists the various methods and grounds by which trusts
27 typically terminate. In addition to other powers granted under this Act or by the 28 terms of the trust, upon termination of a trust a trustee has the powers appropriate 29 to wind up the trust's administration. See Section 816(27).

1 For the requirement that a trust must have a purpose that is not illegal,
2 impossible to achieve, or contrary to public policy, see Section 403 and Comment.

3 Subsection (b) provides that petitions for approval or disapproval of 4 proposed actions under this Sections 410 through 415 may be filed by the trustee or 5 a beneficiary. The effect of this is to make clear that court approval or disapproval
6 may be sought for an action which can be accomplished without court permission.
7 This would include petitions to approve or disapprove modification or termination
8 by beneficiary consent (Section 410), a petition questioning the trustee's distribution
9 upon termination of a trust under $50,000 (Section 412), and a petition for approval
10 or disapproval of a proposed trust division or consolidation (Section 415).

11 Subsection (b) also makes clear that the settlor is an interested person with 12 respect to actions under Section 410 to terminate or modify a trust by beneficiary 13 action, whether or not the settlor agrees with the beneficiary's decision.

14 SECTION 410. MODIFICATION OR TERMINATION OF 15 IRREVOCABLE TRUST BY CONSENT.

16 (a) An irrevocable trust may be modified or terminated with the consent of 17 all of the beneficiaries if continuance of the trust on its existing terms is not 18 necessary to achieve a material purpose of the trust. The inclusion of a spendthrift
19 provision in the terms of the trust may, but is not presumed to, constitute a material 20 purpose of the trust.

21 (b) Whether or not continuance of the trust on its existing terms is necessary 22 to achieve a material purpose of the trust, an irrevocable trust may be modified or 23 terminated upon consent of the settlor and all beneficiaries. A settlor's power to 24 consent to a trust's termination may be exercised by an agent under a power of 25 attorney only to the extent the power of attorney or the terms of the trust expressly 26 authorize the agent to do so, or by a [conservator] with the approval of the court

1 supervising the [conservatorship] if the agent is not so authorized. A settlor's
2 power to consent to a trust's termination may not be exercised by the settlor's 3 [guardian].

4 (c) Upon termination of a trust pursuant to subsection (a) or (b), the trustee
5 shall distribute the trust property as agreed by the beneficiaries.

6 (d) If a beneficiary does not consent to a proposed modification or 7 termination of a trust by the other beneficiaries or by the settlor and other 8 beneficiaries, the court may approve the proposed modification or termination only 9 if the court is satisfied that:

10 (1) if all beneficiaries had consented, the trust could have been 11 terminated or modified under this section; and 12 (2) the interests of a beneficiary who does not consent will be adequately 13 protected.

14 Comment

15 This section describes the circumstances under which an irrevocable trust
16 may be terminated or modified by the beneficiaries, with or without the concurrence
17 of the settlor. For provisions governing modification or termination of trusts 18 without the need to seek beneficiary consent, see Sections 411 (modification or 19 termination due to unanticipated circumstances or inability to effectively administer 20 trust) and 412 (termination or modification of uneconomic noncharitable trust). If 21 the trust is revocable by the settlor, the method of revocation specified in Section 22 602 applies.

23 Subsection (a) states the test for termination or modification by unanimous 24 consent without the concurrence of the settlor. Subsection (b) states the test for 25 termination or modification by the beneficiaries with the concurrence of the settlor.
26 Subsection (c) directs how the trust property is to be distributed following a 27 termination under either subsection (a) or (b). Subsection (d) creates a procedure 28 for judicial approval of a proposed termination or modification when the consent of 29 less than all of the beneficiaries is available.

1 A trust may be modified or terminated pursuant to this section over a
2 trustee's objection and, except as provided in subsection (d), without court
3 approval. However, the court is available to indicate its approval or disapproval of 4 a proposed termination or modification upon petition of the settlor, beneficiary, or 5 trustee. See Section 409.

6 Subsection (a) of this section is based on Section 337 of the Restatement
7 (Second) of Trusts (1959), except that this subsection, unlike the Restatement, deals
8 expressly with the effect of a spendthrift provision. While the inquiry on whether 9 continuation of a trust is necessary to achieve a material purpose should focus on 10 the material purpose or purposes of the particular settlor, the courts have tended to 11 preclude termination based on whether the trust contains particular language
12 without examining its context. For the case law, see Austin W. Scott & William F.
13 Fratcher, The Law of Trusts § 337 (4th ed. 1988).

14 The insertion of a spendthrift provision, which is often added to instruments
15 with little thought, has been a particular problem. Subsection (a) does not negate 16 the possibility that continuation of a trust to assure spendthrift protection might have 17 been a material purpose of the particular settlor. It instead negates the assumption 18 that inserting such a clause is always a bar to termination or modification. Whether 19 a spendthrift provision bars termination or modification of a particular trust is a 20 question of fact to be determined based on the totality of the circumstances.

21 Subsection (b), which is based on Restatement (Second) of Trusts § 338
22 (1959), permits termination upon the joint action of the settlor and beneficiaries.
23 While the beneficiaries alone cannot terminate a trust unless continuation of the trust
24 is no longer necessary to achieve the settlor's material purposes in creating the trust,
25 such a finding is not required if the settlor also consents. No finding is required
26 because all parties with a possible interest in the trust's continuation, both the settlor
27 and beneficiaries, are agreed there is no further need for the trust.

28 Subsection (b) also addresses the authority of an agent, conservator, or 29 guardian to act on a settlor's behalf. Consistent with Section 602 on revocation or 30 modification of a revocable trust, the section assumes that a settlor, in granting an 31 agent general authority, did not intend for the agent to have authority to consent to 32 the termination or modification of a trust and possibly undo the settlor's estate plan.
33 In order for an agent to validly consent to a termination or modification, such 34 authority must be expressly conveyed either in the power or in the terms of the trust.

35 Subsection (b) does not, however, impose restrictions on consent by a 36 conservator, other than prohibiting such action if the settlor is represented by an 37 agent. The Act instead leaves the authority of a conservator to local law. Many 38 conservatorship statutes, in fact, recognize that termination or modification of the

1 settlor's trust is a sufficiently important transaction that a conservator should not be 2 allowed to consent without first consulting with and obtaining the approval of the 3 court supervising the conservatorship. See, e.g., Unif. Probate Code § 5-407.

4 Subsection (c) denies a guardian the right to consent to the termination of an
5 irrevocable trust created by the ward. A "guardian," as defined in Section 102(5), 6 does not have authority to manage property. Also, in most States statutory 7 provisions authorizing a court to revise the ward's estate plan apply only to the 8 authority of the person appointed to manage the ward's property, described as a 9 "conservator" under this Act. Should it be desired to have the guardian participate 10 on the settlor's behalf in the termination of the ward's irrevocable trust, the 11 appropriate course of action in most States is to request that the court grant the 12 guardian conservatorship powers.

13 The provisions of Article 3 on representation, virtual representation and the 14 appointment and approval of guardians ad litem and special representatives apply for 15 determining whether all beneficiaries have signified consent under this section. The 16 authority to consent on behalf of another person, however, does not include the 17 authority to consent over the other person's objection. See Section 302. For a 18 listing of who may consent on behalf of a beneficiary, see Sections 303, 304, and 19 305. A consent obtained by virtual representation is valid only if there is no conflict
20 of interest between the representative and the person represented. Given this 21 limitation, virtual representation will rarely be available in a trust termination case,
22 although its use will be frequent in cases involving trust modification, such as a 23 grant to the trustee of additional powers. If virtual representation is unavailable, 24 Section 306 of the Act permits the court to appoint a representative who may give 25 the necessary consent to the proposed modification or termination on behalf of the 26 minor, incapacitated, unborn, or unascertained beneficiary.

27 Subsection (c) recognizes that the power to terminate the trust includes the 28 right to direct how the trust property is to be distributed. While subsection (b) 29 requires the settlor's consent to terminate an irrevocable trust, the settlor does not 30 control the subsequent distribution of the trust property. Once a termination has 31 been approved, how the trust property is to be distributed is solely for the 32 beneficiaries to decide.

33 Subsection (d), which is based on Restatement (Second) of Trusts § 338(2) 34 (1959), addresses situations in which a termination or modification is requested by 35 less than all of the beneficiaries, either because a beneficiary objects, the consent of a 36 beneficiary cannot be obtained, or virtual representation is either unavailable or its 37 application uncertain. Subsection (d) allows the court to fashion an appropriate 38 order protecting the interests of the nonconsenting beneficiaries while at the same 39 time permitting the remainder of the trust property to be distributed without restriction. The order of protection for the nonconsenting beneficiaries might include partial continuation of the trust, the purchase of an annuity, or the valuation and cashout of the interest.

SECTION 411. MODIFICATION OR TERMINATION BECAUSE OF UNANTICIPATED CIRCUMSTANCES OR INABILITY TO EFFECTIVELY ADMINISTER TRUST.

(a) The court may modify the administrative or dispositive terms of a trust or terminate the trust if, because of circumstances not anticipated by the settlor, modification or termination will substantially further the settlor's purposes in creating the trust.

(b) The court may modify the administrative terms of a trust if continuation of the trust on its existing terms would be impracticable, wasteful, or impair the trust's administration.

(c) Upon termination of a trust under this section, the trust property must be distributed in accordance with the settlor's purposes in creating the trust.

Comment

This section broadens the court’s ability to apply equitable deviation to terminate or modify a trust. Subsection (a) is based on Restatement (Second) of Trusts §§ 167 and 336. Unlike the Restatement, however, subsection (a) allows a court to modify the beneficial provisions of the trust as well as its administrative terms. For example, modification of the beneficial provisions to increase support of a beneficiary might be appropriate if the beneficiary has become unable to provide for support due to poor health or serious injury.

While it is necessary there be circumstances not anticipated by the settlor before the court may grant relief under subsection (a), it is not essential that circumstances have changed. The circumstances not anticipated by the settlor may have been in existence when the trust was created. This section thus complements

1 Section 413, which allows for reformation of a trust based on mistake of fact or law
2 at the creation of the trust.

3 Relief under subsection (a) should not be lightly granted. Reasonable minds 4 can disagree on the purposes of a trust and on whether the settlor chose the 5 appropriate means of implementation. For this reason, the petitioner must 6 demonstrate that the proposed termination or modification will substantially further 7 the settlor's objectives in creating the trust.

8 Subsection (b) broadens the court's ability to modify the administrative 9 terms of a trust. Subsection (b) applies, with respect to the administrative terms, the 10 same standard as the standard under Section 408(b) for modifying a charitable trust.
11 Just as a charitable trust may be modified if its particular charitable purpose becomes 12 impracticable or wasteful, so can the administrative terms of any trust, charitable or 13 noncharitable.

14 Subsection (b) is also an application of the principle that a trust have a 15 purpose which is for the benefit of its beneficiaries, both in its terms and in how it is 16 administered. See Restatement (Third) of Trusts § 27(2) & cmt. b (Tentative Draft 17 No. 2, 1999). Although the settlor is granted considerable latitude in defining the 18 purposes of the trust, the principle that a trust have a purpose which is for the 19 benefit of its beneficiaries preclude unreasonable restrictions on the use of trust 20 property. Owners may deal without restraint with their own property but not when 21 impressed with a trust for the benefit of others. See Restatement (Second) of Trusts
22 § 124 cmt. g (1959). Thus, attempts to impose unreasonable restrictions on the use 23 of trust property, such as a provision severely impairing the use of real property, will 24 fail. See, e.g., Colonial Trust v. Brown, 135 A. 555 (Conn. 1926). See also 25 Restatement (Third) of Trusts § 27 Reporter's Note to cmt. b (Tentative Draft No.
26 2, 1999).

27 Upon termination of a trust under this section, subsection (c) requires that 28 the trust be distributed in accordance with the settlor's purposes in creating the 29 trust. This requirement, which is similar to the doctrine of cy pres, will require an 30 examination of what the settlor probably would have done had the settlor been 31 aware of the unanticipated circumstances. Typically, such terminating distributions 32 will be made to the qualified beneficiaries, perhaps in proportion to the actuarial 33 value of their interests, although the section does not so prescribe. For the 34 definition of qualified beneficiary, see Section 102(11).

35 SECTION 412. TERMINATION OF UNECONOMIC
36 NONCHARITABLE TRUST.

(a) Except as otherwise provided by the terms of the trust, if the value of the property of a noncharitable trust is less than [$50,000], the trustee may terminate the trust.

(b) The court may modify or terminate a noncharitable trust or remove the trustee and appoint a different trustee if it determines that the value of the trust property is insufficient to justify the cost of administration.

(c) Upon termination of a trust under this section, the trust property must be distributed in accordance with the settlor's purposes in creating the trust.

Comment

Subsection (a) presumes that a trust with a value of $50,000 or less is inherently uneconomical and may be terminated without the expense of a judicial termination proceeding. This provision is a default rule. While the creation of small charitable trusts is not encouraged, this subsection does not interfere with the right of a settlor to do so. The settlor is free to set a higher or lower figure or to specify different procedures or to prohibit termination without a court order. See Section 103 and General Comment to Article 4.

Subsection (b) allows a trust to be modified or terminated if the costs of administration would otherwise be excessive in relation to the size of the trust. The court may terminate a trust under this section even if a settlor has forbidden such action. See Section 103(b)(5). A court termination procedure may be utilized for a trust of any size.

Compliance with this section is within the discretion of the trustee or, if court approval is required, within the discretion of the court. When considering whether to terminate a noncharitable trust under this section, the trustee or court should consider the trust purposes. Termination under this section is not always wise. Even if administrative costs may seem expensive in relation to the size of the trust, protection of the assets from beneficiary mismanagement may indicate that the trust be continued.

While this section is not principally directed at honorary trusts, it may be applied to such trusts. See Sections 406, 407.

1 In order to reduce the costs of administering a trust, the court, instead of 2 terminating the trust, may appoint a new trustee. Upon termination of a trust under 3 this section, subsection (c) requires that the trust property be distributed in 4 accordance with the settlor's purposes in creating the trust.

5 This section is limited to noncharitable trusts because the subject of 6 termination of small or inefficient charitable trusts is fully addressed in Section 408.

7 SECTION 413. REFORMATION TO CORRECT MISTAKES. The court
8 may reform the terms of a trust, even if unambiguous, to conform to the settlor's 9 intention if the failure to conform was due to a mistake of fact or law, whether in 10 expression or inducement, and the settlor's intent can be established by clear and 11 convincing evidence.

12 Comment

13 Reformation of inter vivos instruments to correct for a mistake of law or fact
14 is a long-established remedy. Restatement (Third) of Property: Wills and Other 15 Donative Transfers § 12.1 (Tentative Draft No. 1, 1995), upon which this section is 16 based, clarifies that this doctrine also applies to wills.

17 This section applies whether the mistake is one of expression or one of 18 inducement. A mistake of expression occurs when the terms of the trust misstate 19 the settlor's intention, fail to include a term that was intended to be included, or 20 include a term that was not intended to be excluded. A mistake in the inducement 21 occurs when the terms of the trust accurately reflect what the settlor intended to be 22 included or excluded but this intention was based on a mistake of fact or law.
23 Restatement (Third) of Property: Wills and Other Donative Transfers § 12.1 cmt. i
24 (Tentative Draft No. 1, 1995).

25 Reformation is different from clarification of an ambiguity. Clarification of 26 an ambiguity involves the interpretation of language already in the instrument.
27 Reformation, on the other hand, involves the addition of language not originally in 28 the instrument, or the deletion of language originally included by mistake. Because 29 reformation involves the addition of language to the instrument, or deletion of 30 language in an instrument that may appear clear on its face, reliance on extrinsic
31 evidence is essential. To guard against the possibility of unreliable or contrived 32 evidence in such circumstance, the higher standard of clear and convincing proof is

1 required. See Restatement (Third) of Property: Wills and Other Donative Transfers
2 § 12.1 cmt. e (Tentative Draft No. 1, 1995).

3 In determining the settlor's original intent, the court should not be bound by 4 the so-called "plain meaning" rule, which often produces a meaning plain only in the 5 eye of the beholder. For this reason, under leading American case law and scholarly 6 analysis, evidence contradicting the so-called plain meaning of the text is admissible.
7 The objective of the plain meaning rule, to protect against fraudulent testimony, is 8 satisfied by the requirement in this section that clear and convincing evidence be 9 presented before a requested reformation may be granted. See Restatement (Third)
10 of Property: Wills and Other Donative Transfers § 12.1 cmt. d (Tentative Draft No.
11 1, 1995).

12 SECTION 414. MODIFICATION TO ACHIEVE SETTLOR'S TAX

13 OBJECTIVES. To achieve the settlor's tax objectives, the court may modify the 14 terms of a trust in a manner that is not contrary to the settlor's probable intention.
15 The court may provide that a modification has retroactive effect.

16 Comment

17 This section is based on Restatement (Third) of Property § 12.2 (Tentative 18 Draft No. 1, 1995). "Modification" under this section is to be distinguished from 19 the "reformation" authorized by Section 413. Reformation under Section 413 is 20 available when the terms of a trust fail to reflect the donor's original, particularized 21 intention. The mistaken terms are then reformed to match this specific intent. The 22 modification authorized here is more general, allowing documents to be changed to 23 meet the settlor's tax-saving objective as long as the resulting terms, particularly the 24 beneficial provisions, are not inconsistent with the settlor's probable intent. The 25 modification allowed by this subsection is similar in concept to the cy pres doctrine
26 for charitable trusts (see Section 408), and the deviation doctrine for unanticipated
27 circumstances (see Section 411).

28 Whether a modification made by the court under this section will be 29 recognized under federal tax law is a matter of federal law. Among the 30 modifications recognized under federal law have been the revision of split-interest
31 trusts to qualify for the charitable deduction, modification of a trust for a noncitizen 32 spouse to become eligible as a qualified domestic trust, and the splitting of a trust to 33 better utilize the exemption from generation-skipping tax.

For further discussion of the issues raised by a desire to modify a trust to achieve the settlor's tax objectives, see the Comments and Reporter's Notes to Restatement (Third) of Property § 12.2 (Tentative Draft No. 1, 1995).

SECTION 415. COMBINATION AND DIVISION OF TRUSTS. On written notice to the qualified beneficiaries, a trustee may combine two or more trusts into a single trust or divide a trust into two or more separate trusts, if the combination or division does not impair the rights of any beneficiary or adversely affect the achievement of the trust purposes.

Comment

This section, which authorizes the combination or division of trusts, applies only in the absence of an express provision in the terms of the trust. See Section 103 and Article 4 General Comment. Many trust instruments and standardized estate planning forms include comprehensive provisions governing combination and division of trusts.

This section allows a trustee to combine two or more trusts even though their terms are not identical, although typically the trusts to be combined will have been created by different members of the same family and vary on only insignificant details, such as the presence of different perpetuities savings periods. The more the beneficial provisions of the trusts to be combined differ from each other the more likely it is that a combination will result in the reduction of some beneficiary's interest and the less likely it is that the settlor's purposes will be accomplished and the combination can be approved. Combining trusts may prompt more efficient trust administration and is sometimes an alternative to terminating the trusts as permitted by Section 412. Administrative economies promoted by combining trusts include a potential reduction in trustee's fees, particularly if the trustee charges a minimum fee per trust, the ability to file one trust income tax return instead of multiple returns, and the ability to invest more efficiently because of a larger pool of available capital.

Division of trusts is often beneficial and, in certain circumstances, almost routine. Division of trusts is frequently undertaken due to a desire to obtain maximum advantage of exemptions available under the federal generation-skipping tax. While the terms of the trusts which result from such a division are identical, the division will permit differing investment objectives to be pursued and allow for discretionary distributions to be made from one trust and not the other.

1 This section authorizes a trustee to divide a trust even if the trusts that result
2 are dissimilar. Conflicts among beneficiaries, including differing investment
3 objectives, often invite such a division, although as in the case with a proposed 4 combination of trusts, the further away the terms of the divided trusts are from the 5 original plan the less likely it is that the settlor's purposes will be achieved and the 6 division can be approved.

7 This section does not require that a combination or division be approved by 8 either the court or beneficiaries. Prudence may dictate, however, that court
9 approval under Section 409 be sought and beneficiary consent obtained whenever 10 the terms of the trusts to be combined or the trusts that will result from a division
11 differ substantially one from the other. For the provisions relating to beneficiary 12 consent or ratification of a transaction, or release of trustee from liability, see 13 Section 1009.

14 While the consent of the beneficiaries is not necessary before a trustee may 15 combine or divide trusts under this section, advance notice to the qualified
16 beneficiaries of the proposed combination or division is required. This is consistent 17 with Section 813, which requires that the trustee keep the beneficiaries reasonably 18 informed of trust administration, including the giving of advance notice to the 19 qualified beneficiaries of several specified actions that may have a major impact on 20 their interests.

21 For a list of statutes authorizing division of trusts, either by the trustee or 22 court order, see Restatement (Third) Property: Wills and Other Donative Transfers
23 § 12.2 statutory note (Tentative Draft No. 1, 1995). For a provision authorizing a 24 trustee, in distributing the assets of the divided trust, to make non-pro-rata
25 distributions, see Section 816(23).

1
2
3

4
5
6
7
8
9
10
11
12
13
14
15
16
17
18
19 20
21

22
23
24

25

26
27

28
29
30

ARTICLE 5
CREDITOR’S CLAIMS; SPENDTHRIFT PROVISIONS;
DISCRETIONARY TRUSTS

General Comment

This article addresses the validity of a spendthrift provision and the rights of creditors, both of the settlor and beneficiaries, to reach a trust to collect a debt. Section 501 specifies the requirements for a valid spendthrift provision and, if valid, its effect. For trusts without valid spendthrift provisions, Section 502 describes the circumstances under which a beneficiary’s creditors may reach the beneficiary’s interest. Section 503 lists the categories of creditors whose claims are not subject to a spendthrift bar, and the extent to which such a creditor may reach the trust. Sections 504 through 507 address special categories where the rights of a beneficiary’s creditors may not depend on whether or not the trust contains a spendthrift provision. Section 504 deals with discretionary trusts and trusts for which distributions are subject to a standard. Section 505 covers creditor claims against a settlor, whether the trust is revocable or irrevocable, and if revocable, whether the claim is made during the settlor’s lifetime or incident to the settlor’s death. Section 506 provides a creditor with a remedy if a trustee fails to make a required distribution within a reasonable time. Section 507 clarifies that the fact a trustee holds legal title to trust property does not imply that the trust property is subject to the trustee’s personal debts.

