UNIFORM CHILD CUSTODY JURISDICTION AND ENFORCEMENT ACT
With Prefatory Note and Comments

The ideas and conclusions herein set forth, including drafts of proposed legislation, have not been passed on by the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the Committee, Reporters or Commissioners. Proposed statutory language, if any, may not be used to ascertain legislative meaning of any promulgated final law.

UNIFORM CHILD CUSTODY JURISDICTION AND ENFORCEMENT ACT

First Reading

July 18, 1996

INTRODUCTORY NOTE

This Act, the Uniform Child Custody Jurisdiction and Enforcement Act, revisits the problem of the interstate child thirty years after the Conference promulgated the Uniform Child Custody Jurisdiction Act (UCCJA). It seeks to accomplish two purposes. First, it revises the law on child custody jurisdiction in light of federal enactments and thirty years of contradictory case law. Article 2 of the Act provides for a clearer determination of which State can exercise original jurisdiction over a child-custody determination. It also, for the first time, enunciates a standard of continuing jurisdiction and clarifies modification jurisdiction. Other aspects of the Article harmonize the law on

1 simultaneous proceedings, clean hands and forum non conveniens. Several sections
2 of the original UCCJA that were obsolete were omitted from this revision.
3

4 Second, this Act provides in Article 3 for an expedited process to enforce 5 interstate child custody and visitation determinations. In doing so, it brings uniformity to 6 the law of interstate enforcement that is currently chaotic. In many respects this Act 7 accomplishes for custody and visitation determinations the same certainty that has 8 occurred in interstate child support law with the promulgation of the Uniform Interstate 9 Family Support Act.

10 REVISION OF THE UNIFORM CHILD CUSTODY JURISDICTION ACT

12
13 In 1994 the Conference's Study Committee on Family Law recommended to the 14 Scope and Program Committee that Uniform Child Custody Jurisdiction Act be 15 amended to conform it to federal enactments, particularly the Parental Kidnapping
16 Prevention Act, (PKPA), 28 U.S.C. §1738A (Full Faith and Credit to Child Custody
17 Determinations). In the same year the American Bar Association's Family Law
18 Section's Council unanimously passed the following resolution at its spring 1994
19 meeting in Charleston:
20

21 RESOLUTION

22 WHEREAS the Uniform Child Custody Jurisdiction Act (UCCJA) is 23 in effect in all 50 of the United States, and the Federal Parental
24 Kidnapping Prevention Act (PKPA), 28 U.S.C.A. §1738A, governs the full 25 faith and credit due a child custody determination by a court of a U.S.
26 state or territory, and

27 WHEREAS numerous scholars have noted that certain provisions
28 of the PKPA and the UCCJA are inconsistent with each other,

29 THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED the Council of the Family Law
30 Section of the American Bar Association urges the National Conference of 31 Commissioners on Uniform State Laws (NCCUSL) to study whether 32 revisions to the UCCJA should be drafted and promulgated in a revised 33 version of the uniform act.
34

35 The UCCJA was successfully adopted as law in all 50 states, the District of 36 Columbia and the Virgin Islands. A number of adoptions, however, have significantly 37 departed from the original text. In addition, almost thirty years of litigation since the 38 promulgation of the UCCJA has produced substantial discrepancy in its interpretation in 39 state courts. These non-uniform interpretations have created many situations where 40 the goals of the UCCJA were rendered unobtainable.
41

42 In 1980 the federal government enacted the Parental Kidnapping Prevention Act 43 (PKPA), 28 U.S.C.A. §1738A, to address interstate custody problems that continued to 44 exist after the adoption of the UCCJA. The PKPA mandates that state authorities give 45 full faith and credit to other states' custody determinations, so long as those 46 determinations were made in conformity with the provisions of the PKPA. The PKPA 47 provisions regarding bases for jurisdiction, restrictions on modifications, preclusion of 48 simultaneous proceedings, and notice requirements are similar to those in the UCCJA.
49 There are, however, some significant differences. For example, under the UCCJA
50 there are four interchangeable bases of jurisdiction. The PKPA, however, prioritizes the 51 "home state" jurisdiction by requiring that full faith and credit cannot be given to a State
52 that exercises jurisdiction for any other reason when there is a "home state." In addition