The provisions of this article relating to the validity and effect of a spendthrift provision and the rights of creditors may not be modified by the terms of the trust.

SECTION 501. SPENDTHRIFT PROVISION: GENERAL.

- (a) A spendthrift provision is valid only if it restrains both voluntary and involuntary transfer of a beneficiary’s interest.
- (b) A term of a trust providing that the interest of a beneficiary is held subject to a “spendthrift trust,” or words of similar import, is sufficient to restrain both the voluntary and involuntary transfer of the beneficiary’s interest.

1 (c) A beneficiary may not transfer an interest in a trust in violation of a valid
2 spendthrift provision, and, except as otherwise provided in this [article], a creditor
3 or assignee of the beneficiary may not reach the interest or a distribution by the 4 trustee before its receipt by the beneficiary.

5 Policy Issues

6 This section, in accordance with traditional doctrine, requires that for a 7 trust to be spendthrift, the settlor must insert an express provision to that effect into
8 the terms of the trust. One member of the Drafting Committee is of the opinion
9 that spendthrift ought to be the default rule, that is, that a trust is automatically
10 spendthrift unless the terms of the trust provide to the contrary. The advice of the 11 Conference is invited on which is the better approach.

12 This section provides that a spendthrift provision, to be valid, must restrain
13 both the voluntary and involuntary transfer of a beneficiary's interest. Several* 14 members of the Joint Editorial Board for Uniform Probate Code are of the view
15 that the settlor should be able to restrain either voluntary or involuntary transfer.
16 The Drafting Committee is unanimously of the view that the draft is correct but
17 invites the Conference's opinion.

18 Comment

19 Under this section, a settlor has the power to restrain the transfer of a 20 beneficiary's interest, regardless of whether the beneficiary has an interest in income,
21 in principal, or both. Unless one of the exceptions under this article applies, a 22 creditor of the beneficiary is prohibited from attaching a protected interest and may 23 only attempt to collect directly from the beneficiary after payment is made. This 24 section is similar to Restatement (Second) of Trusts §§ 152-153 (1959), and 25 Restatement (Third) of Trusts § 58 (Tentative Draft No. 2, 1999). For the 26 definition of spendthrift provision, see Section 102(14).

27 Subsection (b), which is derived from the Texas Trust Code, allows a settlor 28 to provide maximum spendthrift protection simply by stating in the instrument that 29 all interests are held subject to a "spendthrift trust" or words of similar effect. For 30 another use of a shorthand phrase to express concepts that might otherwise require 31 detailed drafting, see Uniform Probate Code Section 2-213 (waiver of "all rights" or 32 equivalent language in pre- or post-marital agreement sufficient to waive rights to 33 elective share, exempt property, and homestead and family allowances).

1 A disclaimer, because it is a refusal to accept ownership of an interest and 2 not a transfer of an interest already owned, is not affected by the presence or 3 absence of a spendthrift provision. Also, most disclaimer statutes expressly provide 4 that the validity of a disclaimer is not affected by a spendthrift protection. See, e.g., 5 Unif. Probate Code § 2-801.

6 While a valid spendthrift provision makes it impossible for a beneficiary to 7 make a legally binding transfer, a trustee is not penalized for voluntarily honoring
8 the assignment. A voluntary assignment by a beneficiary as to periodic payments 9 otherwise due the beneficiary may be honored by a trustee but is revocable by the 10 beneficiary at any time.

11 SECTION 502. CLAIM OF BENEFICIARY’S CREDITOR AGAINST 12 TRUST WITHOUT SPENDTHRIFT PROVISION. If a beneficiary’s interest is 13 not protected by a spendthrift provision, a creditor or assignee of the beneficiary 14 may reach the beneficiary’s interest in an appropriate judicial proceeding, including a 15 proceeding to attach present or future distributions to or for the benefit of the 16 beneficiary.

17 Comment

18 Absent a valid spendthrift provision, the interest of a beneficiary may be 19 reached the same as any other of the beneficiary’s assets. This does not necessarily 20 mean that the creditor can collect all distributions made to the beneficiary. Other 21 creditor law of the State may limit the creditor to a specified percentage of a 22 distribution. See, e.g., Cal. Prob. Code § 15306.5.

23 This section does not prescribe the procedures for reaching a beneficiary’s
24 interest, leaving that issue to the enacting State’s laws on creditor rights.
25 Consequently, the section provides that a creditor or assignee may pursue collection
26 in “an appropriate judicial proceeding.” The section does clarify, however, that an 27 order obtained against the trustee, whatever state procedure may have been used, 28 may extend to future distributions whether made directly to the beneficiary or to 29 others for the beneficiary’s benefit. By allowing an order to extend to future
30 payments, the need for the creditor periodically to return to court will be reduced.

31 While this section does not prescribe creditor procedure, the creditor
32 typically will serve an order on the trustee attaching the beneficiary’s interest,

1 although the particular State's law may use other terms, such as garnishment or 2 creditor bill. Assuming the validity of the order cannot be contested, the trustee will 3 then pay to the creditor instead of to the beneficiary any payments the trustee would 4 otherwise be required to make to the beneficiary, such as a required payment of 5 income, as well as payments the trustee might otherwise decide to make, such as a
6 discretionary distribution of principal. The creditor may also, in theory, force a 7 judicial sale of a beneficiary's interest.

8 SECTION 503. EXCEPTIONS TO SPENDTHRIFT PROVISION.

9 (a) Even if a trust contains a spendthrift provision, a beneficiary's child, 10 spouse, or former spouse who has a judgment against the beneficiary for support or 11 maintenance, or a judgment creditor who has provided services for the protection of 12 a beneficiary's interest in the trust, may obtain, in an appropriate judicial proceeding, 13 an order attaching present or future distributions to or for the benefit of the 14 beneficiary.

15 (b) A spendthrift provision is unenforceable against a State or the United 16 States to the extent a statute of this State or federal law so provides.

17 Policy Issues

18 This section specifies certain classes of creditors against whom a 19 spendthrift provision is unenforceable, among whom include a beneficiary's child, 20 spouse or former spouse who has a judgment against the beneficiary for support.
21 The Advisors representing the Probate Division of the ABA Section of Real
22 Property, Probate and Trust Law and the American College of Trust and Estate
23 Counsel have objected to this section, particularly as it pertains to claims of a 24 former spouse. The Drafting Committee is unanimously of the view that the draft is 25 correct but invites the Conference's opinion.

26 Comment

27 For trusts with spendthrift provisions, the effect of this section is to enable 28 certain creditors to bypass a spendthrift restriction but only with respect to their 29 particular claims. Under this section, exceptions are recognized for court orders for

1 the support of a child or a current or former spouse and for certain governmental 2 claims.

3 The exception in subsection (a) for orders to support a beneficiary's child or 4 current or former spouse is in accord with Restatement (Second) of Trusts § 157
5 (1959), Restatement (Third) of Trusts § 59 (Tentative Draft No. 2, 1999), and 6 numerous state statutes. It is also consistent with federal bankruptcy law, which 7 exempts such support orders from discharge. The effect of this exception is to 8 permit the claimant for unpaid support to attach present or future distributions that 9 would otherwise be made to the beneficiary. Distributions subject to attachment
10 include distributions required by the express terms of the trust, such as mandatory 11 payments of income, and distributions the trustee has otherwise decided to make,
12 such as through the exercise of discretion. Subsection (a), unlike Section 504, does 13 not authorize the spousal or child claimant to compel a distribution from the trust.
14 Section 504 authorizes a spouse or child claimant to compel a distribution to the 15 extent the trustee has abused a discretion or failed to comply with a standard for 16 distribution.

17 Subsection (b), which is similar to Restatement (Third) of Trusts § 59 cmt. a
18 (Tentative Draft No. 2, 1999), exempts certain governmental claims from a 19 spendthrift bar. Federal preemption guarantees that certain federal claims, such as 20 claims by the Internal Revenue Service, may bypass a spendthrift provision no
21 matter what this Act might say. The case law and relevant Internal Revenue Code
22 provisions on the exception for federal tax claims are collected in 2A Austin W.
23 Scott & William F. Fratcher, The Law of Trusts § 157.4 (4th ed. 1987). Regarding 24 claims by state governments, this subsection recognizes that States take a variety of 25 approaches with respect to collection, depending on whether the claim is for unpaid
26 taxes, for care provided at an institution, or for other charges. Acknowledging this 27 diversity, subsection (b) does not prescribe a definite rule, but instead refers to other
28 statutes of the State on whether a particular claim is barred or exempted from a 29 spendthrift provision.

30 Unlike Restatement (Second) of Trusts § 157 (1959), and Restatement
31 (Third) of Trusts § 59 (Tentative Draft No. 2, 1999), this Act does not create an 32 exception to the spendthrift bar for creditors who have furnished necessary services
33 or supplies to the beneficiary. For a discussion of this and other exceptions to the 34 spendthrift bar, recognized in some States, see 2A Austin W. Scott & William F.
35 Fratcher, The Law of Trusts §§ 157-157.5 (4th ed. 1987).

36 SECTION 504. DISCRETIONARY TRUSTS AND TRUSTS SUBJECT
37 TO STANDARD.

(a) Except as otherwise provided in subsection (b), whether or not a trust contains a spendthrift provision, if the terms of the trust provide that the trustee shall pay to or for the benefit of a beneficiary income or principal of the trust subject to a standard, in the discretion of the trustee, or both, a creditor of a beneficiary may not compel a distribution from the trust, even if the trustee has failed to comply with the standard or abused the discretion.

(b) To the extent a trustee has failed to comply with a standard or abused a discretion:

(1) a distribution may be compelled in an appropriate judicial proceeding by a child, spouse, or former spouse who has a judgment against a beneficiary for support or maintenance; and

(2) the court shall direct the trustee to pay to the spouse, former spouse, or child such amount as is equitable under the circumstances but not more than the amount the trustee would have been required to distribute to or for the benefit of the beneficiary had the trustee complied with the standard or not abused the discretion.

(c) This section does not limit the right of a beneficiary to maintain a judicial proceeding against a trustee for an abuse of discretion or failure to comply with a standard for distribution.

Policy Issues

Subsection (b) of this section allows a spouse, former spouse, or child who has a judgment for support against a beneficiary to reach the interest of the beneficiary which is subject to the discretion of the trustee or a standard of distribution. The claimant can reach only that amount which would have been distributed to the beneficiary had the trustee not abused a discretion or failed to comply with a standard. The court is to award the claimant the portion of the

1 shortfall which the court considers equitable under the circumstances. The 2 Advisors representing the Probate Division of the ABA Section of Real Property,
3 Probate and Trust Law and the Advisor representing the American College of Trust
4 and Estate Counsel have objected to this provision, particularly as it pertains to 5 claims of a former spouse. The Drafting Committee is unanimously of the view
6 that the draft is correct but invites the Conference's opinion.

7 Comment

8 Pursuant to Section 501, the effect of a valid spendthrift provision, where 9 applicable, is to prohibit a creditor from collecting on a distribution prior to its 10 receipt by the beneficiary. If the trust is not protected by a spendthrift provision, or 11 should the creditor fit within one of the exceptions created by Section 503, the 12 creditor may attach a distribution the trustee is required to or has otherwise decided 13 to make to the beneficiary. If the trust does not contain a spendthrift provision, the 14 creditor may also conceivably force a sale of the beneficiary's interest. See Section 15 502. But the mere power to attach an interest does not mean that a creditor can 16 force a trustee to exercise discretion or make a distribution based on a standard.

17 Subsection (a), which establishes the general rule, forbids a creditor from 18 compelling a distribution from the trust, even if the trustee has failed to comply with 19 the standard of distribution or has abused a discretion. Per subsection (c), the 20 power to force a distribution due to an abuse of discretion or failure to comply with 21 a standard belongs solely to the beneficiary. Under Section 814, a trustee must 22 always exercise a discretionary power in good faith and with regard to the purposes
23 of the trust and the interest of the beneficiaries.

24 Subsection (b) creates an exception for support claims of a spouse, former 25 spouse, or child who have a judgment against a beneficiary for support or 26 maintenance. While a creditor of a beneficiary may not in general assert that a 27 trustee has abused discretion or failed to comply with a standard of distribution, 28 such a claim may be asserted by the beneficiary's spouse, former spouse, or child, 29 but only if made in an appropriate judicial proceeding. The court must direct the 30 trustee to pay the spouse or child such amount as is equitable under the 31 circumstances but not in excess of the amount the trustee was otherwise required to 32 distribute to or for the benefit of the beneficiary. Before fixing this amount, the 33 court with jurisdiction over the trust should consider that in setting the respective 34 support award, an obligation on which the beneficiary has now defaulted, the family
35 court has already considered the respective needs and assets of the family. The Act 36 does not attempt to prescribe the particular procedural method for enforcing a 37 support judgment against the trust, leaving that matter to local collection law. For 38 an example, see Cal. Prob. Code § 15305.

1 SECTION 505. CREDITOR’S CLAIM AGAINST SETTLOR.

2 (a) Whether or not the terms of a trust contain a spendthrift provision, the 3 following rules apply:

4 (1) During the lifetime of the settlor, the property of a revocable trust is 5 subject to claims of the settlor’s creditors.

6 (2) With respect to an irrevocable trust, a creditor or assignee of the 7 settlor may reach the maximum amount that can be distributed to or for the settlor’s
8 benefit. If a trust has more than one settlor, the amount the creditor or assignee of a 9 particular settlor may reach may not exceed the settlor’s interest in the portion of 10 the trust attributable to that settlor’s contribution.

11 (3) After the death of a settlor, and subject to the settlor’s right to direct 12 the source from which liabilities will be paid, the property of a trust that was 13 revocable at the settlor’s death is subject to claims of the settlor’s creditors, costs of 14 administration of the settlor’s estate, the expenses of the settlor’s funeral and 15 disposal of remains, and statutory allowances to a surviving spouse and children to 16 the extent the settlor’s probate estate is inadequate to satisfy those claims, costs, 17 expenses, and allowances.

18 (b) For purposes of this section:

19 (1) during the period the power may be exercised, the holder of a 20 presently exercisable power of withdrawal is treated in the same manner as the 21 settlor of a revocable trust to the extent of the property subject to the power; and

(2) upon the lapse, release, or waiver of the power, the holder is no longer treated as the settlor of the trust but only to the extent the value of the property subject to the power at the time of the lapse, release, or waiver did not exceed the greater of the amount specified in Section 2041(b)(2) or 2514(e) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, or Section 2503(b) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986; in either case as in effect on January 1, [____], or as later amended.

Policy Issues

Subsection (a)(2) of this section restates common law doctrine by providing that notwithstanding a spendthrift provision a creditor or assignee of a settlor may reach the maximum amount that the trustee could pay to or for the settlor's benefit. Recently, Alaska and Delaware have passed statutes abrogating the common law doctrine. In those two States, if the trust contains a spendthrift provision, the beneficial interest of a settlor is generally protected from creditor claims until and unless the trustee makes a distribution to the settlor. The Drafting Committee supports leaving subsection (a)(2) as is but invites the Conference's comments on this issue.

Comment

Subsection (a)(1) states what is now a well accepted conclusion, that a revocable trust is subject to the settlor's creditors while the settlor is living. Such claims were not allowed at common law, however. See Restatement (Second) of Trusts § 330, cmt. o (1959). Because a settlor usually also retains a beneficial interest which a creditor may reach under subsection (a)(2), the common law rule, in States still adhering to this approach, is normally of little significance. See Restatement (Second) of Trusts § 156(2) (1959).

Subsection (a)(2), which is based on Section 156 of the Restatement (Second) of Trusts (1959), and Restatement (Third) of Trusts § 58(2) & cmt. e (Tentative Draft No. 2, 1999), follows traditional doctrine in providing that a settlor who is also a beneficiary may not use the trust as a shield against the settlor's creditors. Whether the trust contains a spendthrift provision or not, a creditor of the settlor may reach the maximum amount that the trustee could have paid to the settlor-beneficiary. Should the trustee have discretion to distribute the entire income and principal to the settlor, the effect of this subsection is to place the settlor's creditors in the same position as if the trust had not been created. For the definition of "settlor," see Section 102(13).

1 This section does not address possible rights against a settlor should the 2 settlor have been insolvent at the time of the trust's creation or was rendered
3 insolvent by the transfer of property to the trust. This subject is instead left to the 4 State's law on fraudulent transfers. A transfer to the trust by an insolvent settlor
5 may also constitute a voidable preference under federal bankruptcy law.

6 Subsection (a)(3) recognizes that a revocable trust is usually employed as a 7 will substitute. As such, the trust assets, following the death of the settlor, should 8 be subject to the settlor's debts and other charges. However, in accordance with 9 traditional doctrine, the assets of the settlor's probate estate must normally first be 10 exhausted before the assets of the revocable trust can be reached.

11 This section does not attempt to address the procedural issues raised by the 12 need to first exhaust the decedent's probate estate to reach the assets of the 13 revocable trust. Nor does this section address the priority of the creditor claims or 14 the possible liability of the decedent's other nonprobate assets for the decedent's 15 debts and other charges. Subsection (a)(3), however, does ratify the typical 16 pourover will, revocable trust plan. Such a plan will usually shift a portion if not all 17 of the death-related liabilities from the probate estate to the revocable trust. As long 18 as the rights of the creditor or family member claiming a statutory allowance are not 19 impaired, the settlor is free to shift liability from the probate estate to the revocable
20 trust.

21 This section does not cover all creditor issues that may arise in connection
22 with revocable trusts, in particular the possible liability of other nonprobate assets
23 for unpaid claims. These issues, which extend well beyond the law of trusts, are 24 addressed in Section 6-102 of the Uniform Probate Code, which was approved at 25 the Commissioners' 1998 Annual Meeting.

26 Subsection (b)(1) treats a presently exercisable general power of 27 appointment as the functional equivalent of a power of revocation because the two 28 powers are functionally the same. This is also the approach taken in Restatement 29 (Third) of Trusts § 56 cmt. b (Tentative Draft No. 2, 1999). If the power is 30 unlimited, the property subject to the power will be fully subject to the claims of the 31 power holder's creditors, the same as the power holder's other assets. If the power 32 holder retains the power until death, the property subject to the power may be liable
33 for claims and statutory allowances to the extent the power holder's probate estate 34 is insufficient to satisfy those claims and allowances. For powers limited either in 35 time or amount, such as a right to withdraw a $10,000 annual exclusion contribution
36 within 30 days, this subsection would limit the creditor to the $10,000 contribution 37 and require the creditor to take action prior to the expiration of the 30-day period.

Following the release or lapse of a presently exercisable general power of appointment, the property formerly subject to the power will normally remain subject to the claims of the power holder's creditors as provided in subsection (a)(2). A creditor or assignee of the power holder may reach the maximum amount that can be distributed to or for the now former power holder's benefits. Following the lead of Arizona and Texas, however, subsection (b)(2) creates an exception for trust property which was subject to a Crummey or a 5 or 5 power. Upon the lapse, release, or waiver of a power, the holder is no longer treated as the settlor of the trust to the extent the value of the property subject to the power at the time of the lapse, release, waiver did not exceed the greater of the amounts specified in IRC §§ 2041(b)(2) or 2514(e) [greater of 5% or $5,000], or IRC § 2503(b) [$10,000 in 1999]. See Ariz. Rev. Stat. § 14-7705; Tex. Prop. Code Ann. § 112.035.

This Act does not address creditor issues with respect to property subject to a special power of appointment or testamentary general power of appointment. For creditor rights against such interests, see Restatement (Property) Second: Donative Transfers §§ 13.1-13.7 (1986).

SECTION 506. OVERDUE DISTRIBUTION. Whether or not a trust contains a spendthrift provision, a creditor or assignee of a beneficiary may reach a distribution directed to be made to the beneficiary by the terms of the trust if the trustee has failed to make the distribution within a reasonable time.

Comment

The effect of a spendthrift provision is generally to totally insulate a beneficiary's interest until a distribution is made and has been received by the beneficiary. See Section 501. But this section, along with several other sections in this article, recognize exceptions to this general rule. Whether a trust contains a spendthrift provision or not, a trustee should not be able to avoid creditor claims against a beneficiary by refusing to make a distribution required to be made by the express terms of the trust. On the other hand, a spendthrift provision would become largely a nullity were a beneficiary's creditors able to attach all required payments as soon as they became due. This section reflects a compromise between these two competing principles. A creditor can reach a distribution required to be made to the beneficiary by the express terms of the trust only if the trustee has failed to make the payment within a reasonable time after the required distribution date. Following this reasonable period, payments required to be made by the express terms of the trust are in effect being held by the trustee as agent for the beneficiary and should be treated the same as any other of the beneficiary's personal assets.

1
2

3
4
5
6
7
8
9
10
11
12
13
14
15

16
17
18
19 20

21
22

23
24
25
26
27
28
29
30

31
32
33

ARTICLE 6
REVOCABLE TRUSTS

General Comment

Each section of this article deals with issues of significance not totally settled under current law. Because of the widespread use in recent years of the revocable trust as an alternative to a will, this short article is one of the more important parts of the Act. This article and of the other parts of this Act treat the revocable trust as the functional equivalent of a will. Section 601 provides that the capacity standard for wills is to apply in determining whether the settlor had capacity to create a revocable trust. Section 602, after providing that a trust is presumed revocable unless stated otherwise, prescribes the procedure for revocation or modification, whether the trust contains one or multiple settlors. Section 603 provides that while a trust is revocable and the settlor has capacity, the settlor has all rights that would otherwise be granted to the beneficiaries. Section 604 prescribes a statute of limitations on contest of a trust that was revocable at death.

Sections 601 and 604, because they address requirements relating to creation and contest of trusts, are not subject to alteration in the terms of the trust. See Section 103. Sections 602 and 603 are not so limited and are fully subject to modification by the settlor.

SECTION 601. CAPACITY OF SETTLOR OF REVOCABLE TRUST.

An individual who has capacity to make a will has capacity to create, amend, revoke, or add property to a revocable trust.

Comment

This section is patterned after Restatement (Third) of Trusts § 11 (Tentative Draft No. 1, 1996). The revocable trust is used primarily as a will substitute, with its key provision being the determination of the persons to receive the trust property upon the settlor’s death. To solidify the use of the revocable trust as a device for transferring property at death, the settlor usually also executes a pourover will. The use of a pourover will assures that property not transferred to the trust during life will be combined with any trust property which the settlor did manage to convey.