1 the PKPA authorizes continuing exclusive jurisdiction in the decree state so long as one
2 parent or the child remains in that jurisdiction. The UCCJA only hints at such a
3 requirement. To further complicate the process, the PKPA partially incorporates state
4 UCCJA law in its language.
5

6 The existing Drafting Committee on the Uniform Child Visitation Act was then
7 requested by the Scope and Program Committee to revise the Uniform Child Custody
8 Jurisdiction Act. The purposes of the revisions are to bring the UCCJA into compliance
9 with the Parental Kidnapping Prevention Act and other federal statutes such as the 10 Violence Against Women's Act, 18 U.S.C. §2265 (Full Faith and Credit for Protective 11 Orders), as well as to make those changes to the UCCJA which are necessary after 12 almost 30 years of inconsistent court interpretations.
13

14 The Drafting Committee on the Uniform Interstate Child Visitation Act combined 15 these revisions, along with the enforcement provision it was drafting, into a proposed 16 Uniform Child Custody Jurisdiction and Enforcement Act. This draft contains the 17 following suggested amendments to the UCCJA:
18

19 1. Providing for home state priority: The PKPA provides for full faith and credit only 20 when the custody determination is made by the home state. Other state custody
21 determinations are not entitled to PKPA enforcement unless there is no home state.
22 The UCCJA, however, specifically authorizes four independent bases of jurisdiction
23 without prioritization. Under the UCCJA a significant-connection custody determination
24 may have to be enforced even if it would be denied enforcement under the PKPA.
25 This draft prioritizes home state jurisdiction in Section 201.
26

27 2. A clarification of emergency jurisdiction: There are several problems with the 28 current emergency jurisdiction provision of the UCCJA §3(a)(3). First, the language of 29 the UCCJA does not specify that emergency jurisdiction may only be exercised to 30 protect the child on a temporary basis until the court with jurisdiction issues a 31 permanent order. Some courts have interpreted the UCCJA language to so provide.
32 Other courts, however, have held that there is no time limit on the emergency
33 jurisdiction. Simultaneous proceedings and conflicting custody orders have resulted 34 from these different interpretations.
35

36 Second, the emergency jurisdiction provisions predated the widespread 37 enactment of state domestic violence statutes. Those statutes are often invoked to 38 keep one parent away from the other parent and the children when there is a threat of 39 violence. Whether these situations are sufficient to invoke the emergency jurisdiction
40 provision of the UCCJA has been the subject of some confusion since the emergency 41 jurisdiction provision does not specifically refer to violence directed against the parent of 42 the child or to a sibling of the child.
43

44 Finally, the UCCJA provides no exception to the notice requirement, or the ban
45 on simultaneous proceeding, in emergency cases. Therefore, custody orders issued on 46 a temporary emergency basis (e.g., child abuse orders or domestic violence orders of 47 protection), prior to notice being given to all contestants or during the pendency of 48 another custody proceeding in another state, would not currently be enforceable in any 49 other state pursuant to the UCCJA, although they may have to be enforced under the 50 Violence Against Womens Act.
51

52 This draft contains a separate section on emergency jurisdiction at Section 204

1 which addresses these issues.
2

3 3. Providing for exclusive continuing jurisdiction for the decree granting state:

4 The failure of the current UCCJA to clearly state that the decree granting state retains 5 exclusive jurisdiction to modify that decree has resulted in two major problems. First,
6 different interpretations of the UCCJA on continuing jurisdiction have resulted in 7 conflicting custody decrees. States have different interpretations as to how long
8 continuing jurisdiction lasts. Some courts have held that modification jurisdiction 9 continues until the last contestant leaves the state, regardless of how many years the 10 child has lived outside the state or how tenuous the child's connections to the state
11 have become. Other courts have held that continuing modification jurisdiction ends as 12 soon as the child has established a new home state, regardless of how significant the 13 child's connections to the decree state remain. This divergence of views leads to 14 simultaneous proceedings and conflicting custody orders.
15

16 The second problem arises when it is necessary to determine whether the state
17 with continuing jurisdiction has relinquished it. There should be a clear basis to 18 determine when that court has relinquished jurisdiction. Currently, the UCCJA provides 19 no guidance on this issue. The resulting ambiguity concerning whether a court has 20 declined jurisdiction can result in one court improperly exercising jurisdiction because it
21 erroneously believes that the other court has declined jurisdiction. This can cause
22 simultaneous proceedings and conflicting custody orders. In addition some courts have 23 declined jurisdiction after only informal contact between courts, with no notice to 24 contestants and no opportunity for the parties to be heard. This raises serious due 25 process questions. This draft addresses these issues in Section 106, 202, and 206.
26

27 4. What custody proceedings are covered: The definition of custody proceeding in 28 the UCCJA is ambiguous. States have rendered conflicting decisions regarding certain 29 types of proceedings. There is no general agreement whether the UCCJA applies to 30 neglect, abuse, dependency, wardship, guardianship, termination of parental rights,
31 adoption and protection from domestic violence proceedings.
32

33 The definition of custody proceeding has been modified to specify what 34 proceeding are covered under the Act and which are excluded.
35

36 5. Role of "Best Interests:" The jurisdictional scheme of the UCCJA was designed to 37 promote the best interests of the children whose custody was in question by 38 discouraging parental abduction and providing that, in general, the state with the closest 39 connections to and the most evidence regarding a child should decide that child's 40 custody. The "best interest" language in the jurisdictional sections of the UCCJA was 41 not intended to be an invitation to address the merits of the custody dispute in the 42 jurisdictional determination or to otherwise provide that "best interests" considerations
43 should override jurisdictional determinations or provide an additional jurisdictional basis.
44

45
46 This draft eliminates the term "best interests" in order to establish clarity between 47 the jurisdictional standards and the substantive standards relating to custody and 48 visitation of children.
49

50 6. Applicability to Native Americans: It is currently unclear whether Native American 51 tribes are intended to be included under the definition of "State." This ambiguity
52 creates uncertainty as to whether child custody determinations made by Native

1 American tribal courts are ever entitled to enforcement under the UCCJA and whether 2 Native American tribal authorities are obliged to enforce state court determinations.
3 Currently some states have enacted statues exempting from UCCJA coverage all
4 proceedings that would fall under the Indian Child Welfare Act. Others disagree. This
5 draft defines "State" to include Indian tribe as that term is defined in the Indian Child
6 Welfare Act.
7

8 7. Other Changes: This draft also makes a number of additional amendments to the 9 UCCJA as pointed out in the comments to those sections. These changes are not 10 necessary to conform the Act to federal statutes. However, the Drafting Committee
11 determined that these changes will result in an improved Act that is easier to apply.
12

13 With the substantial reorganization of the original UCCJA required by the 14 Committee on Style, it is not possible to present an copy which indicates all language 15 changes by strike-out and new text by underlining.
16

17 ENFORCEMENT PROVISIONS

18
19
20 The Drafting Committee for a proposed Uniform Interstate Child Visitation Act 21 was originally charged with the task of developing remedies for interstate visitation and 22 custody cases. As with child support, state borders have become the biggest obstacle
23 to enforcement of custody and visitation orders. If the either parent leaves the state 24 where the custody determination was made, the other parent faces considerable 25 difficulty in enforcing the visitation and custody provisions of the decree. Locating the 26 child, making service of process, obtaining jurisdiction and preventing adverse 27 modification in a new forum all present problems.
28

29 There is currently no uniform method of enforcing custody and visitation orders
30 validly entered in another state. As documented by the ABA Center on Children and 31 the Law's Report, Obstacles to the Recovery and Return of Parentally Abducted
32 Children (Obstacles Study), despite the fact that both the UCCJA and the PKPA direct 33 the enforcement of visitation and custody orders entered in accordance with mandated 34 jurisdictional prerequisites and due process, neither deals with the mechanisms for 35 enforcement.
36

37 As the Obstacles Study pointed out, the lack of specificity in enforcement 38 procedures has resulted in the law of enforcement evolving differently in different
39 jurisdictions. In one state it might be common practice to file a Motion to Enforce or a 40 Motion to Grant Full Faith and Credit to initiate an enforcement proceeding. In another 41 a Writ of Habeas Corpus or a Citation for Contempt might be commonly used. In some 42 states, mandamus and prohibition also may be utilized. All of these enforcement
43 procedures differ from jurisdiction to jurisdiction. While many states tend to limit 44 considerations in enforcement proceedings to whether the court which issued the 45 decree had jurisdiction to make the custody determination, others broaden the 46 considerations to scrutiny of whether enforcement would be in the best interests of the 47 child.
48