Given this primary use of the revocable trust as a device for disposing of property at death, the capacity standard for wills, and not for lifetime gifts, should apply. If the standard of capacity affects lifetime management of the trust, this may

1 be dealt with by reformation or other appropriate remedies that will not jeopardize 2 the overall plan of disposition by making the standard for the trust different or 3 higher than that for making a will. See Restatement (Third) of Trusts § 11 cmt. b
4 (Tentative Draft No. 1, 1996).

5 The application of the capacity standard for wills does not mean that the 6 revocable trust must be executed with the formalities of a will. There are no
7 execution requirements under this Act for a trust not created by will, and a trust, at 8 least one containing personal property, may be created by an oral statement. See 9 Section 405 and Comment.

10 The Act does not explicitly spell out the standard of capacity necessary to 11 create other types of trusts, although Section 402 does require that the settlor have 12 capacity. This section expressly states a capacity standard for the creation of 13 revocable trusts because of the lack of clarity in the case law and the importance of 14 the issue in modern estate planning. No such uncertainty exists with respect to the 15 capacity standard for other types of trusts. To create a testamentary trust, the 16 settlor must have the capacity to make a will. To create an irrevocable trust, the 17 settlor must have the capacity during lifetime to transfer the property free of trust.
18 See generally Restatement (Third) of Trusts § 11 (Tentative Draft No. 1, 1996).

19 SECTION 602. REVOCATION OR AMENDMENT OF REVOCABLE
20 TRUST.

21 (a) Unless the terms of a trust expressly provide that the trust is irrevocable,
22 the settlor may revoke or amend the trust. This subsection does not affect a trust
23 created under an instrument executed before [the effective date of this [Act]].

24 (b) If a revocable trust is created or funded by more than one settlor:

25 (1) to the extent the trust consists of community property, the trust may 26 be revoked by either spouse acting alone but may be amended only by joint action of 27 both spouses; and

1 (2) to the extent the trust consists of other property, each settlor may 2 revoke or amend the trust as to the portion of the trust property attributable to that 3 settlor's contribution.

4 (c) A trust that is revocable by the settlor may be revoked or amended:

5 (1) by substantially complying with the method specified by the terms of 6 the trust; or

7 (2) unless the terms of the trust expressly make the specified method
8 exclusive, by a will or any other method manifesting clear and convincing evidence 9 of the settlor's intent.

10 (d) Upon revocation of a revocable trust, the trustee shall deliver the trust 11 property as the settlor directs.

12 (e) A settlor's powers with respect to revocation, amendment, or 13 distribution of trust property may be exercised by an agent under a power of 14 attorney only to the extent expressly authorized by the terms of the trust or the 15 power.

16 (f) A [conservator] may revoke or amend a revocable trust with the 17 approval of the court supervising the [conservatorship]. A [guardian] may not 18 revoke the settlor's revocable trust.

19 Policy Issues

20 Subsection (a) of this section, following the lead of California, Montana,
21 Oklahoma and Texas, provides that a trust is revocable unless the terms of the trust
22 provide otherwise. The common law rule and the law of the other States is the 23 opposite, that is, a trust is irrevocable absent contrary intent. At least one member
24 of the Drafting Committee is of the view that the Act should follow the common law
25 rule. The Drafting Committee invites the Conference's views on this issue.

Comment

Subsection (a), which provides that a settlor may revoke or modify a trust unless the terms of the trust expressly state that the trust is irrevocable, is contrary to the common law of trusts. The common law presumes that a trust is irrevocable absent evidence of contrary intent. See Restatement (Second) of Trusts § 330 (1959). This subsection does not govern trusts created prior to the effective date of this Act. Nor does this subsection govern trusts created in another State whose validity, under choice of law rules, is governed by the law of a State following the common law rule. In addition, this subsection does not prevent a trust from being reformed to make it irrevocable if the settlor was proceeding under a mistake of law at the time of its creation. See Section 413 (reformation of trust). But far easier than relying on this statute, choice of law rules, or reformation is for the drafter to simply express in the terms of the trust whether the trust is revocable or irrevocable.

A power of revocation includes the power to modify. See Restatement (Second) of Trusts § 331 cmt. g (1959). An unrestricted power to modify may also include the power to revoke a trust. See Restatement (Second) of Trusts § 331 cmt. h.

Subsection (b) provides default rules for revocation or modification of a trust with multiple settlors. The settlor's authority to revoke or modify the trust varies depending on the extent to which the trust contains community property. To the extent the trust contains community property, the trust may be revoked by either spouse acting alone but may be modified only by joint action of both spouses. The purpose of this provision, and the reason for the use of joint trusts in community property States, is to preserve the community character of property transferred to the trust. While community property does not prevail in a majority of States, contributions of community property to trusts created in noncommunity property States does occur. This is due to the mobility of settlors, and the fact that community property retains its community character when a couple move from a community to a noncommunity property State. For this reason, subsection (b), and its provision on contributions of community property, should be enacted in all States, whether community or noncommunity.

With respect to separate property contributed to the trust, or all property of the trust if none of the trust property consists of community property, each settlor may revoke or modify the trust as to the portion of the trust contributed by that settlor. The inclusion of a rule for contributions of separate property does not mean that the drafters of this Act concluded that the use of joint trusts should be encouraged. The rule is included because of the widespread use of joint trusts in noncommunity property States in recent years. Due to the desire to preserve the community character of trust property, joint trusts are a necessity in community

1 property States. Unless community property will be contributed to the trust, no
2 such motivating reason exists for their creation in a noncommunity property State.

3 This section does not explicitly require that the other settlor or settlors be 4 notified if a joint trust is revoked by less than all of the settlors, but such notice
5 would be required under Section 813(f). While the trust is revocable and the settlor
6 has capacity, Section 813(f) provides that the trustee's duty to keep the beneficiaries
7 reasonably informed of developments is owed exclusively to the settlor. To avoid 8 an issue on how this duty applies to a trust with multiple settlors, subsection (f) 9 further provides that in the case of a trust with multiple settlors, this duty to keep 10 the settlor informed extends to all of the settlors. Notifying the other settlor or 11 settlors of the revocation or modification will place them in a better position to 12 protect their interests. If the revocation or modification by less than all of the 13 settlors breaches an implied agreement not to revoke or modify the trust, those 14 harmed by the action could sue for breach of contract. If the trustee fails to notify 15 the other settlor or settlors of the revocation, the parties aggrieved by the trustee's 16 failure could sue the trustee for breach of trust.

17 Under subsection (c), the settlor may revoke a revocable trust by 18 substantially complying with the method specified in the terms of the trust or by a 19 will or any other method manifesting clear and convincing evidence of the settlor's 20 intent to revoke. Only if the method specified in the terms of the trust is exclusive is 21 use of the other methods prohibited. Even then, a failure to comply with a technical 22 requirement, such as required notarization, may be excused as long as compliance 23 with the method specified in the terms of the trust is otherwise substantial.

24 While revocation of a trust is ordinarily accomplished by signing and 25 delivering a written document to the trustee, other methods, such as by physical act 26 or by oral statement coupled with a withdrawal of the property, may also 27 demonstrate the necessary intent. These less formal methods, because they provide 28 less reliable indicia of intent, are not to be encouraged.

29 Subsection (c) does not require that a trustee concur in a revocation or 30 modification of a trust. Such a concurrence would be necessary only if expressly 31 required by the terms of the trust. If the trustee concludes that a modification
32 unacceptably changes the trustee's duties, the trustee is free to resign. See Section 33 705.

34 Subsection (d), providing that upon revocation the trust property is to be 35 distributed as the settlor directs, codifies a provision commonly included in 36 revocable trust instruments.

1 Subsection (e) allows an agent under a power of attorney to revoke or 2 modify a revocable trust only to the extent the terms of the trust or power of 3 attorney expressly so permit. An express provision is required because most settlors 4 usually intend the revocable trust, and not the power of attorney, to function as the 5 settlor's principal property management device. The power of attorney is usually 6 intended as a backup for assets not transferred to the revocable trust or to address
7 specific topics, such as the power to sign tax returns or apply for certain government
8 benefits, which are questionably beyond the authority of a trustee or which are not 9 customarily granted to a trustee.

10 Many States allow a conservator to exercise the settlor's power of 11 revocation with the prior approval of the court supervising the conservatorship.
12 See, e.g., Unif. Prob. Code § 5-407. Section 103 allows a settlor to direct in the 13 terms of the trust that this other law not apply. The fact that a conservator may be 14 prohibited from revoking the trust does not mean that the conservator is prohibited
15 from taking appropriate action to protect the settlor's interest if the settlor, now 16 under conservatorship, is also a beneficiary of the trust. For example, the 17 conservator could petition for removal of the trustee. See Section 706. The 18 conservator, acting on the settlor-beneficiary's behalf, could also bring an action to 19 enforce the trust according to its terms. Pursuant to Section 304, a conservator may 20 act on behalf of the beneficiary whose estate the conservator controls whenever a 21 consent or other action by the beneficiary is required or may be given under the Act.

22 Subsection (f) denies a guardian the right to revoke a revocable trust created 23 by the ward. A "guardian," as defined in Section 102(5), does not have authority to 24 manage property. Also, in most States statutory provisions authorizing a court to 25 revise the ward's estate plan only apply to the person appointed to manage the 26 ward's property, described as a "conservator" under this Act. Should it be desired 27 to have the guardian participate on the settlor's behalf in the revocation of the 28 ward's revocable trust, the appropriate course of action in most States is to request
29 that the court grant the guardian conservatorship powers.

30 The settlor's power to revoke the trust under this section does not preclude 31 termination of the trust under another section.

32 SECTION 603. SETTLOR'S EXERCISE OF RIGHTS OF 33 BENEFICIARIES; PRESENTLY EXERCISABLE POWERS OF 34 WITHDRAWAL.

1 (a) Except as otherwise provided in subsection (b), while a trust is 2 revocable:

3 (1) rights of the beneficiaries are held by, and the duties of the trustee are 4 owed exclusively to, the settlor; and

5 (2) the trustee may follow a written direction of the settlor, even if 6 contrary to the terms of the trust.

7 (b) While a trust is revocable and the settlor does not have capacity to 8 revoke the trust, rights of the beneficiaries are held by the beneficiaries unless the 9 settlor is represented by an agent under a durable power of attorney, a 10 [conservator], or a [guardian] who is someone other than the trustee.

11 (c) The holder of a presently exercisable power of withdrawal has the rights
12 of a settlor of a revocable trust under this section to the extent of the property 13 subject to the power.

14 Comment

15 This section has the effect of postponing the enjoyment of rights of 16 beneficiaries of revocable trusts until the death or incapacity of the settlor or other 17 person holding the power to revoke the trust. This section thus recognizes that the 18 settlor of a revocable trust is in control of the trust and should have the right to 19 enforce the trust. Because of this degree of control, the trustee may also rely on a 20 written direction of the settlor, even if contrary to the terms of the trust.
21 Alternatively, the written direction of the settlor might be regarded as a modification
22 of the trust.

23 Under this section, the duty to inform and report to beneficiaries is owed to 24 the settlor of a revocable trust as long as the settlor has capacity. See also Section 25 813 (trustee's duty to inform and report to beneficiaries).

26 If the settlor loses capacity, subsection (b) provides that the duty to inform 27 and report to beneficiaries is owed to the beneficiaries and not the settlor unless the 28 settlor is represented by an agent under a durable power of attorney, conservator, or

1 guardian. If the settlor is so represented, per Article 3, notices which would have 2 been provided to the settlor may be given to the agent, conservator, or guardian, as 3 applicable, and the agent, conservator, or guardian may give a consent on behalf of 4 the person represented. Unless the agent or conservator succeeds to the settlor's 5 powers with respect to revocation, amendment, or distribution as provided in 6 Section 602, the agent or conservator does not have authority to give the trustee
7 instructions contrary to the terms of the trust. Because a guardian cannot succeed 8 to the settlor's powers with respect to revocation, amendment, or distribution unless 9 the terms of the trust expressly so provide, a guardian under the Act rarely would 10 have authority to give the trustee instructions contrary to the terms of the trust.

11 Subsection (c) makes clear that a holder of a presently exercisable power of 12 withdrawal has the same powers over the trust as the settlor of a revocable trust.
13 Equal treatment is warranted due to the holder's equivalent power to control the 14 trust.

15 SECTION 604. LIMITATION ON ACTION CONTESTING VALIDITY
16 OF REVOCABLE TRUST.

17 (a) Upon the death of the settlor of a trust that was revocable at the settlor's 18 death, a person may not bring a judicial proceeding to contest the validity of a 19 revocable trust following the first to occur of:

20 (1) [120] days after the date the trustee informed the person of the 21 trust's existence, of the trustee's name and address, and of whether the person is a
22 beneficiary;

23 (2) if a pourover devise to the trust is provided under the settlor's will,
24 [120] days after the date the will was admitted to probate;

25 (3) two years following the settlor's death; or

26 (4) the date the person's right to contest was precluded by an 27 adjudication, consent, or other statute of limitation; and

1 (b) Upon the death of the settlor of a trust that was revocable at the 2 settlor's death, the trustee may proceed to distribute the trust property in 3 accordance with the terms of the trust absent actual knowledge of a pending judicial
4 proceeding contesting the validity of the trust, or notification by a potential
5 contestant of a possible contest, followed by the filing of the contest within 30 days.

6 (c) Until a contest is barred under subsection (a), a beneficiary of what later
7 turns out to have been an invalid trust is liable to return any distribution received.

8 Comment

9 This section provides finality to when a contest of a revocable trust may be 10 brought. The section is designed to allow an adequate time in which to bring a 11 contest while at the same time allowing for the expeditious distribution of the trust
12 property following the settlor's death.

13 A trust can be contested on a variety of grounds. The contestant may allege 14 that no trust was created due to lack of intent to create a trust or lack of capacity
15 (see Section 402), that undue influence, duress, or fraud was involved in the trust's 16 creation (see Section 404), or that the trust had been revoked or modified (see 17 Section 602). This section applies not only to contests to invalidate trusts in their 18 entirety but also to contests to invalidate trusts in part.

19 Subsection (a) specifies the time period in which a contest can be brought.
20 A contest is barred upon the first to occur of four possible events. The maximum 21 possible time for bringing a contest is two years following the death of the settlor.
22 Even without having received notice of the trust, this should provide potential 23 contestants with ample time in which to determine whether they have an interest that 24 will be affected by the trust. Many trustees may wish to shorten the contest period,
25 however. They may do so by giving notice. Drawing from California Probate Code 26 § 16061.7, subsection (a)(1) provides that a contest by a particular person is barred 27 120 days after the date the trustee informed the person of the trust's existence, of 28 the trustee's name and address, and of whether the person is a beneficiary. The 29 reference to "120" days has been placed in brackets to suggest that the enacting
30 jurisdiction insert its statutory time period for contesting a will. Because two years 31 from the settlor's death is the outside time limit for filing a contest, a contest is 32 automatically barred two years after the settlor's death even if notice is sent by the 33 trustee less than 120 days prior to the end of the period.

1 Revocable trusts are typically created as part of a comprehensive estate plan.
2 While all of the settlor's assets should ideally be placed in the trust during the 3 settlor's lifetime in order to avoid probate, a will with a pourover devise to the trust 4 will typically be prepared to guard against the possibility that not all assets will have
5 been placed in the trust. If such a pourover will is probated following the settlor's 6 death, those with an interest in contesting the trust will be identical to those with an 7 interest in contesting the will. As a result, sending notice of the trust to those who 8 have received notice of probate would be largely a superfluous act. Recognizing 9 this duplication, subsection (a)(2) provides an alternate bar to the sending of notice
10 of the trust. Drawing from Illinois Compiled Statutes 5/13-223, the contest of the 11 trust must be brought within 120 days after the date the will was admitted to 12 probate. The enacting jurisdiction is to substitute its applicable will contest period 13 for the reference to "120" days, which has been placed in brackets for this reason.

14 The statute of limitations provided in this section is not intended to 15 supersede any other statute of limitations that might apply to bar contest of the trust.
16 Consequently, under subsection (a)(4) the bringing of a contest is not only 17 precluded by a prior adjudication or consent but also by another statute of 18 limitations.

19 Because only a tiny minority of trusts are actually contested, trustees should 20 not be restrained from making distributions because of concern about possible
21 liability should a contest later be filed. Subsection (b) facilitates the expeditious
22 distribution of the trust. Upon the death of the settlor of a trust that was revocable 23 at the settlor's death, the trustee may proceed to distribute the trust property in 24 accordance with the terms of the trust absent actual knowledge of a pending judicial
25 proceeding contesting the validity of the trust, or notification by a potential
26 contestant of a possible contest, followed by the filing of the contest within 30 days.
27 While a distribution in compliance with subsection (b) discharges the trustee from 28 potential liability, per subsection (c) the beneficiaries of what may later turn out to 29 have been an invalid trust are liable to return any distribution received. Issues as to 30 whether the distribution must be returned with interest, or with income earned or 31 profit made are not addressed in this section but are left to the common law and the 32 courts.

33 This section does not address possible liability for the debts of the deceased
34 settlor nor a trustee's possible liability to creditors for distributing trust assets. For 35 possible liability of the trust, see Section 505(a)(3) and Comment. Whether a 36 trustee can be held liable for creditor claims following distribution of trust assets is 37 addressed in proposed Uniform Probate Code § 6-102, which was approved by the 38 Uniform Law Commissioners at its 1998 Annual Meeting.

SECTION 605. RULES OF CONSTRUCTION. The rules of construction that apply in this State to the interpretation of and disposition of property by will also apply to the interpretation of the terms of a revocable trust and the disposition of the trust property.

Comment

This section is patterned after Restatement (Third) of Trusts § 25(2) and comment e (Tentative Draft No. 1, 1996). The revocable trust is used primarily as a will substitute, with its key provision being the determination of the persons to receive the trust property upon the settlor's death. Given this functional equivalence between the revocable trust and a will, the rules for interpreting the disposition of property at death should be the same whether the individual has chosen a will or revocable trust as the individual's primary estate planning instrument. Over the years, the legislatures of the States and the courts have developed a series of rules of construction reflecting the legislative or judicial guess as to how the average testator would wish to dispose of property in cases where the will is silent or insufficiently clear. Few legislatures have yet to extend these rules of construction to revocable trusts although a number of courts have done so as a matter of judicial construction. See Restatement (Third) of Trusts § 25, Reporter's Note to cmt. e (Tentative Draft No. 1, 1996).

Because there is wide variation among the States on the rules of construction applicable to wills, this Act does not attempt to prescribe the exact rules but instead, similar to the Restatement, state a philosophy that the rules applicable to revocable trusts ought to be the same, whatever those rules might be. Instead of enacting this section, a jurisdiction enacting this Act may wish to enact detailed rules on the construction of revocable trusts, either in addition to its rules on the construction of wills or as part of one comprehensive statute applicable to both wills and trusts. For possible models, see Uniform Probate Code, Article 2, Parts 7 and 8; and California Probate Code §§ 21101-21630. The topics addressed by the California Probate Code, the more comprehensive of the two models, includes rules relating to:

- (1) Equitable conversion of real into personal property (CPC § 21107);
- (2) Abolition of doctrine of worthier title (CPC § 21108);
- (3) Antilapse upon predecease of beneficiary (CPC § 21109-21111);
- (4) Meaning of death “with” or “without” issue (CPC § 21112);

- 1 (5) Persons included within class gifts (CPC § 21113);
- 2 (6) Meaning of transfers to “heirs” (CPC § 21114);
- 3 (7) Inclusion of halfbloods, adoptees, persons born out of wedlock, and
- 4 others within terms of family relationship (CPC § 21115);
- 5 (8) Nonexoneration of gifts of encumbered property (CPC §21131);
- 6 (9) Gifts of securities (CPC § 21132)
- 7 (10) Ademption by extinction (CPC § 21133-21139);
- 8 (11) Perpetuities (CPC § 21200-21231);
- 9 (12) No contest clauses (CPC §21300-21333);
- 10 (13) Limitations on transfers to drafters (CPC § 21350-21356);
- 11 (14) Abatement (CPC § 21400-21406);
- 12 (15) Omitted spouses and children (CPC § 21600-21623).

13 Other rules of construction applicable to both wills and revocable trusts are 14 codified elsewhere in the California Probate Code.

15 Rules of construction applicable to both wills and revocable trust which are 16 found in the cited sections of the Uniform Probate Code (UPC) and which are not 17 mentioned on the above list, include:

- 18 (1) Requirement of survival for 120 hours (UPC § 2-702);
- 19 (2) Choice of law as to meaning and effect of governing instrument (UPC
- 20 § 2-703);
- 21 (3) Meaning of specific reference requirement in power of appointment
- 22 (UPC § 2-704);
- 23 (4) Representation among descendants (UPC § 2-709);
- 24 (5) Effect of homicide on property interests (UPC § 2-803);

1 (6) Revocation of probate and nonprobate transfers by divorce (UPC
2 § 2-804).

1
2

3
4
5
6
7
8
9
10
11
12
13
14

15
16

17
18

19 20

21
22

23
24
25

ARTICLE 7
OFFICE OF TRUSTEE

General Comment

This article contains a series of default rules dealing with the office of trustee, all of which may be superseded by the terms of the trust. Sections 701 and 702 address the process for getting a trustee into office, including the procedures for indicating an acceptance and whether bond will be required. Section 703 addresses cotrustees, permitting the cotrustees to act by majority action and specifying the extent to which one trustee may delegate to another. Sections 704 through 707 address changes in the office of trustee, specifying the circumstances when a vacancy must be filled, the procedure for resignation, the grounds for removal, and the process for appointing a successor. Sections 708 and 709 prescribe the standards for determining trustee compensation and reimbursement for expenses advanced.

Except for the court’s authority to require bond, all of the provisions of this article are subject to modification in the terms of the trust. See Section 103.

SECTION 701. ACCEPTANCE OR DECLINATION OF TRUSTEESHIP.

(a) Except as otherwise provided in subsection (c), a person designated as trustee accepts the trusteeship by:

(1) substantially complying with a method specified in the terms of the trust; or

(2) unless the terms of the trust make the specified method exclusive, accepting delivery of the trust property, exercising powers or performing duties as trustee, or otherwise indicating an acceptance of the trusteeship.

1 (b) A person designated as trustee who has not yet accepted the trusteeship
2 may decline the trusteeship. A failure to accept the trusteeship within a reasonable 3 time after the person knows of the designation is a declination of the trusteeship.