49 Lack of uniformity complicates the enforcement process in several ways: (1) It
50 increases the costs of the enforcement action in part because the expertise of more 51 than one lawyer may be required--one in the original forum and one in the state where 52 enforcement is sought; (2) It decreases the lack of certainty of outcome; (3) It can turn

1 enforcement into a long and drawn out procedure. A parent opposed to the provisions
2 of a visitation determination may be able to delay implementation for many months,
3 possibly even years, thereby frustrating not only the other parent, but also the process
4 that led to the issuance of the original court order.
5

6 The provisions of Article 3 reflect the decisions taken by the drafting committee.
7 The Act provides an extremely swift remedy along the lines of habeas corpus. Time is 8 extremely important in visitation and custody cases. If visitation rights cannot be 9 enforced quickly, they often cannot be enforced at all. This is particularly true if there is 10 a limited time within which visitation can be exercised such as may be the case when 11 one parent has been granted visitation during the winter or spring holiday period.
12 Without speedy consideration and resolution of the enforcement of such visitation
13 rights, the ability to visit may be lost entirely. Similarly, a custodial parent must be able 14 to obtain prompt enforcement when the noncustodial parent refuses to return a child as 15 the end of authorized visitation, particularly when a summer visitation extension will 16 infringe on the school year. A swift enforcement mechanism is desirable for violations 17 of both custody and visitation provisions.
18

19 The draft also provides that the enforcing tribunal will be able to utilize an 20 extraordinary remedy. If the enforcing tribunal is concerned that the parent, who has 21 physical custody of the child, will flee or harm the child, a warrant to take physical 22 possession of the child is available.
23

24 The scope of the enforcing court's inquiry is limited to the issue of whether the 25 decree court had jurisdiction and complied with due process in rendering the original
26 custody decree. No further inquiry is necessary because neither Article 2 nor the PKPA 27 allow an enforcing tribunal to modify a custody determination.
28

29 At the request of the Drafting Committee, the Scope and Program Committee
30 determined that the revisions of the UCCJA and the enforcement remedy provided by a 31 Uniform Interstate Child Visitation Act be combined into one new act to be entitled the 32 Uniform Child Custody Jurisdiction and Enforcement Act.

1 [ARTICLE] 1
2 GENERAL PROVISIONS
3

4 SECTION 101. DEFINITIONS. In this [Act]:

5 (1) "Child" means an individual who has not attained the age of 18 years.

6 (2) "Child-custody determination" means a judgment, decree, or other order of a
7 tribunal providing for the custody of or visitation with a child. The term includes 8 permanent, temporary, initial, and modification orders, but not a decision relating to 9 child support or any other monetary obligation of an individual.

10 (3) "Child-custody proceeding" means a proceeding in which a custody
11 determination is an issue. The term includes a proceeding involving [adoption], divorce, 12 separation, neglect, abuse, dependency, guardianship, paternity, termination of 13 parental rights, or protection from domestic abuse, but not a proceeding involving 14 juvenile delinquency or the conferring of contractual rights.

15 (4) "Commencement" of the proceedings means the filing of the first pleading in 16 the proceeding.

17 (5) "Contestant" means a person, including a parent, who claims a right to 18 custody of or a right of visitation with a child under the law of a State.

19 (6) "Home state" means the State in which a child lived with parents, a parent, or 20 a person acting as parent for at least six consecutive months immediately prior to the 21 commencement of the proceeding, and in the case of a child less than six months old,
22 the State in which the child lived from birth with any of the persons mentioned. A period
23 of temporary absence of any of the named persons is counted as part of the period.

24 (7) "Initial determination" means the first child-custody determination concerning 25 a particular child.

26 (8) "Issuing State" means the State in which a child-custody determination is 27 made.

1 (9) "Issuing tribunal" means the tribunal that makes a child-custody
2 determination for which enforcement is sought under this [Act].

3 (10) "Modification" means a child-custody determination that changes, replaces,
4 supersedes, or is otherwise made after a previous determination concerning the same
5 child, whether or not made by the tribunal that made the previous determination.

6 (11) "Person acting as parent" means a person other than a parent, including a 7 state or private agency, who:

8 (i) has physical custody of a child or has had physical custody for a period
9 of six consecutive months, including any temporary absence, within one year
10 immediately preceding the commencement of the custody proceeding; and

11 (ii) has been awarded custody by a tribunal or claims a right to custody
12 under State law.

13 (12) "Physical custody" means the physical care and supervision of a child.

14 (13) "State" means a State of the United States, the District of Columbia, the 15 Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, or any territory or insular possession subject to the 16 jurisdiction of the United States. The term includes any Indian tribe as defined in the 17 Indian Child Welfare Act, 25 U.S.C. §1901 et.seq.

18 (14) "Tribunal" means a court, agency, or other entity authorized to establish,
19 enforce, or modify a child-custody determination.

20 (15) "Tribunal of this State" means the [court, administrative agency, quasi-
21 judicial entity, or combination].

22 (16) "Warrant" means an order issued by a tribunal authorizing law enforcement 23 officers to detain a child.

24 Comment

25 The UCCJA did not contain a definition of "child." The definition here is taken 26 from the PKPA and is part of the process of conforming the UCCJA to the PKPA. The 27

1 drafting committee abandoned an attempt to define a child functionally as one who was
2 subject of a custody proceeding. Such a definition resulted in potentially including adult
3 guardianships in the Act which the drafting committee did not consider desirable.
4

5 The drafting committee decided to use the word "person" instead of "individual"
6 in the definition of contestant. This was to facilitate UCCJA coverage of cases where 7 the legal custody of a child is given to a state agency in, for example, a child neglect
8 proceeding. The use of the term "Individual" might raise doubts about the applicability
9 of the Act in cases in Juvenile Court involving child abuse and neglect. The PKPA's
10 definition of "contestant" utilizes the term "person." The phrase "under the law of a 11 State" has been added to the definition of "contestant" to emphasize that this Act does 12 not confer any substantive custody rights. Only those persons authorized to seek 13 custody or visitation under State law may be considered a contestant. The term 14 "contestant" as defined in the PKPA does not include this phrase. It's inclusion in the 15 Act does not create a conflict with the PKPA. The federal statute cannot give any state 16 law substantive rights.
17

18 The definition of "custody determination" now closely tracks the PKPA definition.
19

20 The definition of "custody proceeding" has been rewritten. The Drafting 21 Committee decided to retain the phrase "is one of several issues," as it appeared in the 22 UCCJA. The Committee on Style has substituted "is an issue." The list of custody
23 proceedings has expanded from the comparable definition in the UCCJA. The listed 24 proceedings have generally been adjudicated to be the type of proceeding to which the 25 UCCJA and PKPA are applicable. There are however some contrary holdings. See 26 e.g., Interest of L.G., 890 P.2d 647 (Colo. 1995) (juvenile neglect proceedings are not 27 "custody proceedings" under the PKPA). The list of examples removes any controversy
28 about the types of proceedings where a custody determination can occur. Proceedings 29 that affect access to the child are subject to this Act. The inclusion of protection for 30 domestic violence proceedings is necessary after the passage of the Violence Against 31 Womens Act, 18 U.S.C. §2265 (Full Faith and Credit for Protective Orders). Adoption
32 proceedings have been bracketed. If a state adopts the jurisdictional provisions of the 33 Uniform Adoption Act, that Act would govern adoption proceedings. Juvenile 34 delinquency or proceeding to confer contractual rights are not "custody proceedings"
35 because they do not relate to civil aspects of access to a child. While a determination
36 of paternity is covered under the Uniform Interstate Family Support Act, the custody
37 and visitation aspects of paternity cases are custody proceedings. Hague Convention 38 proceedings have not been included at this point because custody of the child is not 39 determined in a proceeding under the International Child Abductions Remedies Act.
40 Those proceedings are specially included in Article 3.
41

42 Subsection (5) of the original UCCJA defining "decree" and "custody decree" has 43 been eliminated as duplicative of the definition of "custody determination."
44

45 The term "issuing state" is borrowed from UIFSA. In UIFSA it refers to the 46 tribunal that issued the support or parentage order. Here, it refers to the state, or the 47 tribunal, which decided the custody determination that is sought to be enforced. It is 48 used primarily in Article 2.
49

50 The term "person acting as parent" has been redefined in accordance with the

1 decision Drafting Committee. The term has been broadened from the original definition
2 to include a person who has acted as a parent for a significant period of time prior to 3 the filing of the custody proceeding as well as a person who currently has physical 4 custody of the child.