4 (c) A person designated as trustee, without accepting the trusteeship, may:

5 (1) act to preserve the trust property if, within a reasonable time after 6 acting, the person sends a written declination of the trusteeship to the settlor or, if 7 the settlor is dead or lacks capacity, to a qualified beneficiary; and

8 (2) inspect or investigate trust property to determine potential
9 environmental liability.

10 Comment

11 This section, specifying the requirements for a valid acceptance of the 12 trusteeship, implicates many of the same issues as arise in determining whether a 13 trust has been revoked. Consequently, the two provisions track each other closely.
14 Compare Section 701(a) with Section 602(c) (procedure for revoking or modifying 15 trust). Procedures specified in the terms of the trust are recognized, but only 16 substantial, not literal compliance is required. A failure to meet technical 17 requirements, such as notarization of the trustee's signature, does not result in a 18 failure to accept. Ordinarily, the trustee will indicate an acceptance by signing the 19 trust instrument or signing a separate written instrument. However, this section 20 recognizes any other method indicating the necessary intent, such as by knowingly 21 exercising trustee powers, unless the terms of the trust make a specified method
22 exclusive. This section also does not preclude an acceptance by estoppel or 23 damages for an unreasonable delay in signifying a decision as to an acceptance or 24 declination. For general background on issues relating to trustee acceptance and 25 declination, see Restatement (Second) of Trusts § 102 (1959); Restatement (Third)
26 of Trusts § 35 (Tentative Draft No. 2, 1999). Consistent with Section 201(b), 27 which emphasizes that continuing judicial supervision of a trust is the rare exception,
28 not the rule, the Act does not require that a trustee qualify in court.

29 To avoid the inaction that can result if the person designated as trustee fails
30 to communicate a decision to either accept or decline the trusteeship, subsection (b) 31 provides that a failure to accept within a reasonable time constitutes a declination of 32 the trusteeship. A trustee's declination normally precludes a later acceptance but 33 does not cause the trust to fail. See Restatement (Third) of Trusts § 35 cmt. c

1 (Tentative Draft No. 2, 1999). As to filling vacancies in the event of a declination,
2 see Section 704.

3 While a person designated as trustee who decides not to accept the 4 trusteeship need not provide a formal declination, a clear and early communication is 5 recommended. The appropriate recipient of the written declination depends upon 6 the particular circumstances. Ordinarily, it would be appropriate to give the 7 declination to the person who informs the person of the proposed trusteeship. If 8 judicial proceedings involving the trust are pending, the declination could be filed
9 with the court. In the case of a person named as trustee of a revocable trust, it
10 would be appropriate to give the declination to the settlor. In any event it would be 11 best to inform a beneficiary with a significant interest in the trust because that 12 beneficiary might be more motivated than others to seek appointment of a new 13 trustee.

14 Subsection (c)(1) makes clear that a nominated trustee may act expeditiously 15 to protect the trust property without being considered to have accepted the 16 trusteeship. However, upon conclusion of the intervention, the nominated trustee 17 must send a written declination of office to the settlor, if living and competent, 18 otherwise to a qualified beneficiary.

19 Because of the costly liability often at issue, subsection (c)(2) allows a 20 person designated as trustee to inspect the trust property for environmental hazards 21 without accepting the trusteeship. See also Sections 816(14) (trustee powers with 22 respect to environmental conditions), and 1010(b) (trustee nonliability for violation 23 of environmental law arising from ownership and control of trust property). The 24 Act does not provide for reimbursement of expenses incurred prior to a trustee's 25 acceptance of office. Reimbursement of the costs of an environmental inspection is 26 normally a subject for negotiation by the parties.

27 SECTION 702. TRUSTEE'S BOND.

28 (a) A trustee must give bond to secure performance of the trustee's duties 29 only if the court finds that a bond is needed to protect the interest of beneficiaries or 30 a bond is required by the terms of the trust and the court has not dispensed with the 31 requirement.

1 (b) The court may specify the amount of a bond, its liabilities, and whether
2 sureties are necessary. The court may modify or terminate a bond at any time.

3 (c) The cost of a bond is charged to the trust.

4 Comment

5 This provision is consistent with the Restatement and with the bonding
6 provisions of the Uniform Probate Code. See Restatement (Third) of Trusts § 34
7 cmt. a (Tentative Draft No. 2, 1999); Unif. Probate Code §§ 3-604 (personal 8 representatives), 5-410 (conservators), and 7-304 (trustees). Because a bond is 9 required only if the terms of the trust require bond or a bond is found by the court to 10 be necessary to protect the interests of beneficiaries, bond should rarely be required
11 under the Act. This section does not specifically excuse bond for financial-service 12 institutions with trust powers, preferring instead to leave this topic to separate 13 legislation.

14 This section does not attempt to detail all of the technical requirements that 15 the court may impose although such requirements are listed in the Uniform Probate
16 Code sections cited above. The amount of a bond otherwise required may be 17 reduced by the value of trust property deposited in a manner that prevents its 18 unauthorized disposition, and by the value of real property which the trustee, by 19 express limitation of power, lacks power to convey without court authorization.
20 Also, the court may excuse or otherwise modify a requirement of a bond, reduce or 21 increase the amount of a bond, release a surety, or permit the substitution of another 22 bond with the same or different sureties.

23 SECTION 703. COTRUSTEES.

24 (a) Cotrustees who are unable to reach a unanimous decision may act by 25 majority decision. If a cotrustee is unable to participate in a decision because of 26 conflict of interest, the decision may be made by a majority of the remaining 27 trustees.

28 (b) If a vacancy occurs in a cotrusteeship, the remaining cotrustees may act
29 for the trust.

1 (c) If a cotrustee is unavailable to perform duties because of absence, illness,
2 or other temporary incapacity, and prompt action is necessary to achieve the 3 purposes of the trust or to avoid injury to the trust property, the remaining cotrustee
4 or cotrustees may act for the trust as though they were the only trustees.

5 (d) If a trust has more than one trustee, each trustee shall:

6 (1) participate in the administration of the trust;

7 (2) not delegate to a cotrustee the performance of a function that the 8 settlor reasonably expected the trustees to perform except that the trustee may in all 9 cases delegate a function that if performed by the trustee would cause adverse tax
10 consequences to the trustee or the trust;

11 (3) take reasonable steps to prevent a cotrustee from committing a 12 material breach of trust, and to compel a cotrustee to redress a material breach of 13 trust.

14 (e) A trustee who does not join in an action of another trustee is not treated 15 as having participated in the action. A dissenting trustee who joins in an action at 16 the direction of a majority of the trustees is not treated as having participated in the 17 action if the dissenting trustee, at or before the time of the action, expressed the 18 dissent in writing or by other record to any other cotrustee.

19 Comment

20 Subsection (a) is in accord with Restatement (Third) of Trusts § 39
21 (Tentative Draft No. 2, 1999), which rejects earlier Restatement formulations
22 requiring unanimity among the trustees of a private trust. See Restatement 23 (Second) of Trusts § 194 (1959). This section is consistent with the prior 24 Restatement rule applicable to charitable trusts, which allowed action by a majority.

1 See Restatement (Second) of Trusts § 383 (1959). As provided in Section 103, the 2 rules of this section are subject to a contrary provision in the terms of the trust.

3 Under subsection (b), a majority of the remaining trustees may act for the 4 trust when a vacancy occurs in a cotrusteeship. Per Section 704, a vacancy in a 5 cotrusteeship need be filled only if there is no trustee remaining in office.

6 By permitting the trustees to act by a majority, this section contemplates that 7 there may be a trustee or trustees who might dissent. Subsection (e) protects the 8 dissenting cotrustee by providing that the dissenter is not treated as having 9 participated in the action. As long as the trustee expressed the dissent in writing or 10 by other record to a cotrustee at or the action in question, the dissenting trustee is 11 protected even if the dissenter joined the action at the direction of the majority, such 12 as to satisfy the demand of the other party to the transaction. For the definition of 13 “record,” see Section 102(12). However, should an action by the other trustee or 14 trustees constitute a material breach of trust, the dissenting trustee may be held 15 liable under subsection (d) for failing to take reasonable steps to rectify the improper 16 action. The responsibility to take action against a cotrustee codifies the substance of 17 Sections 184 and 224 of the Restatement (Second) of Trusts (1959).

18 Subsection (d) also addresses the extent to which a trustee may delegate the 19 performance of functions to a cotrustee. The standard differs from the standard for 20 delegation to an agent as provided in Section 807 because the two situations are 21 different. This provision is premised on the assumption that most settlors wish all of 22 their cotrustees to participate in the trust’s management. Utilizing language from 23 Restatement (Second) of Trusts § 171 (1959), the former provision of the 24 Restatement governing delegation to both agents and cotrustees, subsection (d)
25 prohibits a trustee from delegating to another trustee functions the settlor reasonably 26 expected the trustees to perform jointly. The exact extent to which a trustee may 27 delegate functions to another trustee in a particular case will vary depending on the 28 reasons the settlor decided to appoint cotrustees. The better practice is to address
29 the division of functions in the terms of the trust, as allowed by Section 103.

30 Because of the serious tax consequences that can sometimes result when a 31 beneficiary or a person legally obligated to support a beneficiary is named as trustee,
32 subsection (d) creates an exception to the general rule on delegation allowing a 33 cotrustee to delegate any function that would cause adverse tax consequences to the 34 trustee or trust.

35 A cotrustee’s assumption of duties because of a trustee’s inability to perform 36 the trusteeship is not a delegation. Under subsection (c), a cotrustee may assume 37 some or all of the functions of another trustee who is unavailable to perform duties
38 because of absence, illness, or other temporary incapacity.

1 SECTION 704. VACANCY IN TRUSTEESHIP; APPOINTMENTS BY
2 BENEFICIARIES OR COURT.

3 (a) A vacancy in a trusteeship occurs if:

4 (1) a person designated as trustee declines the trusteeship;

5 (2) a person designated as trustee cannot be identified or does not exist;

6 (3) a trustee resigns;

7 (4) a trustee is disqualified or removed;

8 (5) a trustee dies; or

9 (6) a [guardian] or [conservator] is appointed for an individual serving or 10 eligible to serve as trustee.

11 (b) A trustee must be appointed to fill a vacancy in a trusteeship only if the 12 trust has no remaining trustee.

13 (c) A vacancy in a trusteeship required to be filled must be filled in the 14 following order of priority:

15 (1) by a person designated by unanimous agreement of the qualified
16 beneficiaries; or

17 (2) by a person appointed by the court.

18 (d) Whether or not there is a vacancy in a trusteeship required to be filled,
19 the court may appoint an additional trustee or special fiduciary whenever the court
20 considers such appointment necessary for the administration of the trust.

21 Comment

1 This section lists the ways in which a trusteeship becomes vacant and the 2 rules on filling the vacancy. See also Sections 701 (acceptance or declination of 3 trusteeship), 705 (resignation of trustee), and 706 (removal of trustee). Good
4 drafting practice suggests that the terms of the trust deal expressly with the problem
5 of vacancies, naming successors and addressing the procedure for filling a vacancy
6 in the absence of a named successor. Per Section 103, this section applies only if 7 the terms of the trust are silent or the procedure specified has for some reason not 8 worked.

9 Subsection (b) provides that a vacancy in the cotrusteeship need be filled
10 only if the trust has no remaining trustee. If a vacancy in the cotrusteeship is not 11 filled, Section 703 authorizes the remaining cotrustees to continue to administer the 12 trust. However, as provided in subsection (d), the court, exercising its inherent 13 equity authority, can always appoint additional trustees if the appointment would 14 promote better administration of the trust. See Restatement (Second) of Trusts 15 § 108 cmt. e (1959); Restatement (Third) of Trusts § 34 cmt. e (Tentative Draft No.
16 2, 1999).

17 Absent an effective provision in the terms of the trust, subsection (c)(1)
18 permits a vacancy in the trusteeship to be filled, without the need for court approval, 19 by a person selected by unanimous agreement of the qualified beneficiaries, who, per 20 Section 705(a), may also receive the trustee's resignation. If a trustee resigns
21 following notice to the beneficiaries as provided in Section 705(a), the trust may be 22 transferred to a successor appointed pursuant to subsection (c)(1), all without court
23 involvement. Per Section 706, a beneficiary without authority to join in a 24 beneficiary appointment may petition the court for removal of the trustee appointed 25 by the qualified beneficiaries.

26 Subsection (c)(2) authorizes the court to fill a vacancy if the qualified
27 beneficiaries have failed to make an appointment. Factors for the court to consider
28 in making its selection are found in Restatement (Second) of Trusts § 108 cmt. d
29 (1959); and Restatement (Third) of Trusts § 34 cmt. f (Tentative Draft No. 2, 30 1999).

31 In the case of a revocable trust, the appointment of a successor will normally
32 be made directly by the settlor. As to the duties of a successor trustee, see Section 33 812.

34 SECTION 705. RESIGNATION OF TRUSTEE.

35 (a) A trustee may resign by either of the following methods:

(1) upon at least 30 days' notice, in writing or by other record, to the qualified beneficiaries; or

(2) with the approval of the court.

(b) A trustee who plans to resign must inform all cotrustees of the proposed resignation.

(c) A qualified beneficiary by a writing or other record may waive a notice otherwise required under this section.

(d) In approving a resignation, the court may impose orders and conditions reasonably necessary for the protection of the trust property, including the appointment of a special fiduciary.

(e) Any liability of a resigning trustee or of any sureties on the trustee's bond for acts or omissions of a resigning trustee is not released or affected by the trustee's resignation.

Comment

This section provides several alternative methods by which a trustee may resign. As authorized by Section 103, a trustee may always resign as provided in the terms of the trust. If the terms of the trust do not provide a method for resignation or if the method for whatever reason is not followed, subsection (a) provides that a trustee may resign by giving notice to the qualified beneficiaries. A resigning trustee may also seek approval of the court.

Section 813 requires a trustee's report whenever there is a change of trustees. See also Restatement (Second) of Trusts § 106 cmt. b, and Restatement (Third) of Trusts § 36 cmt. d (Tentative Draft No. 2, 1999), which, like subsection (e), provide that resignation does not release the resigning trustee from potential liabilities.

SECTION 706. REMOVAL OF TRUSTEE.

1 (a) A trustee may be removed by the court on its own initiative or on
2 petition of a settlor, cotrustee, or beneficiary.

3 (b) The court may remove a trustee if:

4 (1) the trustee has committed a breach of trust;

5 (2) lack of cooperation among cotrustees substantially impairs the 6 administration of the trust;

7 (3) investment decisions of the trustee, although not constituting a 8 breach of trust, have resulted in investment performance persistently and 9 substantially below that of comparable trusts;

10 (4) because of changed circumstances, unfitness, or unwillingness or 11 inability to administer the trust, removal of the trustee would be in the best interest
12 of the beneficiaries.

13 (c) Pending a final decision on a petition to remove the trustee, or in lieu of 14 or in addition to removing a trustee, the court may order such appropriate relief
15 under Section 1002 as may be necessary to protect the trust property or the interests
16 of the beneficiaries.

17 Comment

18 Subsection (a), unlike the Restatement, grants the settlor of an irrevocable
19 trust the right to petition for removal of a trustee. See Restatement (Second) of 20 Trusts § 107 (1959); Restatement (Third) of Trusts § 37 (Tentative Draft No. 2, 21 1999). The right to petition for removal does not give the settlor of an irrevocable 22 trust any other rights, such as the right to an annual report or to receive other 23 information concerning administration of the trust. The right of a beneficiary to 24 petition for removal does not apply to a revocable trust while the settlor has 25 capacity. While the trust is revocable and the settlor has capacity, the settlor holds 26 all rights that would otherwise be granted to the beneficiaries. See Section 603.

1 While removal is ordinarily ordered by a court, the topic may also be
2 addressed in the terms of the trust. See Section 103. In fashioning a removal 3 provision for an irrevocable trust, the drafter should remain cognizant of the 4 potential inclusion of the trust in the settlor's federal gross estate if the settlor
5 retains the power to be appointed as trustee.

6 Subsection (b) allows removal for untoward action on the part of a trustee,
7 such as for a breach of trust, but the section is not so limited. The grounds listed in 8 subsection (b)(1)-(4) allow for removal under a variety of circumstances where the 9 trustee is not acting in the best interests of the beneficiaries or in conformity with the 10 expectations of the settlor.

11 Because of its importance to the long-term value of the beneficiaries'
12 interests, subsection (b)(3) allows a trustee to be removed if the investment 13 decisions of the trustee, although not constituting a breach of trust, have resulted in 14 investment performance persistently and substantially below that of comparable 15 trusts.

16 To honor the settlor's reasonable expectations, subsection (b)(4) allows a 17 trustee to be removed because of changed circumstances. Changed circumstances 18 justifying removal of a trustee might include a substantial change in the character of 19 the trustee which has occurred between the date of the trust's creation and the date 20 the removal petition is filed.

21 Friction between cotrustees, inability of the trustee and beneficiaries to get 22 along through fault of the trustee, indifference on the part of the trustee, and 23 mediocre service may all justify removal if in the best interests of the beneficiaries 24 and not inconsistent with the purposes of the trust.

25 A particularly appropriate circumstance justifying removal of the trustee is a 26 serious breach of the trustee's duty to keep the beneficiaries reasonably informed of 27 the administration of the trust or to comply with a beneficiary's request for 28 information as required by Section 813. Failure to comply with this duty may make 29 it impossible for the beneficiaries to protect their interests. It may also mask more 30 serious violations by the trustee.

31 While the failure of a trustee to act in the beneficiaries' best interest is an 32 important factor in determining whether removal is appropriate, the settlor's 33 purposes in creating the trust should not be compromised. Complying with the 34 beneficiaries' wishes to the detriment of the settlor's purposes may justify 35 replacement with a trustee who will comply with the fundamental responsibility to 36 administer a trust in accordance with its terms.

SECTION 707. DELIVERY OF PROPERTY BY FORMER TRUSTEE.

Unless a cotrustee remains in office or the court otherwise orders, and until the trust property is delivered to a successor trustee or to a person appointed by the court to receive the property:

(1) a trustee who has resigned or been removed has the duties of the trusteeship and the powers necessary to protect the trust property; and

(2) a former trustee's personal representative, if the former trustee's appointment terminated because of death, or a former trustee's [conservator] or [guardian], if the appointment terminated because of the former trustee's incapacity, is responsible for and has the powers necessary to protect the trust property.

Comment

This section addresses the continuing authority of a former trustee. Subject to the power of the court to make other arrangements, a former trustee has continuing authority until the property is delivered to a successor. However, if a cotrustee remains in office, there is no reason to grant such continuing authority, and none is granted. If the trustee has resigned or been removed, the continuing authority is granted to the former trustee; if the former trustee has died, to the former trustee's personal representative; if the former trustee has been adjudicated incapacitated, to the former trustee's guardian or conservator. Whether or not a former trustee remains in office, the former trustee remains liable for actions or omissions during the trustee's term of office until liability is barred.

Unless a cotrustee remains in office, Section 813 requires a trustee's report whenever there is a change of trustees. Section 1011(d) protects third persons who deal in good faith with a former trustee without knowledge that the person is no longer a trustee. There is also ample authority in the Act for the appointment of a special fiduciary prior to the assumption of duties by a successor trustee so that it will not be necessary for a resigning or removed trustee to continue with the powers and duties of office until the successor is in place. See Sections 704(d) (court may appoint special fiduciary whenever court considers appointment necessary for administration of trust), 705(d) (in approving resignation, court may appoint conditions necessary for protection of trust property, including appointment of special fiduciary), 706(c) (pending decision on petition for removal, court may order

1 appropriate relief, including appointment of special fiduciary), 1002(b)(5) (court
2 may appoint special fiduciary upon breach of trust).

3 SECTION 708. COMPENSATION OF TRUSTEE.

4 (a) If the terms of a trust do not specify the trustee's compensation, a 5 trustee is entitled to compensation that is reasonable under the circumstances.

6 (b) If the terms of a trust specify the trustee's compensation, the trustee is 7 entitled to be compensated as specified, but the court may allow more or less 8 compensation if:

9 (1) the duties of the trustee are substantially different from those 10 contemplated when the trust was created;

11 (2) the compensation specified by the terms of the trust would be 12 unreasonably low or high.

13 Comment

14 Subsection (a) establishes a standard of reasonable compensation. For a list
15 of factors relevant in determining reasonable compensation, see Restatement
16 (Second) of Trusts § 242 cmt. b (1959); Restatement (Third) of Trusts § 38 cmt. c
17 (Tentative Draft No. 2, 1999). Because "trustee" as defined in Section 102(18)
18 includes not only an individual trustee but also cotrustees, each trustee, including a 19 cotrustee, is entitled to reasonable compensation under the circumstances. In setting 20 compensation, the services actually performed and responsibilities assumed by the 21 trustee should be closely examined. For example, an adjustment in compensation 22 may be appropriate if the trustee has delegated significant duties, such as the 23 delegation of investment authority, to outside managers. See Section 807
24 (delegation by trustee). On the other hand, a trustee with special skills, such as 25 those of a real estate agent, may be entitled to extra compensation for performing 26 services that would ordinarily be delegated. See Restatement (Second) of Trusts 27 § 242 cmt. d (1959); Restatement (Third) of Trusts § 38 cmt. d (Tentative Draft 28 No. 2, 1999).

29 Subsection (b) permits the reasonable compensation standard to be 30 overridden or clarified by the terms of the trust, subject to the court's inherent

1 equity power to make adjustments downward or upward in appropriate
2 circumstances. Whether a provision in the terms of the trust setting the amount of 3 the trustee's compensation is binding on a successor trustee is a matter for 4 interpretation. Also a question for interpretation is whether a beneficial provision 5 for the trustee in the terms of the trust is in addition to or in lieu of the trustee's
6 regular compensation. Another possible uncertainty is whether the discharge of the 7 beneficial provision is conditional on the person performing services as trustee. See
8 Restatement (Second) of Trusts § 242 cmt. f (1959); Restatement (Third) of Trusts
9 § 38 cmt. e (Tentative Draft No.2, 1999).

10 Compensation may be set by agreement. A trustee may enter into an 11 agreement with the beneficiaries for lesser or increased compensation, although an 12 agreement increasing compensation is not binding on a nonconsenting beneficiary.
13 A trustee may agree to waive compensation and should do so prior to rendering 14 significant services if concerned about possible gift and income tax liability on the 15 compensation accrued prior to the waiver. See Rev. Rul. 66-167, 1966-1 C.B. 20.
16 See also Restatement (Second) of Trusts § 242 cmt. i, j (1959); Restatement (Third)
17 of Trusts § 38 cmt. f, g (Tentative Draft No. 2, 1999).

18 The fact that a trust has more than one trustee does not mean that the 19 trustees together are entitled to more compensation than had either acted alone.
20 Nor does the appointment of multiple trustees mean that the trustees are eligible to 21 receive the compensation in equal shares. The total amount of the compensation to 22 be paid and how it will be divided depend on the totality of the circumstances.
23 Factors to be considered include the settlor's reasons for naming multiple trustees
24 and the level of responsibility assumed and exact services performed by each trustee.
25 Often the fees of cotrustees will be in the aggregate higher than that for a single 26 trustee because of the duty of each trustee to participate in administration and not 27 delegate to a cotrustee duties the settlor expected the trustee to perform. See 28 Restatement (Third) of Trusts § 38 cmt. i (Tentative Draft No. 2, 1999).

29 Section 816(16) grants the trustee authority to fix and pay its compensation
30 without the necessity of prior court review, but without precluding the right of a 31 beneficiary to object to the compensation in a later judicial proceeding. Allowing 32 the trustee to pay its compensation without prior court approval promotes efficient 33 trust administration but does place a significant burden on a beneficiary who believes 34 the compensation is unreasonable. To provide a beneficiary with time to take 35 action, if the beneficiary believes that action is appropriate, and because of the 36 importance of trustee's fees to the beneficiaries' interests, Section 813(b)(4) 37 requires a trustee to provide the qualified beneficiaries with advance notice of any 38 change in the method or rate of the trustee's compensation. Failure to provide such 39 advance notice constitutes a breach of trust, possibly justifying removal under 40 Section 706.

1 SECTION 709. REPAYMENT OF EXPENDITURES. A trustee is

2 entitled to be reimbursed out of the trust property, with interest as appropriate, for:

3 (1) expenditures that were properly incurred in the administration of the 4 trust; and

5 (2) to the extent necessary to prevent unjust enrichment of the trust,
6 expenditures that were not properly incurred in the administration of the trust.

7 Comment

8 A trustee has the authority to expend trust funds as necessary in the 9 administration of the trust, including expenses incurred in the hiring of agents. See 10 Sections 807 (delegation by trustee) and 816(16) (trustee to pay expenses of 11 administration from trust).

12 Paragraph (1) clarifies that a trustee is entitled to reimbursement from the 13 trust for incurring expenses within the trustee's authority. The trustee may also 14 withhold appropriate reimbursement for expenses before making distributions to the 15 beneficiaries. Restatement (Second) of Trusts § 244 cmt. b (1959); Restatement 16 (Third) of Trusts § 38 cmt. b (Tentative Draft No. 2, 1999). But a trustee is 17 ordinarily not entitled to reimbursement for incurring unauthorized expenses. Such 18 expenses are normally the personal responsibility of the trustee.

19 As provided in paragraph (2), a trustee is entitled to reimbursement for 20 unauthorized expenses only if the unauthorized expenditures benefitted the trust.
21 The purpose of paragraph (2), which is derived from Restatement (Second) of 22 Trusts § 245, is not to ratify the unauthorized conduct of the trustee, but to prevent 23 the unjust enrichment of the trust. Given this purpose, a court, on appropriate 24 grounds, may delay or even deny reimbursement for expenses which benefitted the 25 trust. For a list of factors which the court may wish to consider in making this 26 determination, see Restatement (Second) of Trusts § 245 cmt. g (1959).

27 Reimbursement under this section may include attorney's fees and expenses
28 incurred by the trustee in defending an action. However, a trustee is not ordinarily 29 entitled to attorney's fees and expenses if it is determined that the trustee breached 30 the trust. See, e.g., In re Estate of Gilmaker, 38 Cal. Rptr. 270 (Ct. App. 1964); In 31 re Estate of Vokal, 263 P.2d 64 (Cal. Ct. App. 1953).

1
2

3
4
5
6
7
8
9
10
11

12
13
14
15
16
17
18
19 20
21
22
23

24
25
26
27

28
29
30
31

ARTICLE 8
FIDUCIARY ADMINISTRATION

General Comment

This article states the fundamental duties of a trustee and lists the trustee’s powers. The duties listed are not new, but how the particular duties are formulated and applied has changed over the years. This part was drafted where possible to conform with the 1994 Uniform Prudent Investor Act, which has been enacted in over half the States. The Uniform Prudent Investor Act prescribes a trustee’s responsibilities with respect to the management and investment of trust property. The Uniform Trust Act, however, also addresses a trustee’s duties with respect to distribution to beneficiaries.

Because of the widespread adoption of the Uniform Prudent Investor Act, no effort has been made to disassemble and fully integrate the Prudent Investor Act into the Trust Act. Instead, States enacting the Trust Act are encouraged to recodify their version of the Prudent Investor Act by reenacting it as Article 9 of this Act rather than leaving it elsewhere in their codes. Where the Trust Act and Uniform Prudent Investor Act overlap, States should enact the provisions of this article and not enact the duplicative provisions of the Prudent Investor Act. Sections of this article which overlap with the Prudent Investor Act are Sections 802 (duty of loyalty), 803 (impartiality), 805 (costs of administration), trustee’s skills (806), and delegation (807). For a list of the sections of the Prudent Investor Act which should not be enacted as part of this Act, see the General Comment to Article 9.

All of the provisions of this article are subject to modification by the terms of the trust except that the terms of the trust may not negate a trustee’s fundamental obligation to act as a fiduciary, in good faith, and with regard to the purposes of the trust and the interests of the beneficiaries. See Section 103(b)(2).

SECTION 801. DUTY TO ADMINISTER TRUST. Upon acceptance of a trusteeship, the trustee shall administer the trust in good faith, in accordance with its terms and purposes and the interests of the beneficiaries, and in conformity with this [Act].

1 Comment

2 This section confirms that the primary duty of a trustee, above all others, is 3 to follow the terms and purposes of the trust. Only if the terms of a trust are silent
4 or for some reason invalid on a particular issue are the trustee's duties derived
5 exclusively from this Act. This section also confirms that a trustee does not have a 6 duty to act until the trustee has accepted the trusteeship. See Section 701 and 7 Comment (acceptance or declination of trusteeship).

8 While a trustee generally must administer a trust in accordance with its terms
9 and purposes, the purposes and particular terms of the trust will on occasion
10 conflict. Should such a conflict occur because of circumstances not anticipated by 11 the settlor, it may be appropriate for the trustee to petition under Section 411 to 12 modify or terminate the trust. The trustee is not required to perform a duty 13 prescribed by the terms of the trust if performance would be impossible, invalid, 14 illegal or contrary to public policy. See Section 403 (purposes for which trust can 15 be created).

16 For background on the trustee's duty to administer the trust, see
17 Restatement (Second) of Trusts §§ 164-169 (1959).

18 SECTION 802. DUTY OF LOYALTY.

19 (a) A trustee shall administer the trust solely in the interest of the 20 beneficiaries.

21 (b) A transaction involving trust property which is affected by a conflict
22 between the trustee's fiduciary and personal interests is voidable by a beneficiary 23 affected by the transaction unless:

24 (1) the transaction was approved by the court;

25 (2) the beneficiary has consented to the trustee's conduct, ratified the 26 transaction, or released the trustee in compliance with Section 1009; or

27 (3) the transaction involves a contract entered into or claim acquired by 28 the trustee before the person became or contemplated becoming trustee.

1 (c) A transaction is presumed to be affected by a conflict between personal
2 and fiduciary interests if it involves a sale, encumbrance, or other transaction
3 concerning the trust property entered into by the trustee with:

4 (1) the spouse of the trustee, or the trustee's descendants, siblings,
5 parents, or their spouses;

6 (2) an agent or attorney of the trustee;

7 (3) a corporation or other enterprise, or its affiliate, in which the trustee
8 has an interest that might affect the trustee's best judgment.

9 (d) A transaction between a trustee and a beneficiary that does not concern
10 trust property but which occurs during the existence of the trust or while the trustee
11 retains significant influence over the beneficiary and from which the trustee obtains 12 an advantage is voidable by the beneficiary unless the trustee establishes that the 13 transaction was fair to the beneficiary.

14 (e) A transaction not concerning trust property in which the trustee engages 15 in the trustee's individual capacity involves a conflict between personal and fiduciary 16 interests if the transaction concerns an opportunity properly belonging to the trust.

17 (f) A trustee may invest in securities of an investment company or 18 investment trust to which the trustee, or its affiliate, provides services in a capacity
19 other than as trustee, if the investment satisfies the prudent investor rule of [Article
20 9]. The trustee may be compensated by the investment company or investment trust 21 for providing those services out of fees charged to the trust if the trustee discloses at 22 least annually to the persons entitled under Section 813 to receive a copy of the 1 trustee's annual report the rate and method by which the compensation was 2 determined.

3 (g) This section does not restrict the following transactions, if fair to the 4 beneficiaries:

5 (1) an agreement between a trustee and a beneficiary relating to the 6 appointment or compensation of the trustee; and

7 (2) a transaction between a trust and another trust, decedent's estate, or 8 [conservatorship] of which the trustee is a fiduciary or in which a beneficiary has an 9 interest.

10 (h) Upon petition by a trustee or beneficiary, the court may appoint a special 11 fiduciary to make a decision with respect to any proposed transaction that, if entered 12 into by the trustee, might violate this section.

13 Comment

14 This section addresses the duty of loyalty, perhaps the most fundamental 15 duty of the trustee. Subsection (a) states the general principle, which is copied from 16 Restatement (Second) of Trusts § 170(1) (1959). A trustee owes a duty of loyalty 17 to the beneficiaries, a principle which is sometimes expressed as the obligation by 18 the trustee not to place the trustee's own interests over those of the beneficiaries.
19 Most but not all violations of the duty of loyalty concern transactions involving the 20 trust property, but breaches of the duty can take a myriad of other forms. For a 21 discussion of the different types of violations, see 2A Austin W. Scott & William F.
22 Fratcher, The Law of Trusts §§ 170-170.24 (4th ed. 1987).

23 Subsection (b) states the general rule with respect to transactions involving 24 trust property which are affected by a conflict of interest. A transaction involving 25 the trust property which is affected by a conflict between the trustee's fiduciary and 26 personal interests is voidable by a beneficiary affected by the transaction.
27 Transactions involving trust property entered into by a trustee for the trustee's own 28 account are voidable without further proof under the "no further inquiry" rule. Such 29 transactions are irrebuttably presumed to be affected by a conflict between personal

1 and fiduciary interests. It is immaterial whether the trustee acts in good faith or pays
2 a fair consideration. See Restatement (Second) of Trusts § 170 cmt. b (1959).

3 The appropriate result is less clear with respect to transactions involving 4 trust property entered into with persons who have close business or personal ties to 5 the trustee. Subsection (c) resolves the issue by requiring the trustee to prove the 6 propriety of such transactions. Transactions between a trustee and certain relatives, 7 business associates, or enterprises in which the trustee has a beneficial interest are 8 presumptively voidable. Transactions involving trust property with parties not on 9 the list are not necessarily valid, however. While a presumption does not apply, a 10 transaction may still be voided if the beneficiary proves that a conflict between 11 personal and fiduciary interests exists and that the transaction was affected by the 12 conflict.

13 The right of a beneficiary to void a transaction affected by a conflict of 14 interest is elective. If the transaction proves profitable to the trust, the beneficiary
15 will likely allow the transaction to stand. Also, as provided in subsection (b), no 16 breach of the duty of loyalty occurs if the transaction was expressly authorized by 17 the terms of the trust or approved by the court. In addition, a beneficiary may be 18 precluded from acting by a statute of limitations or laches, or by choosing to ratify
19 the transaction, either prior to or subsequent to its occurrence. See Sections 1006, 20 1009. In determining whether a beneficiary has consented to a transaction, the 21 principles of representation from Article 3 may be applied.

22 Subsection (b)(3), derived from Section 3-713(1) of the Uniform Probate
23 Code, allows a trustee to implement a contract or pursue a claim which the trustee 24 entered into or acquired before the person became or contemplated becoming 25 trustee. While this subsection allows the transaction to proceed without 26 automatically being voidable by a beneficiary, the transaction is not necessarily free 27 from scrutiny. In implementing the contract or pursuing the claim, the trustee must 28 still complete the transaction in a way that will avoid a conflict between the trustee's 29 fiduciary and personal interests. Because avoiding such a conflict will frequently be 30 difficult, the trustee should consider petitioning the court to appoint a special 31 trustee, as authorized by subsection (h), to work out the details and complete the 32 transaction.

33 Subsection (d) creates a presumption that certain transactions between a 34 trustee and beneficiary outside of trust are an abuse by the trustee of a confidential
35 relationship with the beneficiary. This subsection has a limited scope. If the trust 36 has terminated, there must be proof that the trustee's influence with the beneficiary 37 remains. Furthermore, whether or not the trust has terminated, there must be proof
38 that the trustee obtained an advantage from the relationship. The fact the trustee

1 profited is insufficient to show an abuse if a third party would have similarly profited
2 in an arm's length transaction.

3 Subsection (e), which allows a beneficiary to void a transaction entered into 4 by the trustee which involved an opportunity belonging to the trust, is based on 5 Restatement (Second) of Trusts § 170 cmt. k (1959).

6 Subsection (f) recognizes a special exception for a "proprietary fund," a 7 mutual fund investment offered to customers of a financial-service institution
8 trustee. Under such an arrangement, the mutual fund company will typically pay an 9 annual fee based on a percentage of the fund's value to the financial-service
10 institution trustee for providing investment advice, custody, transfer agent, 11 distribution, or shareholder services that would otherwise be provided by agents of 12 the fund. Subsection (f) provides that it is not a violation of the duty of loyalty for a 13 trustee, or its affiliates, to receive compensation for providing such services as long 14 as the trustee discloses at least annually to the beneficiaries entitled to receive a copy 15 of the trustee's annual report the rate and method by which the compensation was 16 determined. However, the mutual fund investment selected must be prudent in 17 accordance with the applicable prudent investor law of the jurisdiction.
18 Furthermore, the selection of a mutual fund, and the resulting delegation of certain 19 of the trustee's functions, may be taken into account in setting the trustee's regular 20 compensation. See Section 708 (trustee's compensation), and Article 9 (Uniform 21 Prudent Investor Act). Provisions similar to subsection (f) are in force in a 22 substantial majority of States.

23 Subsection (g) contains several exceptions to the general duty of loyalty, 24 which apply if the transaction was fair to the beneficiaries. A trustee is allowed to 25 negotiate in freedom about the terms of appointment and rate of compensation.
26 Consistent with Restatement (Second) of Trusts § 170 cmt. r (1959), a trustee may 27 also engage in a transaction involving another trust of which the trustee is also 28 trustee, a transaction with a decedent's or conservatorship estate of which the 29 trustee is personal representative or conservator, or a transaction with another trust 30 or other fiduciary relationship in which a beneficiary of the trust has an interest.
31 With respect to a transaction involving another fiduciary role, the trustee need not 32 give advance notice of the transaction to the beneficiaries unless required by some 33 other provision. See, e.g., Section 813(b)(5).

34 SECTION 803. IMPARTIALITY. If a trust has two or more beneficiaries, 35 the trustee shall act impartially in investing, managing and distributing the trust 36 property, giving due regard to the beneficiaries' respective interests.

1
2
3
4
5
6
7
8
9
10
11
12
13
14
15

16

17

18

19 20

21
22
23
24
25
26
27

28

29

30

31

Comment

The duty of impartiality is an important aspect of the duty of loyalty. This section is identical to Section 6 of the Uniform Prudent Investor Act, except that this section also applies to decisions by a trustee with respect to distributions. The Prudent Investor Act is limited to duties with respect to the investment and management of trust property. The differing beneficial interests for which the trustee must act impartially include those of the current beneficiaries versus those holding interests in the remainder, and among those currently eligible to receive distributions, the interests of those entitled or eligible to receive distributions of income versus those eligible to receive distributions of principal. In effectuating the duty to act impartially, the trustee should be particularly sensitive to allocation of receipts and disbursements between income and principal and should consider, in an appropriate case, a reallocation of income to the principal account and vice versa, if allowable under local law. For an example of such a provision, see Section 104 of the Uniform Principal and Income Act (1997).

SECTION 804. PRUDENT ADMINISTRATION. A trustee shall administer the trust as a prudent person would, by considering the purposes, terms, distribution requirements, and other circumstances of the trust. In satisfying this standard, the trustee shall exercise reasonable care, skill, and caution.

Comment

The duty to administer a trust with prudence is a fundamental duty of the trustee. This duty is not affected by whether the trustee receives compensation but may be altered by the terms of the trust. See Section 103 (effect of the terms of the trust; nonwaivable provisions). For a more detailed statement of the duty of prudence with respect to trustee investment, including a list of factors to be taken into account in determining whether the standard has been met, see Section 2 of the Uniform Prudent Investor Act.

SECTION 805. COSTS OF ADMINISTRATION. In administering a trust, the trustee may incur only costs that are reasonable in relation to the trust property, the purposes of the trust, and the skills of the trustee.

Comment

This section is consistent with the rules concerning costs in Section 227(c)(3) of the Restatement (Third) of Trusts: Prudent Investor Rule (1992). For related rules concerning compensation and reimbursement of trustees, see Sections 708 and 709. The duty not to incur unreasonable costs applies to delegation to agents as well as to other aspects of trust administration. In deciding whether and how to delegate, the trustee must be alert to balancing projected benefits against the likely costs. The trustee must also be alert to adjusting compensation for functions which the trustee has delegated to others in order to protect the beneficiary against “double dipping.” The obligation to incur only necessary or appropriate costs of administration has long been part of the common law and of the Restatement. See Restatement (Second) of Trusts § 188 (1959).

This section is similar to Section 7 of the Uniform Prudent Investor Act.

SECTION 806. TRUSTEE’S SKILLS. A trustee shall apply the full extent of the trustee’s skills. A trustee who has special skills or expertise, or is named trustee in reliance upon the trustee’s representation that the trustee has special skills or expertise, shall use those special skills or expertise.

Comment

This section requires a trustee to apply the full extent of the trustee's skills, whether the trustee actually possesses those skills or incorrectly represents such competence. In other words, a skilled trustee who makes representation of minimal competence is subject to the standard of a skilled trustee as is a trustee of modest abilities who makes representations of great competence. This section is similar to Section 7-302 of the Uniform Probate Code, Restatement (Second) of Trusts § 174 (1959), and Section 2(f) of the Uniform Prudent Investor Act.

SECTION 807. DELEGATION BY TRUSTEE.

(a) A trustee may delegate duties and powers that a prudent trustee of comparable skills could properly delegate under the circumstances. The trustee shall exercise reasonable care, skill, and caution in:

(1) selecting an agent;

(2) establishing the scope and terms of the delegation, consistent with the purposes and terms of the trust; and

(3) periodically reviewing the agent's actions in order to monitor the agent's performance and compliance with the terms of the delegation.

(b) In performing a delegated function, an agent owes a duty to the trust to exercise reasonable care to comply with the terms of the delegation.

(c) A trustee who complies with subsection (a) is not liable to the beneficiaries or to the trust for a decision or action of the agent to whom the function was delegated.

(d) By accepting a delegation of powers or duties from the trustee of a trust that is subject to the law of this State, an agent submits to the jurisdiction of the courts of this State.

Comment

This section permits trustees to delegate various aspects of trust administration to agents, subject to the standards of the section. The language is derived from Section 9 of the Uniform Prudent Investor Act. See also John H. Langbein, Reversing the Nondelegation Rule of Trust-Investment Law, 59 Mo. L. Rev. 105 (1994) (discussing prior law).

This section encourages and protects the trustee in making delegations appropriate to the facts and circumstances of the particular trust. Whether particular functions of the trustee are delegable is based on whether it is a function that a prudent trustee might delegate under similar circumstances. For example, delegation of trust administration and reporting duties might be prudent for a family trustee but unnecessary for a corporate trustee.

This section applies only to delegation to agents and not to delegation to a cotrustee. For the provision authorizing delegation to a cotrustee, see Section 703(d)(2).

1 Under subsection (a)(3), the duty to review the agent's performance includes 2 the periodic evaluation of the continued need for and appropriateness of the 3 delegation of authority. In particular circumstances, the trustee may need to 4 terminate the delegation to comply with the duty under subsection (a)(1) (duty to 5 use reasonable care, skill, and caution in selecting agent).

6 SECTION 808. POWERS TO DIRECT.

7 (a) If the terms of a trust grant a person other than the trustee power to 8 direct certain actions of the trustee, the trustee shall act in accordance with an 9 exercise of the power unless the attempted exercise is manifestly contrary to the 10 terms of the trust or the trustee has reason to believe that the attempted exercise 11 violates a fiduciary duty that the person holding the power owes to the beneficiaries
12 of the trust.

13 (b) The holder of a power to direct is presumptively a fiduciary who, as 14 such, is required to act in good faith, with regard to the purposes of the trust and the 15 interest of the beneficiaries. The holder is liable for any loss that results from breach 16 of a fiduciary duty.

17 Comment

18 This section is derived from Restatement (Second) of Trusts § 185 (1959).
19 Powers to direct in the terms of a trust usually relate either to choice of investment
20 or management of closely-held business interests. A power to direct must be 21 distinguished from a veto power. A power to direct involves action initiated and 22 within the control of a third party. The trustee usually has no responsibility other 23 than to carry out the direction when made. But if a third party holds a veto power, 24 the trustee is responsible for initiating the decision, subject to the third party's 25 approval. A trustee who administers a trust subject to a veto power occupies a 26 position akin to that of a cotrustee and is responsible for taking appropriate action if 27 the third party's refusal to consent would result in a breach of trust. See 28 Restatement (Second) of Trusts § 185 cmt. g (1959); Section 703(d)(3)(duties of 29 cotrustees).

1 Powers to direct take a variety of forms. Frequently, the person holding the 2 power is directing the investment of the holder's own beneficial interest. Such self-3 directed accounts are particularly prevalent among trusts holding interests in 4 employee benefit plans or individual retirement accounts. See ERISA § 404(c). But 5 for the type of donative trust which is the primary focus of this Act, the holder of 6 the power to direct is frequently acting on behalf of others. In that event, the 7 holder, as provided in subsection (b), is presumptively acting in a fiduciary capacity 8 and can be held liable should the power holder's conduct constitute a breach of 9 trust.