5
6 Indian tribes have been added to the definition of "State" to include custody
7 determinations made in proceedings which occur under tribal jurisdiction. Indian tribe is 8 defined as in the Indian Child Welfare Act, 25 U.S.C. §1901 et.seq.

9 [Note: The original Section 1 of the UCCJA on the Purposes of the Act has been 10 eliminated. Uniform Acts no longer contain such a section.]

1 SECTION 103. INTERNATIONAL APPLICATION OF [ACT]. The provisions
2 of this [Act] are applicable to child-custody proceedings and determinations of other 3 nations involving similar legal concepts rendered by appropriate authorities if there is 4 reasonable notice and opportunity to be heard. A tribunal of this state may refuse to 5 apply this [Act] when the legal system of the other nation ignores basic principles
6 relating to the protection of human rights and fundamental freedoms.

7

8

Comment

9

10 In accordance with the decision of the Drafting Committee, the Act will have 11 international application. However, the tribunal need not apply the provisions of this act
12 when to do so would violate fundamental principles of humans rights. The same
13 concept is found in Section 20 of the Hague Convention on the Civil Aspects of Child
14 Abduction (return of the child may be refused if this would not be permitted by the 15 fundamental principles of the requested State relating to the protection of human rights 16 and fundamental freedoms).

16

17

This section is derived from Section 23 of the original UCCJA.

18

1 use of local law to determine when an order can be issued without notice in the case of 2 irreparable harm.
3

1 SECTION 109. HEARINGS, STUDIES AND DOCUMENTS IN ANOTHER
2 STATE.

3
4 (a) A tribunal of this State may request the appropriate tribunal of another State 5 to

6 (1) hold an evidentiary hearing;

7 (2) order a party to produce or give evidence under procedures of that
8 State;

9 (3) have an evaluation made with respect to the custody of a child
10 involved in proceedings pending in the tribunal of this State; and

11 (4) forward to the tribunal of this State certified copies of the transcript of 12 the record of the hearing, the evidence otherwise presented, or any evaluation prepared 13 in compliance with the request. The cost of the services may be assessed against the 14 parties or, if necessary, ordered paid by the [County, State].

15 (b) A tribunal of this State may request the appropriate tribunal of another State
16 to order a party to a child-custody proceeding pending in the tribunal of this State to 17 appear in the proceeding, and if that party has physical custody of the child, to appear 18 with the child. The request may state that travel and other necessary expenses of the 19 party and of the child whose appearance is desired will be assessed against another 20 party or will otherwise be paid.

21 (c) If a child-custody determination has been rendered in another State
22 concerning a child involved in a custody proceeding in a tribunal of this State, the 23 tribunal of this State upon taking jurisdiction of the case may request of the tribunal of 24 the other State a certified copy of the transcript of any record and other documents
25 described in this Section.

26 (d) In a child-custody proceeding in this State the tribunal shall preserve the 27 pleadings, orders, decrees, any record made of its hearings, custody evaluations, and

1 other pertinent documents until the child attains the age of 18 years. [The tribunal shall
2 forward all required documents to a Federal Child Custody Registry if it is established.]
3 Upon appropriate request of a tribunal or law enforcement officials of another State, the 4 tribunal shall forward certified copies of those documents.

5

6 Comment

7 No major changes have been made to paragraphs (a) and b) which was Section
8 19 in the original Act. The term "social study" was replaced with the modern term:
9 "custody evaluation." Any other language changes were required by the Committee on 10 Style.

11

12 Paragraph (c) was Section 22 of the original Act. Paragraph (d) was Section 21
13 of the original Act. The Drafting Committee decided to merge these sections into one.
14 No substantive changes were made. Language has been added to ensure that the 15 appropriate documents will be sent to a Federal Child Custody Registry, if established
16 as well as to law enforcement in another state. Any language changes were required
17 by the Committee on Style.