10 Powers to direct are most effective when the trustee is not deterred from 11 honoring the exercise of the power due to concerns about possible liability. On the 12 other hand, the trustee does bear overall responsibility for seeing that the terms of 13 the trust are honored. For this reason, subsection (a) provides that the trustee need 14 not honor an attempted exercise of a power to direct if the attempted exercise is 15 manifestly contrary to the terms of the trust or the trustee has reason to believe that 16 the attempted exercise violates a fiduciary duty that the holder of the power owes to 17 the beneficiaries of the trust.

18 SECTION 809. CONTROL AND PROTECTION OF TRUST

19 PROPERTY. A trustee shall take steps reasonable under the circumstances to take 20 control of and protect the trust property.

21 Comment

22 This section codifies the substance of Sections 175 and 176 of the 23 Restatement (Second) of Trusts (1959). The duty to take control of and safeguard
24 trust property is an aspect of the trustee's duty to act with prudence. See Section 25 804. See also Sections 816(1) (power to collect trust property), 816(12) (power to 26 insure trust property), and 816(13) (power to abandon trust property). This section, 27 like the other sections in this part, is subject to limitation in the terms of the trust.
28 For example, the settlor may provide that the spouse or other beneficiary may 29 occupy the settlor's former residence rent free, in which event the trustee will be 30 specifically precluded by the terms of the trust from taking complete control.

31 SECTION 810. SEPARATION AND IDENTIFICATION OF TRUST

32 PROPERTY.

(a) A trustee shall keep trust property separate from the trustee's own property.

(b) Except as provided in subsection (c), a trustee other than a regulated financial-service institution shall cause the trust property to be designated so that the interest of the trust, to the extent feasible, appears in records maintained by a party other than a trustee or beneficiary.

(c) As long as the trustee maintains records clearly indicating the respective interests, a trustee may invest as a whole the property of two or more separate trusts.

Comment

The duty to earmark trust assets and the duty of a trustee not to mingle the assets of the trust with the trustee's own are closely related. Subsection (a), which addresses the duty not to mingle, is derived from Section 179 of the Restatement (Second) of Trusts (1959). However, subsection (b), which addresses earmarking, broadens the standard of Restatement Second by attempting to make more precise what is meant by the phrase "the interest of the trust clearly appears." Except for a regulated financial-service institution, whose trust records are subject to regular state or federal audit, the interest of the trust must appear in the records of a third party, such as a bank or brokerage firm. Because of the serious risk of mistake or misappropriation even if disclosure is made to the beneficiaries, a noninstitutional trustee is not allowed to show the interest of the trust solely in the trustee's own internal records. Section 816(8), which allows a trustee to hold securities in nominee form, is not inconsistent with this requirement. While securities held in nominee form are not specifically registered in the name of the trustee, they are properly earmarked because the trustee's holdings are indicated in the records maintained by an independent party, such as in an account at a brokerage firm.

Earmarking is not practical for all types of assets. With respect to assets not subject to registration, such as tangible personal property and bearer bonds, arranging for the trust's ownership interest to be reflected on the records of a third-party custodian would be impracticable. For this reason, subsection (b) waives separate recordkeeping for these types of assets. Under subsection (a), however, the duty of the trustee not to mingle these or any other trust assets with the trustee's own remains absolute.

1 Subsection (c), following the lead of a number of state statutes, allows a
2 trustee to make joint investments of the property of two or more trusts even though 3 such joint investments, under traditional principles, would violate the duty to 4 earmark. Such joint investments are often more economical than attempting to 5 invest the funds of each trust separately. Also, because the trustee owes fiduciary 6 duties to each trust, the risk of misappropriation or mistake is less than if the trust
7 funds are invested jointly with those of the trustee or some other person.

8 SECTION 811. ENFORCEMENT AND DEFENSE OF CLAIMS. A

9 trustee shall take reasonable steps to enforce claims of the trust and to defend 10 against claims against the trust.

11 Comment

12 This section codifies the substance of Sections 177 and 178 of the 13 Restatement (Second) of Trusts (1959). Under this section, it may not be 14 reasonable to enforce a claim depending upon the likelihood of recovery and the 15 cost of suit and enforcement. It might also be reasonable to settle an action or 16 suffer a default rather than to defend an action. See also Section 816(15) (power to 17 pay, contest, settle or release claims).

18 SECTION 812. FORMER FIDUCIARIES. A trustee shall take reasonable

19 steps to compel a former trustee or other fiduciary to deliver trust property to the 20 trustee, and to redress a breach of trust known to the trustee to have been 21 committed by a former trustee or other fiduciary.

22 Comment

23 This section is based on Restatement (Second) of Trusts § 223 (1959), but 24 extends the duty to include not only former trustees but also personal 25 representatives and conservators from whom the trustee receives trust property.

26 This section is a specific application of Section 811 on the duty to enforce 27 claims, which could include a claim against a predecessor trustee for breach of trust.
28 In certain circumstances it may not be reasonable to enforce a claim against a 29 predecessor trustee or other fiduciary, depending upon the likelihood of recovery
30 and the cost of suit and enforcement.

1 As authorized by Section 1009, the beneficiaries may relieve the trustee from 2 potential liability for acts of a predecessor trustee or other fiduciary.

3 The trustee's duty to redress a breach of trust committed by a predecessor
4 applies only if the trustee had knowledge of the breach. For the definition of 5 "know," see Section 102(7).

6 SECTION 813. DUTY TO INFORM AND REPORT.

7 (a) A trustee shall keep the qualified beneficiaries of the trust reasonably 8 informed about the administration of the trust and, unless unreasonable under the 9 circumstances, promptly respond to a beneficiary's request for information.

10 (b) A trustee shall:

11 (1) upon request of a beneficiary, promptly provide the beneficiary with a 12 copy of the trust instrument;

13 (2) within 30 days after accepting a trusteeship, inform the qualified 14 beneficiaries of the acceptance and of the trustee's name and address;

15 (3) within 30 days after the death of the settlor of a revocable trust,
16 inform the qualified beneficiaries of the trust's existence;

17 (4) inform the qualified beneficiaries in advance of any change in the 18 method or rate of the trustee's compensation; and

19 (5) inform the qualified beneficiaries in advance of a sale or other 20 disposition affecting trust property that comprises a significant portion of the value 21 of the trust property unless the fair market value of the property is readily 22 ascertainable, or the disclosure is forbidden by law or would be seriously detrimental
23 to the interests of the beneficiaries.

(c) A trustee shall send to the qualified beneficiaries at least annually and at the termination of the trust a report of the trust property, liabilities, receipts, and disbursements, including the source and amount of the trustee's compensation. Upon a vacancy in a trusteeship, unless a cotrustee remains in office a report must be sent to the qualified beneficiaries by the former trustee or, if the trusteeship terminated by reason of death or incapacity, by the former trustee's personal representative, [conservator], or [guardian].

(d) A beneficiary, by a consent made in writing or by other record, may waive the right to a trustee's report or other information otherwise required to be provided under this section.

(e) The terms of a trust may dispense with the requirements of this section only as to a beneficiary who is a settlor or has not attained 25 years of age. With respect to a beneficiary for whom the requirements of this section have been dispensed with, the terms of the trust may designate a person to receive reports and other information on the beneficiary's behalf and to protect and represent the beneficiary's interests.

(f) Except as otherwise provided by the terms of a trust, while the trust is revocable and the settlor has capacity to revoke the trust, the duties of the trustee under this section are owed exclusively to the settlor. If a trust has more than one settlor, the duties under this section are owed to all settlors.

Policy Issues

Subsection (b)(1) requires that a trustee provide a beneficiary upon request with a copy of the complete trust instrument. The view has been expressed to the

1 Reporter in his meetings with members of the ABA Section of Real Property,
2 Probate and Trust Law and the American College of Trust and Estate Counsel that 3 a beneficiary should be entitled to a copy of only those provisions which are 4 relevant to the beneficiary's interest. The Drafting Committee believes that 5 subsection (b)(1) is correct as is but invites the Conference's comments on this 6 issue.

7 Subsection (e) provides that the terms of a trust may not dispense with the 8 reporting and other information requirements of the section except as to 9 information required to be furnished to the settlor (this exception as to the settlor 10 ratifies the so called "blind" trust) or a beneficiary who is under 25 years of age.
11 The view has been expressed to the Reporter in his meetings with members of the 12 ABA Section of Real Property, Probate and Trust Law and the American College of 13 Trust and Estate Counsel that the settlor should be able to waive required
14 reporting to a beneficiary. The Drafting Committee believes that subsection (e) is 15 correct as is but invites the Conference's comments on this issue.

16 Comment

17 The duty to keep the beneficiaries reasonably informed of the administration
18 of the trust is one of the fundamental duties of a trustee. This section is more
19 specific than the common law. For the common law duty to keep the beneficiaries 20 informed, see Restatement (Second) of Trusts § 173 (1959). This section makes the 21 duty to keep the beneficiaries informed more precise by limiting it to the qualified 22 beneficiaries. For the definition of qualified beneficiary, see Section 102(11). The 23 result of this limitation is that the information need not be furnished to beneficiaries 24 with remote remainder interests unless they have filed a specific request with the 25 trustee.

26 The trustee is under a duty to communicate to a qualified beneficiary 27 information about the administration of the trust that is reasonably necessary to 28 enable the beneficiary to enforce the beneficiary's rights and to prevent or redress a 29 breach of trust. See Restatement (Second) of Trusts § 173 cmt. c (1959).
30 Ordinarily, the trustee is not under a duty to furnish information to a beneficiary in 31 the absence of a specific request for the information. See id. cmt. d. Thus, the 32 general duty provided in subsection (a) is ordinarily satisfied by complying with the 33 annual report mandated by subsection (c) unless there are special circumstances
34 requiring particular information to be reported to the qualified beneficiaries.
35 However, if the trustee is dealing with the beneficiary on the trustee's own account, 36 the trustee has a duty to communicate material facts relating to the transaction that 37 the trustee knows or should know. See id.

38 The standard is different if a beneficiary, whether qualified or not, makes a 39 specific request for information. In that event, subsection (a) requires the trustee to

1 promptly comply with the beneficiary's request unless unreasonable under the 2 circumstances. Further supporting the principle that a beneficiary should be allowed 3 to make an independent assessment of what information is relevant to protecting the 4 beneficiary's interest, subsection (b)(1) requires the trustee to on request furnish a 5 beneficiary with a complete copy of the trust instrument and not merely with those 6 portions the trustee concludes are relevant to the beneficiary's interest.

7 This section has only limited application to revocable trusts. Subsection (f)
8 provides that during the time that a trust is revocable and the settlor has capacity, 9 the right to request information or a copy of the trust instrument pursuant to this 10 section belongs exclusively to the settlor. In the case of a trust with multiple 11 settlors, subsection (f) clarifies that the beneficiaries' right to information extends to 12 all of the settlors. Should fewer than all of the settlors revoke or modify the trust,
13 the trustee must notify the other settlor or settlors of this fact. See Section 602
14 Comment.

15 To enable beneficiaries to effectively protect their interests, it is essential that 16 they know the identity of the trustee. Subsection (b)(2) requires that a trustee 17 inform the qualified beneficiaries of the trustee's acceptance of office and of the 18 trustee's name and address within 30 days of acceptance. Similar to the obligation
19 imposed on a personal representative following admission of the will to probate, 20 subsection (b)(3) requires the trustee of a revocable trust to inform the qualified 21 beneficiaries, within 30 days after the settlor's death, of the trust's existence. These 22 two duties can overlap. If the death of the settlor happens also to be the occasion 23 for the appointment of a successor trustee, the new trustee of the now formerly 24 revocable trust would need to inform the qualified beneficiaries both of the trustee's 25 acceptance and of the trust's existence.

26 Subsection (b)(4) deals with the sensitive issue of changes, usually increases, 27 in trustee compensation. Consistent with the requirement in subsection (b)(5) that 28 the qualified beneficiaries receive advance notice of certain major transactions 29 affecting their interests, subsection (b)(4) requires that the beneficiaries be told in 30 advance of changes in the method or rate of the trustee's compensation. This might 31 include a change in a periodic base fee, rate of percentage compensation, hourly
32 rate, termination fee or transaction charge. For the standard for setting trustee
33 compensation, see Section 708 and Comment.

34 Subsection (b)(5) requires that the beneficiaries be given advance notice of 35 certain proposed transactions. This subsection, which is based in part on a provision 36 of South Dakota law, is designed to codify but at the same time make more precise
37 the fiduciary duty delineated in such cases as Allard v. Pacific National Bank, 663
38 P.2d 104 (Wash. 1983). In Allard, the court surcharged a trustee for failing to give 39 the beneficiaries advance notice of the proposed sale of a parcel of real estate that

1 was the sole asset of the trust. Cases subsequent to Allard have extended this duty
2 to the sale of an interest in a closely-held business, and this subsection extends the 3 duty to sales of tangible personal property. Under subsection (b)(5), Allard
4 disclosure is not required if forbidden by law, as can on occasion occur under 5 federal securities laws, or if disclosure would be seriously detrimental to the 6 interests of the beneficiaries, for example, if disclosure would cause the loss of the 7 only serious buyer.

8 Subsection (c) requires the trustee to furnish the beneficiaries with a copy of 9 a trustee's report at least annually and at the termination of the trust. Unless a 10 cotrustee remains in office, a report must also be furnished upon a resignation or 11 removal of a trustee or other vacancy in a trusteeship. See Section 704. The term 12 "report" instead of "accounting" is used to negate the inference that the report must 13 be prepared in any particular format. The key factor is not the format chosen but 14 whether the report provides the beneficiaries with the information necessary to 15 protect their interests.

16 Subsection (c) also addresses the responsibility for the preparation of the 17 report upon a trustee's death or incapacity. If a cotrustee remains in office, the 18 report need not be prepared by the cotrustee until the end of the regular reporting 19 period. However, if no cotrustee remains in office, consistent with Section 707, the 20 report must be prepared by the trustee's personal representative, in the event of the 21 trustee's death, or the trustee's conservator or guardian, in the event of the trustee's 22 incapacity.

23 Subsection (d) allows trustee reports and other required information to be 24 waived upon written consent. However, a waiver of a trustee's report or other 25 information is not a waiver of the trustee's accountability and potential liability for 26 items that the report or other information would have disclosed.

27 The requirements of this section are not subject to waiver in the terms of the 28 trust. Subsection (e) creates two exceptions. First, the creation of a "blind" trust is 29 recognized. Second, in response to the desire of certain settlors that younger 30 beneficiaries not know of another person's generosity until they have reached an age 31 of maturity and self-sufficiency, subsection (e) allows the terms of the trust to waive 32 the requirements of this section with respect to beneficiaries under 25 years of age.
33 However, to assure trustee accountability in such cases, the settlor is encouraged to 34 make use of the ability under subsection (d) to appoint someone to receive 35 information on behalf of and otherwise protect and represent the interests of the 36 beneficiary for whom the requirements of this section have been waived.

- 1
- 2
- 3
- 4
- 5
- 6
- 7
- 8
- 9
- 10
- 11
- 12
- 13
- 14
- 15
- 16
- 17
- 18
- 19
- 20
- 21
- 22
- 23
- 24
- 25
- 26
- 27

- 2
- 3
- 4
- 5

6

7
8
9
10
11
12
13
14
15
16

17
18 19 20

21

22

23

24

25

26

27

1 (C) any other powers conferred by this [Act].

2 (b) Except as modified by the terms of a trust, the exercise of a power is 3 subject to the fiduciary duties prescribed by this [article].

4 Comment

5 This section is intended to grant trustees the broadest possible powers, but 6 to be exercised always in accordance with the duties of the trustee and any 7 limitations stated in the terms of the trust. The powers conferred elsewhere in this 8 Act which are subsumed under this section include all of the specific powers listed in 9 Section 816 as well as others listed in the Comment to that section. The powers
10 conferred by this Act may be exercised without court approval. Should court 11 approval of the exercise of a power be desired, a petition for court approval may be 12 filed.

13 A power differs from a duty. A duty imposes either a mandatory obligation
14 or mandatory prohibition. A power, on the other hand, is a discretion, the exercise
15 of which is not obligatory. The existence of a power, however created or granted, 16 does not speak to the question of whether it is prudent under the circumstances to 17 exercise the power.

18 SECTION 816. SPECIFIC POWERS OF TRUSTEE. Without limiting the 19 authority conferred by Section 815, a trustee may:

20 (1) collect trust property and accept or decline additions to the trust
21 property from a settlor or any other person;

22 (2) acquire or sell property, for cash or on credit, at public or private sale;

23 (3) exchange, partition, or otherwise change the character of trust property;

24 (4) deposit trust funds in an account in a regulated financial-service
25 institution, including an institution operated by the trustee;

26 (5) borrow money, with or without security, and mortgage or pledge trust
27 property for a period within or extending beyond the duration of the trust;

1 (6) advance money for the protection of the trust, and the trustee shall have 2 a lien on the trust property as against a beneficiary for those advances, with 3 reasonable interest;

4 (7) with respect to an interest in a proprietorship, partnership, limited
5 liability company, business trust, corporation or other form of business or enterprise, 6 continue the business or other enterprise and take any action that may be taken by 7 shareholders, members, or property owners, including merging, dissolving or 8 otherwise changing the form of business organization or contributing additional 9 capital;

10 (8) with respect to stocks or other securities, to exercise the rights of an 11 absolute owner, including the right to:

12 (A) vote, or give proxies to vote, with or without power of substitution, 13 or enter into or continue a voting trust agreement;

14 (B) hold a security in the name of a nominee or in other form without 15 disclosure of the trust so that title may pass by delivery;

16 (C) pay calls, assessments, and other sums chargeable or accruing against 17 the securities, and sell or exercise stock subscription or conversion rights; and 18 (D) deposit the securities with a securities depository or other regulated 19 financial-services institution;

20 (9) with respect to an interest in real property, construct, make ordinary or 21 extraordinary repairs, alterations, or improvements in buildings or other structures, 22 demolish improvements, raze existing or erect new party walls or buildings,

1 subdivide or develop land, dedicate land to public use or grant public or private
2 easements, and make or vacate plats and adjust boundaries;

3 (10) enter into a lease for any purpose as lessor or lessee, including a lease 4 or other arrangement for exploration and removal of natural resources, with or 5 without the option to purchase or renew, for a period within or extending beyond
6 the duration of the trust;

7 (11) grant an option involving a sale, lease, or other disposition of trust
8 property or take an option for the acquisition of property, including an option
9 exercisable beyond the term of the trust, and exercise an option so acquired;

10 (12) insure the property of the trust against damage or loss and insure the 11 trustee, the trustee's agents, and beneficiaries against liability arising from the 12 administration of the trust;

13 (13) abandon or decline to administer property of no value or of insufficient
14 value to justify its collection or continued administration;

15 (14) with respect to possible liability for environmental conditions:

16 (A) inspect or investigate property the trustee holds or has been asked to 17 hold, or property owned or operated by an entity in which the trustee holds or has 18 been asked to hold an interest, for the purpose of determining the application of 19 environmental law with respect to the property;

20 (B) take action to prevent, abate, or otherwise remedy any actual or 21 potential violation of any environmental law affecting property held directly or

1 indirectly by the trustee, whether taken before or after the initiation of a claim or 2 governmental enforcement action;

3 (C) decline to accept property into trust or to disclaim any power with 4 respect to property that has or may have environmental liability attached;

5 (D) compromise claims against the trust which may be asserted for an 6 alleged violation of environmental law; and

7 (E) pay the expense of any inspection, review, abatement, or remedial
8 action to comply with environmental law;

9 (15) pay or contest any claim, settle a claim by or against the trust, and 10 release, in whole or in part, a claim belonging to the trust;

11 (16) pay taxes, assessments, compensation of the trustee and of employees 12 and agents of the trust, and other expenses incurred in the administration of the 13 trust;

14 (17) exercise elections with respect to federal, state, and local taxes;

15 (18) select a mode of payment under any employee benefit or retirement 16 plan, annuity, or life insurance payable to the trustee, exercise rights thereunder, and 17 take appropriate action to collect the proceeds, including exercise of the right to 18 indemnification against expenses and liabilities;

19 (19) make loans out of trust property, including loans to a beneficiary on 20 terms and conditions the trustee considers to be fair and reasonable under the 21 circumstances, and the trustee shall have a lien on future distributions for those 22 loans;

1 (20) guarantee loans made by others to the beneficiary by pledging trust
2 property;

3 (21) appoint a trustee to act in another State or country as to trust property
4 located in the other jurisdiction, confer upon the appointed trustee all of the powers
5 and duties of the appointing trustee, require that the appointed trustee furnish 6 security, and remove any trustee so appointed;

7 (22) pay an amount distributable to a beneficiary who is under a legal 8 disability or who the trustee reasonably believes is incapacitated, by paying it
9 directly to the beneficiary or applying it for the beneficiary's benefit, or by paying it 10 to:

11 (A) the beneficiary's [conservator] or, if the beneficiary does not have a 12 [conservator], the beneficiary's [guardian];

13 (B) the beneficiary's custodian under [the Uniform Transfers to Minors
14 Act] or custodial trustee under [the Uniform Custodial Trust Act], and, for such 15 purpose, to create a custodianship or custodial trust; or

16 (C) if there is no [conservator], [guardian], custodian, or custodial 17 trustee, an adult relative or other person having legal or physical care or custody of 18 the beneficiary, to be expended on the beneficiary's behalf;

19 (23) on distribution of trust property or the division or termination of a trust, 20 make distributions in divided or undivided interests, allocate particular assets in 21 proportionate or disproportionate shares, value the trust property for those 22 purposes, and adjust for resulting differences in valuation;

(24) decide, in accordance with rules of law, how and in what proportions any receipts or disbursements are credited, charged, or apportioned as between principal and income, including the ability to create reserves out of income for depreciation, depletion, amortization, or obsolescence;

(25) resolve a dispute concerning the interpretation of the trust or its administration by mediation, arbitration, or other procedure for alternative dispute resolution;

(26) prosecute or defend an action, claim, or judicial proceeding in any jurisdiction to protect trust property and the trustee in the performance of the trustee's duties;

(27) sign and deliver contracts and other instruments that are useful to achieve or facilitate the exercise of the trustee's powers; and

(28) on termination of the trust, exercise the powers appropriate to wind up the administration of the trust and distribute the trust property to the persons entitled to it.