1 [ARTICLE] 2
2 JURISDICTION
3

4 SECTION 201. INITIAL CHILD-CUSTODY DETERMINATION.

5 (a) Subject to Section 204, a tribunal of this State which is competent to 6 determine child custody has jurisdiction to make an initial child-custody determination 7 only if:

8 (1) this State is the home State of the child on the date of the 9 commencement of the proceeding or was the home State of the child within six months
10 before the date of the commencement of the proceeding and the child is absent from 11 this State but a parent or person acting as parent continues to live in this State;

12 (2) a tribunal of another State does not have jurisdiction under paragraph 13 (1) or a tribunal of the home State of the child has declined to exercise jurisdiction on 14 the ground that this State is the more appropriate forum under Section 206, and

15 (i) the child and the child's parents, or the child and at least one
16 contestant, have a significant connection with this State, other than mere physical 17 presence, and

18 (ii) there is available in this State substantial evidence concerning 19 the child's care, protection, training, and personal relationships; or

20 (3) a tribunal of another State would not have jurisdiction under 21 paragraph (1) or (2), or all tribunals having jurisdiction under paragraphs (1) or (2) have 22 declined to exercise jurisdiction on the ground that a tribunal of this State is the more 23 appropriate forum to determine the custody of the child under Section 206.

24 (b) Physical presence of the child in this State, or of the child and one of the 25 contestants, is not alone sufficient to confer jurisdiction on a tribunal of this State to 26 make a child-custody determination.

27 (c) Physical presence of the child, while desirable, is not a prerequisite for

1 jurisdiction to make a child-custody determination.

2 (d) Personal jurisdiction over a party is neither a prerequisite nor is it sufficient for
3 jurisdiction to make a child-custody determination.

4 (e) Subject to Section 204, a tribunal of this State may not exercise its jurisdiction
5 under this Section if at the time of the commencement of the proceeding a proceeding
6 concerning the custody of the child had been commenced in a tribunal of another State
7 having jurisdiction substantially in conformity with this [Act], unless the proceeding is 8 stayed by the tribunal of the other State because a tribunal of this State is a more
9 convenient forum under the factors of Section 206.

10 (f) Before hearing a child-custody proceeding, a tribunal of this State shall 11 examine the pleadings and other information supplied by the parties pursuant to 12 Section 208. If the tribunal determines that a child-custody proceeding was 13 commenced in a tribunal in another State having jurisdiction substantially in accordance 14 with this [Act], the tribunal of this State shall stay its own proceeding and communicate
15 with the tribunal of the other State. If the tribunal of the State having jurisdiction
16 substantially in accordance with this [Act] does not determine that the tribunal of this 17 State is a more appropriate forum, the tribunal of this State shall dismiss the 18 proceeding.

19
20 Comment

21 The basic UCCJA jurisdiction section has been modified in several ways. It now 22 applies only to the initial custody determination. Modifications are governed by the 23 sections on continuing jurisdiction and modification jurisdiction.
24

25 The extended home state provision has been modified, in accordance with the 26 decision of the drafting committee, to apply whenever the child has left the state and a
27 parent or person acting as a parent remains. It is no longer necessary to determine
28 why the child has been removed. The only inquiry relates to the status of the person
29 left behind. This change provides a slightly different home state standard than the 30 PKPA. The PKPA requires a determination that the child has been removed by a

1 contestant or for other reasons. The scope of the PKPA provision is theoretically
2 narrower than this version of the UCCJA. However, the phrase "or for other reasons"
3 seems to cover most fact situations where the child is not in the home state and 4 therefore the differences are more apparent than real. In another sense this version is 5 narrower than the PKPA. The PKPA's definition of extended home state is more 6 expansive than this section because it applies whenever a "contestant" remains in the 7 home state. In accordance with the decision of the drafting committee, this version of 8 the UCCJA retains the narrower classification of "parent or person acting as parent."
9

10 Significant connection jurisdiction is amended in three ways. First, it eliminates 11 the "best interest" language. This phrase tended to create confusion between the 12 jurisdictional issue and the substantive custody determination. Since the language was 13 not necessary for the jurisdictional determination, it has been removed. The section 14 also prioritizes home state jurisdiction in the same manner as the PKPA. This 15 prioritization is necessary to conform the UCCJA to the PKPA.
16