Comment

This section lists the type of specific powers typically included in trust instruments. All of the powers listed here are subject to alteration in the terms of the trust. See Section 103. All of the powers listed here are also subsumed under the general authority granted in Section 815(a)(2) to exercise all powers over the trust property which an unmarried competent owner has over individually owned property, and any other powers appropriate to achieve the proper management, investment, and distribution of the trust property. As provided in Section 915(b), the exercise of a power is subject to fiduciary duties except as modified in the terms of the trust. The fact that the trustee has a power does not imply a duty that the power must be exercised.

1 Most of the powers listed in this section are similar to the powers listed in 2 Section 3 of the Uniform Trustees' Powers Act (1964). Several of the paragraphs 3 are new, however, and other powers drawn from the Trustees' Powers Act have 4 been modified.

5 The powers listed here add little of substance not already granted by Section
6 915 and powers conferred elsewhere in the Act. While the Committee drafting this 7 Act discussed excluding a list of specific powers, it concluded that the demand of 8 third parties to see language expressly authorizing specific transactions required that 9 a detailed list be retained.

10 Certain specific powers of a trustee which may be exercised without court 11 approval are contained in other sections of the Act. See Sections 107(c) (transfer of 12 principal place of administration), 408(d) and 412(a) (termination of uneconomic 13 trust with value less than $50,000), 415 (combination and division of trusts), 14 703(d)(2) (delegation to cotrustee), 807 (delegation to agent of powers and duties),
15 810(c) (joint investments), and Article 9 (Uniform Prudent Investor Act).
16 investments, joint investments, and consolidation and division of trusts.

17 Paragraph (1) authorizes a trustee to collect trust property and collect or 18 decline additions to the trust property. The power to collect trust property is an 19 aspect of the trustee's duty to administer the trust. See Section 801. The trustee 20 also has a duty to enforce claims (see Section 811), the successful prosecution of 21 which can result in trust property. The trustee also has a duty to prosecute claims
22 against and collect trust property from a former trustee or other fiduciary. See 23 Section 812. For a specific application of the power to reject additions to the trust
24 property, see Section 816(14) (power to decline property with possible 25 environmental liability).

26 Paragraph (2) authorizes a trustee to sell trust property, for cash or on 27 credit, at public or private sale. Under the Restatement, a power of sale is implied
28 unless limited in the terms of the trust. Restatement (Third) of Trusts: Prudent
29 Investor Rule § 170 (1992). Despite authority to sell without security, such a sale
30 may be imprudent. Before selling trust property, the trustee should determine that it 31 is not the type of asset sale requiring advance notice to the qualified beneficiaries.
32 See Section 813(b)(5).

33 Paragraph (4) authorizes a trustee to deposit funds in an account in a 34 regulated financial-service institution, including an institution operated by the 35 trustee. This power to invest in the trustee's own institution is an exception to the 36 prohibition against self-dealing stated in Section 802. See also Restatement
37 (Second) of Trusts § 170 cmt. m (1959). The power to deposit funds in its own

1 institution does not negate the trustee's responsibility to invest prudently, including 2 the obligation to earn a reasonable rate of interest on deposits.

3 Paragraph (5) authorizes a trustee to borrow money. Under the 4 Restatement, the sole limitation on such borrowing is the general obligation to invest
5 prudently. See Restatement (Third) of Trusts: Prudent Investor Rule § 191 (1992).
6 Language clarifying that the loan may extend beyond the duration of the trust was 7 added to negate an older view that the trustee only had power to encumber the trust
8 property while the trust was in existence.

9 Paragraph (6), which authorizes a trustee to advance money for the 10 protection of the trust, is an exception to the prohibition against self-dealing 11 specified in Section 802. Such advances by the trustee should not be made as a 12 matter of routine and are usually of small amounts and made in emergencies or as a 13 matter of convenience. The trustee has a lien against the trust property for any 14 advances made but may not charge more than reasonable interest without violating 15 the duty of loyalty.

16 Paragraph (7) authorizes the trustee to continue, incorporate or otherwise
17 change the form of a business. Any such decision by the trustee must be made in 18 light of the standards of prudent investment stated in Article 9. The authority under 19 this paragraph is broader than that granted under Section 3(c)(3) of the Uniform
20 Trustees' Powers Act. Under the Trustees' Powers Act, a trustee could continue a 21 business only if authorized by the terms of the trust or court order.

22 Paragraph (8) on powers with respect to securities, codifies and adds further 23 details to the principles of Restatement (Second) of Trusts § 193 (1959).

24 Paragraph (10), authorizing the leasing of property, negates the older view,
25 reflected in Restatement § 189 cmt. c, that a trustee could not lease property beyond
26 the duration of the trust. Whether a longer term lease is appropriate is judged by the 27 standards of prudence applicable to all investments.

28 Paragraph (11), authorizing a trustee to grant options with respect to sales, 29 leases or other dispositions of property, negates the older view, reflected in 30 Restatement (Second) of Trusts § 190 cmt. k, that a trustee could not grant another 31 person an option to purchase trust property. Whether the granting of an option is 32 appropriate is, like all other investment decisions, judged by whether it is a prudent
33 investment decision as judged by the standards of Article 9.

34 Paragraph (12), authorizing a trustee to purchase insurance, empowers a 35 trustee to implement the duty to protect trust property. See Section 809. The

1 trustee may also insure beneficiaries, agents, and the trustee against liability,
2 including liability for breach of trust.

3 Paragraph (14) is one of several provisions in the Act designed to address
4 trustee concerns about possible liability for environmental hazards. This paragraph 5 collects all the powers relating to environmental concerns in one place even though 6 some of the powers, such as the powers to pay expenses, compromise claims, and 7 decline property, overlap with other paragraphs of this section (decline property, 8 paragraph (1); compromise claims, paragraph (15); pay expenses, paragraph (16)).
9 Numerous States have legislated on the subject of environmental liability of 10 fiduciaries. For a representative state statute, see Tex. Prop. Code Ann. § 113.025.
11 See also Sections 701(c)(2) (designated trustee may inspect property to determine 12 potential environmental liability without having accepted trusteeship), 1010(b) 13 (trustee not personally liable for environmental liability arising from ownership or 14 control of trust property).

15 Paragraph (15), among other things, authorizes a trustee to release claims.
16 Section 811 requires that a trustee need take only “reasonable” steps to enforce 17 claims, meaning that a trustee may release a claim not only when it is uncollectible, 18 but also when collection would be uneconomical. See also Restatement (Second) of 19 Trusts § 192 (1959) (power to compromise, arbitrate and abandon claims).

20 Paragraph (16), among other things, authorizes a trustee to pay
21 compensation to the trustee and agents without prior court approval. For the 22 standard for setting trustee compensation, see Section 708. See also Section 709
23 (repayment of trustee expenditures). While prior court approval is not required, 24 Section 813(b)(4) requires that the trustee inform the qualified beneficiaries in 25 advance of a change in the method or rate of compensation.

26 Paragraph (17) authorizes a trustee to make elections with respect to taxes.
27 The Act leaves to other law the issue of whether the trustee, in making such 28 elections, must make compensating adjustments in the beneficiaries’ interests.

29 Paragraph (18) authorizes a trustee to take action with respect to employee 30 benefit or retirement plans, or annuities or life insurance payable to the trustee.
31 Typically these will be beneficiary designations which the settlor has made payable 32 to the trustee, but the Act does not prohibit the trustee from acquiring ownership of 33 annuities and life insurance.

34 Paragraphs (19) and (20) allow a trustee to make loans to a beneficiary or 35 guarantee loans of a beneficiary upon such terms and conditions the trustee 36 considers fair and reasonable. The determination of what is fair and reasonable must 37 be made in light of the fiduciary duties of the trustee and purposes of the trust.

1 Frequently, a trustee will make loans to a beneficiary which might be considered less 2 than prudent in an ordinary commercial sense but which are of great benefit to the 3 beneficiary and in carrying out the trustee's purposes. If the trustee requires 4 security for the loan to the beneficiary, adequate security under this paragraph may 5 consist of a charge on the beneficiary's interest in the trust. See Restatement
6 (Second) of Trusts § 255 (1959). The interest of a beneficiary that is subject to a 7 spendthrift restraint may not be used for security for a loan under this paragraph.
8 See Article 5 (spendthrift protection and claims of creditors).

9 Paragraph (21) allows for the appointment of ancillary trustees in 10 jurisdictions in which the regularly appointed trustee is unable or unwilling to act.
11 Normally, such an appointment will relate to the management of real estate located 12 in another jurisdiction. This paragraph allows the regularly appointed trustee to 13 select the ancillary trustee and to confer on the ancillary trustee such powers and 14 duties as necessary. This is also a topic which the settlor may wish to address in the 15 terms of the trust.

16 Paragraph (22) allows a trustee to make payments to another person for the 17 use or benefit of a beneficiary whom the trustee reasonably believes is incapacitated.
18 The paragraph establishes the following priority list for the making of distributions:
19 (1) conservator; (2) guardian, custodian under the Uniform Transfers to Minors Act
20 or custodial trustee under the Uniform Custodial Trust Act; and (3) an adult relative 21 or other person having the beneficiary's legal or physical care or custody. While an 22 adult relative or other person receiving funds is required to spend it on the 23 beneficiary's behalf, it is preferable that the trustee make the distribution to a person
24 with more formal fiduciary responsibilities. For this reason, the trustee is authorized 25 to create a custodianship or custodial trust.

26 Paragraph (23) allows a trustee to make non-pro-rata distributions and 27 allocate particular assets in proportionate or disproportionate shares. This power 28 provides needed flexibility and lessens the risk that the non-pro-rata distribution will 29 be treated as a taxable sale.

30 Paragraph (24) provides that a trustee may allocate receipts and 31 disbursements in accordance with the State's applicable principal and income law.
32 This other law should be consulted for the particular rules to be applied.

33 Paragraph (25) authorizes a trustee to resolve disputes through mediation or 34 arbitration. The drafters of this Act strongly encourage the use of such alternate 35 methods for resolving disputes. Arbitration is a form of nonjudicial settlement 36 agreement authorized by Section 108. In representing beneficiaries and others in 37 connection with arbitration or mediation, the representation principles of Article 3

1 may be applied. Settlers wishing to encourage use of alternate dispute resolution
2 may wish to specifically draft for such possibility.

3 Paragraph (26) authorizes a trustee to prosecute or defend an action. As to 4 the propriety of reimbursement for attorney's fees and other expenses of an action
5 or judicial proceeding, see Section 709 and Comment. See also Section 811 (duty 6 to defend actions).

7 Paragraph (28), which is similar to Section 344 of the Restatement (Second)
8 of Trusts (1959), clarifies that even though the trust has terminated, the trustee 9 retains the powers needed to wind up the administration of the trust and distribute 10 the remaining trust property. While such terminations should not be delayed, neither 11 should they be hasty or ill-considered. By anticipating the termination prior to the 12 terminating event, many of the problems that typically arise can be avoided.

1
2

3
4
5
6
7
8
9
10

11
12
13
14
15
16
17
18

19 20

21
22
23
24

ARTICLE 9
UNIFORM PRUDENT INVESTOR ACT

General Comment

Because of the widespread adoption of the Uniform Prudent Investor Act, no effort has been made to disassemble and fully integrate the Uniform Prudent Investor Act into the Trust Act. States adopting the Trust Act which have previously enacted the Prudent Investor Act are encouraged to recodify their version of the Prudent Investor Act as a unit in this article of the Trust Act. Codifying the Prudent Investor Act as a unit will preserve uniformity with States which have enacted the Prudent Investor Act in free-standing form.

The Uniform Prudent Investor Act prescribes a series of duties relevant to the investment and management of trust property. The Uniform Trust Act, Article 8 lists duties and powers of a trustee relevant to the investment, management, and distribution of trust property. There is therefore some overlap between Article 8 and the Prudent Investor Act. Where the two Acts overlap, enacting jurisdictions are encouraged to codify the Uniform Prudent Investor Act in this article but without the overlapping provisions. The overlapping provisions of the Uniform Prudent Investor Act and Article 8 of this Act are as follows:

	Prudent Investor Act	Article 8
Special skills	2(f)	806
Loyalty	5	802
Impartiality	6	803
Investment costs	7	805
Delegation	9	807

1
2
3

4

5
6
7
8
9
10
11
12
13
14
15
16
17

18
19 20
21
22
23
24
25
26
27
28

29
30
31
32

33

34

ARTICLE 10

LIABILITY OF TRUSTEES AND RIGHTS OF PERSONS DEALING WITH TRUSTEE

General Comment

Sections 1002 through 1009 list the remedies for breach of trust, describe how money damages are to be determined, and specify some potential defenses. The equitable remedies for breach of trust are listed in Section 1002. The remedies provided are both broad and flexible. The method for determining money damages provided in Section 1003 is based on two principles: (1) the trust should be restored to the position it would have been in had the harm not occurred; and (2) the trustee should not be permitted to profit from the trustee’s own wrong. Sections 1006 through 1009 specify potential defenses. Section 1006 provides a statute of limitations on actions against a trustee, Section 1007 protects a trustee who reasonably relies on the terms of a written trust instrument, Section 1008 describes the effect of and potential limits on use of an exculpatory clause, and Section 1009 deals with the requirements for beneficiary approval of acts of the trustee that might otherwise constitute a breach of trust.

Sections 1010 through 1012 address trustee relations with persons other than beneficiaries. The emphasis is on encouraging trustees and third parties to engage in commercial transactions to the same extent as if the property was not held in trust. Section 1010 negates personal liability on contracts entered into by the trustee if the fiduciary relationship or identity of the trust was properly disclosed. The trustee is also relieved from liability for torts committed in the course of administration unless the trustee was personally at fault. Section 1011 protects persons other than beneficiaries who deal with a trustee in good faith and without knowledge that the trustee is exceeding a power. Section 1012 permits a third party to rely on a certification of trust, thereby reducing requests by third parties for copies of the complete trust instrument.

The settlor, in the terms of the trust, may not reduce the rights of persons other than beneficiaries as provided in Sections 1010 through 1012, nor interfere with the court’s ability to remedy a breach of trust as provided in Sections 1002 through 1006.

SECTION 1001. DEFINITION. In this [article], “good faith” means honesty in fact and the observance of reasonable standards of fair dealing.

1 Comment

2 Under the Act, more is required than honesty of intent before a trustee, in 3 dealing with persons other than beneficiaries, can be said to have been acting in 4 “good faith.” The person must also have exhibited honesty in conduct. For the 5 person with whom the trustee deals, this requires that the person observe reasonable 6 standards of fair dealing, a requirement based on comparable provisions of the 7 Uniform Commercial Code. See Uniform Commercial Code § 3-103(4). With 8 respect to a person with whom the trustee deals, good faith, and the associated 9 requirement of observance of reasonable standards of fair dealing, is required before 10 the person may be protected in dealings with the trustee (see Section 1011), or for 11 rejecting a certification of trust. See Section 1012.

12 SECTION 1002. BREACH OF TRUST; EQUITABLE REMEDIES.

13 (a) A violation by a trustee of a duty the trustee owes to a beneficiary is a
14 breach of trust.

15 (b) To remedy a breach of trust that has occurred or may occur, the court
16 may order any equitable remedy, including:

17 (1) compelling the trustee to perform the trustee’s duties;

18 (2) enjoining the trustee from committing a breach of trust;

19 (3) compelling the trustee to redress a breach of trust by paying money,
20 restoring property, or other means;

21 (4) ordering a trustee to account;

22 (5) appointing a special fiduciary to take possession of the trust property
23 and administer the trust;

24 (6) suspending or removing the trustee;

25 (7) reducing or denying compensation to the trustee;

(8) subject to Section 1011, voiding an act of the trustee, imposing a lien or a constructive trust on trust property, or tracing trust property wrongfully disposed of and recover the property or its proceeds; or

(9) granting any other appropriate relief.

Comment

This section codifies in general terms the equitable remedies available if a trustee has committed a breach of trust or threatens to do so. This section provides brief statements of the available remedies and does not attempt to cover the refinements and exceptions developed in case law. The availability of a remedy in a particular circumstance is governed by the common law of trusts and principles of equity. See Section 105. The petitioner may seek any of the remedies that are appropriate to the particular case.

Beneficiaries and cotrustees have standing to bring a petition for breach of trust. Following a successor trustee's acceptance of office, a successor trustee has standing to sue a predecessor for breach of trust. See Restatement (Second) of Trusts § 200 (1959). In the case of a charitable trust, standing to sue for a breach is also in the State Attorney General and persons with a special interest. See Restatement (Second) of Trusts § 391 (1959). Under this Act, a person appointed to enforce a trust for an animal or a trust for a noncharitable purpose would have standing to sue for a breach of trust. See Sections 406, 407. A person appointed in the terms of a trust to represent a beneficiary's interest as provided in Section 813(e) would have standing, as would a person who may represent a beneficiary's interest under Article 3. This comment is illustrative and not necessarily exhaustive of those who have standing. As to standing generally, see Restatement (Second) of Trusts § 200 (1959).

Traditionally, legal remedies for breach of trust were limited to suits to enforce unconditional obligations to pay money or deliver chattels. See Restatement (Second) of Trusts § 198 (1959). Otherwise, remedies for breach of trust were exclusively equitable, and as such, neither jury trial or punitive damages were available. See Restatement (Second) of Trusts § 197 (1959). This Act does not preclude the possibility that a particular enacting jurisdiction might allow jury trials or punitive damages in an action for breach of trust. Nor does this Act preclude the possibility that jury trial or punitive damages might be available in an enacting jurisdiction for actions against a trustee not arising under this Act but under other law.

1 The list of equitable remedies listed in this section are derived from
2 Restatement (Second) of Trusts § 199 (1959). The reference to payment of money
3 in paragraph (3) includes liability that might be characterized as damages,
4 restitution, or surcharge. For the measure of liability, see Section 1003. Paragraph 5 (5) makes explicit the court's authority to appoint a special fiduciary, also 6 sometimes referred to as a receiver. See Restatement (Second) of Trusts § 199(d)
7 (1959). The authority of the court to appoint a special fiduciary is not limited to 8 actions alleging breach of trust but is available whenever the court, exercising its 9 equitable jurisdiction, concludes such appointment would promote administration of 10 the trust. See Sections 704(d) (special fiduciary may be appointed whenever court 11 considers such appointment necessary for administration), 705(d) (in approving 12 resignation, court may impose conditions to protect trust property, including 13 appointment of special fiduciary), and 706(c) (pending final decision on petition to 14 remove, or in lieu of removing trustee, court may order any relief available for 15 breach of trust).

16 Paragraph (6) authorizes the court to suspend or remove the trustee. For 17 the complete statement of grounds for trustee removal, see Section 706.

18 Paragraph (7), which allows the court to reduce or deny compensation,
19 follows Section 243 of the Restatement (Second) of Trusts (1959). For the factors
20 to consider in setting a trustee's compensation absent breach of trust, see Section 21 708. In deciding whether to reduce or deny a trustee compensation, the court may 22 wish to consider (1) whether the trustee acted in good faith; (2) whether the breach
23 of trust was intentional; (3) the nature of the breach and the extent of the loss; (4)
24 whether the trustee has restored the loss; and (5) the value of the trustee's services
25 to the trust. See Restatement (Second) of Trusts § 243 cmt. c (1959).

26 The authority under paragraph (8) to set aside wrongful acts of the trustee is 27 a corollary of the power to enjoin a threatened breach as provided in paragraph (2).
28 However, in setting aside the wrongful acts of the trustee the court may not impair
29 the rights of bona fide purchasers protected by Section 1011. See Restatement 30 (Second) of Trusts § 202 (1959). See also G. Bogert, The Law of Trusts and 31 Trustees § 861, at 16-17 (rev. 2d ed. 1982).

32 SECTION 1003. DAMAGES AGAINST TRUSTEE FOR BREACH OF 33 TRUST. A beneficiary may charge a trustee who commits a breach of trust with 34 the greater of:

(1) the amount required to restore the value of the trust property and trust distributions to what they would have been had the breach not occurred; or

(2) the profit that the trustee made by reason of the breach.

Comment

This section is based on Restatement (Third) of Trusts: Prudent Investor Rule § 205 (1992). If a trustee commits a breach of trust, the beneficiaries may either affirm the transaction or, if a loss has occurred, hold the trustee liable for the amount necessary to fully compensate for the consequences of the breach. This may include lost income, capital gain, or appreciation that would have resulted from proper administration. Even if a loss has not occurred, the trustee may not be allowed to benefit by reason of the trustee's improper action, and is thus accountable for any profit that the trustee may have made by reason of the breach.

For extensive commentary on the determination of damages, with numerous specific applications, see Restatement (Third) of Trusts: Prudent Investor Rule §§ 204-213 (1992). On the authority of a court of equity to reduce or excuse damages for breach of trust, see Restatement (Second) of Trusts § 205 cmt. g (1959).

The remedies provided in this section do not preclude resort to other remedies provided by this Act or available under the common law of trusts. See Sections 105 (common law of trusts) and 1002 (equitable remedies for breach of trust). As to possible defenses of the trustee, see Sections 1006 through 1009.

SECTION 1004. LIABILITY OF TRUSTEE IN ABSENCE OF BREACH.

(a) A trustee is accountable to a beneficiary for any profit made by the trustee arising from the administration of the trust, even absent a breach of trust.

(b) Absent a breach of trust, a trustee is not liable to a beneficiary for a loss or depreciation in the value of trust property or for the failure to make a profit.

Comment

The principle on which a trustee's duty of loyalty is premised is that a trustee should not be allowed to use the trust as a means for personal profit other than for compensation earned. While most instances of personal profit involve situations

1 where the trustee has breached the duty of loyalty, not all cases of personal profit
2 involve a breach of trust. Subsection (a), which holds a trustee accountable for any 3 profit made, even absent a breach of trust, is based on Restatement (Second) of 4 Trusts § 203 (1959).

5 A trustee is not an insurer. As provided in subsection (b), absent a breach of 6 trust, a trustee is not liable for a loss or depreciation in the value of the trust
7 property or for failure to make a profit. Subsection (b) is based on Restatement
8 (Second) of Trusts § 204 (1959).

9 SECTION 1005. ATTORNEY'S FEES AND COSTS. In a judicial 10 proceeding involving a trust, the court, as justice and equity may require, may award 11 costs and expenses, including reasonable attorney's fees, to any party, to be paid by 12 another party or from the trust that is the subject of the controversy.

13 Comment

14 This section is based on Massachusetts General Laws chapter 215, § 45.
15 The court, in its discretion, may award the costs and expenses of a party, including 16 reasonable attorney's fees, against another party or the trust. This section broadens 17 but also builds on the common law. This section overlaps with Section 709, which 18 allows a trustee to recover expenditures properly incurred in the administration of 19 the trust. Generally, litigation expenses were at common law chargeable against 20 another party only in the case of egregious conduct such as bad faith or fraud. A 21 beneficiary, however, could recover litigation costs from the trust if the litigation
22 was deemed beneficial to the trust. Sometimes, this litigation by a beneficiary
23 involves an allegation that the trustee had committed a breach of trust. On other 24 occasions, the suit by the beneficiary is brought because of the trustee's failure to 25 take action against a third party, such as to recover property properly belonging to 26 the trust. For the authority of a beneficiary to bring an action when the trustee fails
27 act against a third party, see Restatement (Second) of Trusts §§ 281-282 (1959).

28 SECTION 1006. LIMITATION OF ACTION AGAINST TRUSTEE
29 FOLLOWING TRUSTEE'S REPORT.

(a) Unless previously barred by adjudication, consent, or other limitation, a claim against a trustee for breach of trust is barred as to a beneficiary to whom the trustee has sent a report adequately disclosing the facts constituting a claim unless:

(1) a judicial proceeding to assert the claim is commenced within one year after the report is sent; and

(2) the report informs the beneficiary of the time allowed.

(b) A report adequately discloses the facts constituting a claim if it provides sufficient information so that the beneficiary knows of the claim or reasonably should have inquired into its existence.

(c) For the purpose of subsection (a), a beneficiary is deemed to have been sent a report if:

(1) in the case of an adult who has capacity, it is sent to the beneficiary;

(2) in the case of a beneficiary who is incapable of representing the beneficiary's own interest, it is sent to a person who under [Article] 3 may represent and bind the beneficiary with respect to the report.

(d) This section does not preclude an action to recover for fraud or misrepresentation related to the report.

Comment

Subsection (a) is based in part on Section 7-307 of the Uniform Probate Code. For provisions governing consent, release, and ratification by beneficiaries to relieve the trustee of liability, see Section 1009. The reference in the introductory clause to claims previously barred also includes principles such as estoppel and laches that apply under the common law of trusts. See Section 105. During the time that a trust is revocable and someone other than the settlor is acting as trustee, the person holding the power to revoke is the one who must receive the report in 1 order to commence the running of the limitations period provided in this section.

2 See Section 603 (rights of settlor).

3 Subsection (c) specifies who must receive the report for it to have the effect
4 of later barring claims based on the information disclosed. This subsection 5 addresses only the issue of when the clock will start to run for purposes of the 6 statute of limitations. Should the trustee wish immediately to foreclose possible
7 claims based on the information disclosed, a consent to the report or other
8 information may be obtained pursuant to Section 1009.

9 Subsection (d), providing that the statute of limitations does not begin to run
10 if there was fraud or misrepresentation related to the report, is based on Missouri
11 Revised Statutes § 456.220.

12 For the provisions relating to the duty to report information to beneficiaries,
13 see Section 813.

14 SECTION 1007. RELIANCE ON TRUST INSTRUMENT. A trustee who 15 acted in reasonable reliance on the terms of a written trust instrument is not liable to 16 a beneficiary for a breach of trust to the extent the breach resulted from such 17 reliance.

18 Comment

19 On occasion, the terms of the trust will differ from the an apparent plain 20 meaning of the written trust instrument. This can occur because the court, in 21 determining the terms of the trust, is allowed to consider evidence extrinsic to the 22 written trust instrument. See Section 102(16) (definition of “terms of a trust”).
23 Furthermore, if a trust is reformed on account of mistake of fact or law, as provided
24 in Section 413, provisions of a written trust instrument can be deleted or 25 contradicted and provisions not in the written document may be added. “Terms of 26 the trust,” as defined in this Act and under the doctrine of reformation, reflect the 27 guiding principle that a trust should be administered and distributed in accordance 28 with the settlor’s intent. However, a trustee should at the same time be permitted to 29 administer a trust with some dispatch and without concern that a reasonable reliance
30 on the terms of a written trust instrument is misplaced. This section protects a 31 trustee who so relies on a written trust instrument but only to the extent the breach 32 of trust resulted form such reliance. This section is similar to Section 2(b) of the 33 Uniform Prudent Investor Act, which protects a trustee from liability to the extent 34 that the trustee acted in reasonable reliance on the provisions of the trust.

1 SECTION 1008. EXCULPATION OF TRUSTEE.

2 (a) A term of a trust relieving a trustee of liability for breach of trust is 3 unenforceable to the extent that it:

4 (1) relieves a trustee of liability for breach of trust committed in bad faith 5 or with reckless indifference to the purposes of the trust or the interest of the 6 beneficiaries; or

7 (2) was inserted as the result of an abuse by the trustee of a fiduciary or 8 confidential relationship to the settlor.

9 (b) An exculpatory term drafted by or on behalf of the trustee is presumed 10 to have been inserted as a result of an abuse of a fiduciary or confidential 11 relationship unless the trustee proves that the exculpatory term is fair under the 12 circumstances and that its existence and contents were adequately communicated to 13 the settlor.

14 Comment

15 Subsection (a) is the same in substance as Section 222 of the Restatement
16 (Second) of Trusts (1959). It is also consistent with the standards expressed in 17 Sections 103 and 814 relating to the extent to which a settlor may negate a duty in 18 the terms of the trust. There is a minimum standard of conduct to which a trustee
19 must adhere, whether stated as a negation of a duty or in the form of an exculpatory
20 provision. A trustee must always act in good faith and with regard to the purposes
21 of the trust and the interest of the beneficiaries.

22 Subsection (b) disapproves of cases such as Marsman v. Nasca, 573 N.E.2d
23 1025 (Mass. App. Ct. 1991), which held that an exculpatory clause in a trust
24 instrument drafted by the trustee was valid absent proof that it was inserted as a
25 result of an abuse of a fiduciary relationship. For a later case where sufficient proof
26 of abuse was present, see Rutanan v. Ballard, 678 N.E.2d 133 (Mass. 1997).
27 Subsection (b) responds to the danger that the insertion of such a clause by the 28 fiduciary or its agent may have been undisclosed or inadequately understood by the settlor. To overcome this presumption of abuse, the trustee must establish that the clause was fair and that its existence and contents were adequately communicated to the settlor. In determining whether the clause was fair, the court may wish to examine: (1) the extent of the prior relationship between the settlor and trustee; (2) whether the settlor received independent advice; (3) the sophistication of the settlor with respect to business and fiduciary matters; (4) the trustee's reasons for inserting the clause; and (5) the scope of the particular provision inserted. See Restatement (Second) of Trusts § 222 cmt. d (1959).

SECTION 1009. BENEFICIARY'S CONSENT, RELEASE, OR

RATIFICATION. A beneficiary may not hold a trustee liable for a breach of trust if the beneficiary, while having capacity, consented to the conduct constituting the breach, released the trustee from liability for the breach, or ratified the transaction constituting the breach, unless:

(1) the consent, release, or ratification of the beneficiary was induced by improper conduct of the trustee; or

(2) at the time of the consent, release, or ratification, the beneficiary did not of:

(A) the beneficiary's rights; or

(B) material facts the trustee knew or should have known with the of reasonable inquiry.

Comment

This section is based on Sections 216 through 218 of the Restatement (Second) of Trusts (1959). When one beneficiary has consented but others have not, courts give a remedy to the nonconsenting beneficiaries. Restatement (Second) of Trusts § 216 cmt. h (1959). But consent by the settlor of a revocable trust or by the holder of a presently exercisable power of withdrawal binds all of the beneficiaries. See Section 603. A beneficiary is also bound to the extent a consent is given by a person authorized to represent the beneficiary as provided in Article 3.

1 Per Restatement (Second) of Trusts § 216(3) and Comment n, a consent of a 2 beneficiary to a self-dealing transaction by a trustee is binding only if the transaction
3 was fair and reasonable.

4 SECTION 1010. LIMITATION ON PERSONAL LIABILITY OF
5 TRUSTEE.

6 (a) Except as otherwise provided in the contract, a trustee is not personally 7 liable on a contract properly entered into in the trustee's fiduciary capacity in the 8 course of administration of the trust if the trustee in the contract discloses the 9 fiduciary capacity.

10 (b) A trustee is personally liable for torts committed in the course of 11 administering a trust, or for obligations arising from ownership or control of trust 12 property, including liability for violation of environmental law, only if the trustee is 13 personally at fault.

14 (c) A claim based on a contract entered into by a trustee in the trustee's
15 fiduciary capacity, on an obligation arising from ownership or control of trust 16 property, or on a tort committed in the course of administering a trust, may be 17 asserted in a judicial proceeding against the trustee in the trustee's fiduciary 18 capacity, whether or not the trustee is personally liable on the claim.

19 Comment

20 This section is based on Section 7-306 of the Uniform Probate Code.
21 However, unlike the Uniform Probate Code, which requires that the contract 22 disclose both the representative capacity and identify the trust, subsection (a) of this 23 section protects a trustee who reveals the fiduciary relationship, whether by 24 indicating a signature as trustee or by simply referring to the trust. Under this 25 section, it is assumed that all that should be required is that the other contracting
26 party be put on notice that a trust is involved. The protection afforded the trustee

1 by this section applies only to contracts that are properly entered into in the trustee's 2 fiduciary capacity, meaning that the trustee is exercising an available power and is 3 not violating a duty. This section does not excuse any liability the trustee may have 4 for breach of trust.

5 Subsection (b) addresses trustee liability arising from ownership or control
6 of trust property and for torts occurring incident to the administration of the trust.
7 Liability in such situations is imposed on the trustee personally only if the trustee
8 was personally at fault, either intentionally or negligently. This is contrary to 9 Restatement (Second) of Trusts § 264 (1959), which imposes liability on a trustee 10 regardless of fault, including liability for acts of agents under respondeat superior.
11 Responding to a particular concern of trustees, subsection (b) specifically protects a 12 trustee from personal liability for violations of environmental law unless the trustee 13 was personally at fault. See also Sections 701(c)(2) (nominated trustee may 14 investigate trust property to determine environmental liability without having 15 accepted trusteeship), and 816(14) (trustee powers with respect to possible liability 16 for environmental conditions).

17 Subsection (c) alters the case law rule that a trustee could not be sued in a 18 representative capacity if the trust estate was not liable.

19 SECTION 1011. PROTECTION OF PERSON DEALING WITH 20 TRUSTEE.

21 (a) A person other than a beneficiary who in good faith assists a trustee or 22 who in good faith and for value deals with a trustee without knowledge that the 23 trustee is exceeding or improperly exercising the trustee's powers is protected from 24 liability as if the trustee properly exercised the power.

25 (b) A person other than a beneficiary who in good faith deals with another 26 person knowing that the other person is a trustee is not required to inquire into the 27 extent of the trustee's powers or the propriety of their exercise.

28 (c) A person who in good faith delivers assets to a trustee need not ensure 29 their proper application.

1 (d) A person other than a beneficiary who in good faith assists a former 2 trustee or who for value and in good faith deals with a former trustee without 3 knowledge that the trusteeship has terminated is protected from liability as if the 4 former trustee were still a trustee.

5 (e) The protection provided by this section to persons assisting or dealing 6 with a trustee is superseded by comparable protective provisions of other laws
7 relating to commercial transactions or to the transfer of securities by fiduciaries.

8 Comment

9 This section is originally derived from Section 7 of the Uniform Trustees'
10 Powers Act, but with important changes. The most important change is to conform
11 the standard of protection for third parties to that provided under the Uniform
12 Commercial Code. This is accomplished through the addition of a definition of 13 "good faith" at Section 1101, and the definition of "know" at Section 102(7). The 14 effect of these definitions, as applied in this section, is to protect a third party who 15 deals with a trustee while observing reasonable standards of fair dealing and without 16 reason to inquire as to whether the trustee is committing a breach of trust. This is in 17 contrast to the Uniform Trustees' Powers Act, which by failing to define good faith, 18 left open the issue of whether its requirement that a trustee act in good faith was 19 totally subjective or instead contained an objective element. For criticism of the 20 Trustees' Powers Act on this point, see Jerome H. Curtis, Jr., The 21 Transmogrification of the American Trust, 31 Real Prop. Prob. Tr. J. 251, 297-309
22 (1996); and Peter T. Wendel, Examining the Mystery Behind the Unusually and 23 Inexplicably Broad Provisions of Section Seven of the Uniform Trustee's Powers
24 Act: A Call for Clarification, 56 Mo. L. Rev. 25 (1991).

25 The definition of "good faith" requires that a third party, to receive 26 protection, must not only exhibit honesty of intention but also must observe 27 reasonable standards of fair dealing. The definition of "know" refers to more than 28 actual knowledge. While a person is not charged with knowledge of facts 29 discoverable upon reasonable inquiry, the third party is charged with knowledge of 30 facts the person had reason to know based on the facts and circumstances actually 31 known to the person at the time in question. In other words, if the person should 32 have been aware of a particular fact based on the circumstances and other facts of 33 which the person was actually aware, the person is charged with knowledge of that 34 fact.

1 Subsection (a) protects two different classes; persons who assist a trustee
2 with a transaction, and persons who deal with the trustee for value. The third 3 person is protected in the transaction despite the fact the trustee was exceeding or 4 improperly exercising the power as long as the assistance was provided or 5 transaction was entered into in “good faith” and without “knowledge” as defined in 6 Sections 1101 and 102(7).

7 Subsection (b) confirms that a third party acting in good faith and with 8 knowledge that the other person is a trustee is not charged with a duty to inquire 9 into the extent of a trustee’s powers or the propriety of their exercise.

10 Subsection (c) protects any person, including a beneficiary, who in good 11 faith delivers property to a trustee. The standard of protection in the Restatement is 12 in effect similar although more elaborate. Under the Restatement, the person 13 delivering the property is liable only if the person, at the time of the delivery, had 14 notice that the trustee was misapplying or intending to misapply the property
15 delivered. See Restatement (Second) of Trusts § 321 (1959).

16 Subsection (d) extends the protections afforded by the section to assistance
17 provided to or dealings for value with a former trustee. The third party is protected 18 the same as if the former trustee still held the office.

19 The purpose of subsection (e) is to allow a statute relating to commercial 20 transactions to control whenever both it and this section could apply to a 21 transaction. Consequently, the protections provided by this section are superseded 22 by comparable protective provisions of these other laws. The principal statutes in 23 question are the various articles of the Uniform Commercial Code, including Article 24 8 on the transfer of securities, as well as the Uniform Simplification of Transfer of 25 Securities by Fiduciaries Act.

26 SECTION 1012. CERTIFICATION OF TRUST.

27 (a) Instead of providing a person other than a beneficiary with a copy of the 28 trust instrument, a trustee may provide the person with a certification of trust 29 containing statements concerning, but not limited to, the following matters:

30 (1) the existence of the trust and the date of execution of the trust 31 instrument;

- 1 (2) the identity of the settlor or settlors and of the currently acting 2 trustee or trustees of the trust;
- 3 (3) the powers of the trustee;
- 4 (4) the revocability or irrevocability of the trust and the identity of any 5 person holding a power to revoke the trust;
- 6 (5) the authority of cotrustees to sign and whether all or less than all are 7 required to sign in order to exercise powers of the trustee;
- 8 (6) the trust's taxpayer identification number; and
- 9 (7) the manner in which title to trust property may be taken.
- 10 (b) A certification of trust must be in the form of an acknowledged writing 11 and may be signed by any trustee.
- 12 (c) A certification of trust must contain a statement that the trust has not 13 been revoked or amended in any manner that would cause the representations 14 contained in the certification of trust to be incorrect.
- 15 (d) A certification of trust need not contain the dispositive terms of a trust.
- 16 (e) A recipient of a certification of trust may require the trustee to provide 17 copies of those excerpts from the original trust instrument and later amendments 18 that designate the trustee and confer upon the trustee the power to act in the 19 pending transaction.
- 20 (f) A person who acts in reliance upon a certification of trust without 21 knowledge that the representations contained therein are incorrect is not liable to 22 any person for so acting and may assume without inquiry the existence of the facts

1 contained in the certification. Knowledge of the terms of the trust may not be 2 inferred solely from the fact that a copy of all or part of the trust instrument is held
3 by the person relying upon the certification. A person entering into a transaction in 4 reliance upon a certification of trust may enforce the transaction against the trust
5 property as if the representations contained in the certification were correct.

6 (g) A person making a demand for the trust instrument in addition to a 7 certification of trust or excerpts is liable for damages if the court determines that the 8 person did not act in good faith in requesting the trust instrument.

9 (h) This section does not limit the right of a beneficiary or others to obtain 10 copies of the trust instrument in a judicial proceeding concerning the trust.

11 Policy Issues

12 This section creates a procedure for providing a person dealing with a 13 trustee with a certification of trust instead of with a complete copy of the trust
14 instrument. While all members of the Drafting Committee support the concept of 15 this section, one member of the Drafting Committee prefers that some remedy other 16 than damages be imposed against persons whom the court determines did not act in 17 good faith in demanding a complete copy of the trust instrument after being 18 furnished with a certification. The Conference's comments are invited on this 19 issue.

20 Comment

21 This section, based on California Probate Code § 18100.5, is designed to 22 protect the privacy of a trust instrument by reducing requests by third parties for 23 complete copies of the instrument when verifying a trustee's authority. Third parties 24 frequently insist on receiving a copy of the complete trust instrument solely to verify 25 a specific and narrow authority of the trustee to engage in a particular transaction.
26 While a testamentary trust, because it is created under a will, is a matter of public 27 record, an inter vivos trust instrument is private. Such privacy is compromised,
28 however, if the trust instrument must be widely distributed among third parties. A 29 certification of trust is a document signed by all currently acting trustees that may 30 include excerpts from the trust instrument necessary to facilitate the particular 31 transaction. The benefit of a certification is that it will enable the transaction to 32 proceed without disclosure of the trust's beneficial provisions. Nor is there a need

1 for third parties who may already have a copy of the instrument to pry into its 2 provisions. Persons acting in reliance on a certification may assume the truth of the 3 certification even if they have a complete copy of the trust instrument in their 4 possession.

5 To encourage compliance with this section, persons demanding a trust
6 instrument despite having already been offered a certification may be liable for 7 damages if their refusal is determined not to have been made in good faith. This 8 requires, based on the definition of “good faith” in Section 1101, that the refusal not 9 have been made with honesty in intention or in accordance with reasonable
10 standards of fair dealing. A person acting in good faith would include a person 11 required to examine a complete copy of the trust instrument pursuant to due 12 diligence standards or as required by other law. Specific examples of such due 13 diligence and legal requirements would include (1) in connection with transactions 14 to be executed in the capital market where documentary standards have been 15 established in connection with underwriting concerns; (2) to satisfy documentary 16 requirements established by state or local government or regulatory agency; (3) to 17 satisfy documentary requirements established by a state or local government or 18 regulatory agency; and (4) where the insurance rates or premiums or other expenses
19 of the party would be higher absent the availability of the documentation.

1
2
3
4
5
6
7
8
9
10
11
12
13
14
15
16
17
18 19

ARTICLE 11
TRANSITIONAL AND MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS

SECTION 1101. UNIFORMITY OF APPLICATION AND CONSTRUCTION. In applying and construing this Uniform Act, consideration must be given to the need to promote uniformity of the law with respect to its subject matter among States that enact it.

SECTION 1102. SEVERABILITY CLAUSE. If any provision of this [Act] or its application to any person or circumstances is held invalid, the invalidity does not affect other provisions or applications of the [Act] which can be given effect without the invalid provision or application, and to this end the provisions of this [Act] are severable.

SECTION 1103. EFFECTIVE DATE.

(a) This [Act] takes effect on _____.

SECTION 1104. REPEALERS AND AMENDMENTS.

- [(a)] The following Acts and parts of Acts are repealed:
- (1) Uniform Trustee Powers Act;
 - (2) Uniform Prudent Investor Act;
 - (3) Uniform Probate Code, Article VII;
 - (4) Uniform Trusts Act (1937);

1 (5)

2 [(b) The following Acts and parts of Acts are amended:

3 (1) Uniform Prudent Investor Act;

4 (2)

5 (3)

6 Comment

7 For the reasons why the above uniform acts should be repealed upon 8 enactment of this Act, see the Prefatory Note. States which have not enacted one or 9 more of the specified uniform acts should repeal their comparable legislation.
10 Because of the comprehensive scope of this Act, many States will have trust 11 provisions not based on any uniform act which will need to be repealed upon 12 enactment of this Act. This section does not attempt to list the types of conforming 13 amendments, whether in the enacting State's probate code or elsewhere, which will 14 need to be made upon enactment of this Act. But blank spaces are included in 15 subsection (b) in order to alert enacting jurisdictions to this fact.

16 SECTION 1105. APPLICATION TO EXISTING RELATIONSHIPS.

17 (a) Except as otherwise provided in this [Act], on [the effective date of this 18 [Act]]:

19 (1) this [Act] applies to all trusts created before, on, or after [its effective 20 date];

21 (2) this [Act] applies to all judicial proceedings concerning trusts
22 commenced on or after [its effective date];

23 (3) this [Act] applies to judicial proceedings concerning trusts
24 commenced before [its effective date] unless the court finds that application of a 25 particular provision of this [Act] would substantially interfere with the effective conduct of the judicial proceedings or the rights of the parties, in which case the particular provision of this [Act] does not apply and the superseded law applies;

(4) any rule of construction or presumption provided in this [Act] applies to trust instruments executed before [the effective date of the [Act]] unless there is a clear indication of a contrary intent in the terms of the trust; and

(5) an act done before [the effective date of the [Act]] in any proceeding and any accrued right is not affected by this [Act].

(b) If a right is acquired, extinguished, or barred upon the expiration of a prescribed period that has commenced to run under any other statute before [the effective date of the [Act]], that statute remains in force with respect to that right.

Comment

This section is similar to Section 8-101 of the Uniform Probate Code. This section addresses the applicability of the Act, including application to pending judicial proceedings and the administration of existing trusts. The Act is intended to receive the widest possible application. The Act applies to all trusts subject to the jurisdiction of the enacting State, whether created before or after the date of enactment. But recognizing constitutional concerns, excluded from coverage are trusts created prior to the Act's effective date if such application would impair a vested right. For such an impairment to occur, however, the trust would have to be irrevocable as of the effective date and the particular provision of the Act would have to actually reduce or otherwise threaten a beneficial interest.