17 Second, a significant connection state may assume jurisdiction when the home
18 state decides that significant connection state would be the most appropriate forum
19 under the section on forum non conveniens. Third, the determination of significant 20 connections has been changed to eliminate the language of "present or future care."
21 The jurisdictional determination should be made by determining whether there is 22 sufficient evidence in the state for the court to make an informed custody determination.
23 That evidence might relate to the past as well as "present or future."
24

25 Emergency jurisdiction has been moved to a separate section. This is to make it
26 clear that the power to protect a child in crisis does not give the power to enter a 27 permanent order for that child.
28

29 Paragraph (a)(3) retains the concept of jurisdiction by necessity or referral as 30 found in the original Act and in the PKPA. However, language has been added to 31 indicate that a third State only has jurisdiction when both the Home State and the 32 Significant Connection State have determined that the third State would be a more
33 appropriate forum. The third state does not have jurisdiction to decide the custody
34 determination upon referral from a Home State if there is a State that could exercise
35 Significant Connection Jurisdiction.
36

37 Subsection (d) has been added for clarification. Personal jurisdiction over one or 38 both parents, or one of the contestants, is neither necessary nor sufficient to have 39 jurisdiction to decide a child custody determination. This Act, like the UCCJA and the 40 PKPA is based on Justice Frankfurter's concurrence in May v. Anderson, 345 U.S. 528
41 (1953). As pointed out by Professor Bodenheimer, the reporter for the UCCJA, no
42 "workable interstate custody law could be built around [Justice] Burton's plurality
43 opinion.... Bridgette Bodenheimer, The Uniform Child Custody Jurisdiction Act: A
44 Legislative Remedy for Children Caught in the Conflict of Laws, 22 Vand.L.Rev.
45 1207,1233 (1969).
46

47 Other language changes between the UCCJA and this draft are required by the 48 Committee on Style.
49

50 Subsections (e) and (f) represent the remnants of the simultaneous proceedings

1 provision of the original UCCJA. The Drafting Committee has determined that they
2 should be placed with the original jurisdiction section. The problem of simultaneous
3 proceedings is no longer a significant issue. Many of the problems have been resolved
4 by the prioritization of home state jurisdiction under this Section and the exclusive
5 continuing jurisdiction provisions of Section 202. If there is a home state there can be 6 no significant connection jurisdiction and therefore no simultaneous proceedings. If 7 there is an State of exclusive continuing jurisdiction, there cannot be another state with 8 concurrent jurisdiction and therefore no simultaneous proceedings. Of course, the 9 home state, as well as the State with exclusive continuing jurisdiction, could defer to 10 another State under Section 206. However, that decision is left entirely to the home
11 state or the exclusive continuing jurisdiction State.
12

13 Under this Act the simultaneous proceedings problem will only arise when there
14 is no home state and more than one significant connection state. For those cases 15 Subsection (e) retains the "first in time" rule of the UCCJA. This section also retains the 16 policy favoring judicial communication of the UCCJA. Subsection (f) requires a 17 communication between tribunals when it is determined that a proceeding has been 18 commenced in another State.
19

20 Problems of simultaneous proceedings between a tribunal with a modification
21 proceeding and a tribunal with an enforcement proceeding are discussed in Section 22 202 and 304.
23

24 The term "pending" has been replaced. It has caused considerable confusion in 25 the case law. It has been replaced with the term "commencement of the proceeding"
26 as more accurately reflecting the policy behind this section.
27

1 decide that all parties have left the State which made the custody determination.
2

3 The "no longer continue to reside" was substituted for the phrase "remains the 4 residence of," by the Committee on Style. The latter phrase is used by the PKPA. No
5 substantive change is intended by the language change.
6

7 In accordance with the majority of UCCJA case law, the state with exclusive 8 continuing exclusive jurisdiction may relinquish jurisdiction when it determines that 9 another state would be a more convenient forum under the principles of section 206.
10

11 The continuing jurisdiction provisions of this section are narrower than the 12 comparable provisions of the PKPA. That statute authorizes continuing jurisdiction so 13 long as any "contestant" remains in the original decree state and that state continues to 14 have jurisdiction under its own law. Under this provision, the remaining person must be 15 the child, a parent or a person acting as a parent. This is a narrower group of 16 individuals than "contestants." This does not present a conflict with the PKPA. The 17 PKPA's reference in §1738(c)(1) authorizes states to narrow the class of cases that 18 would be subject to exclusive continuing jurisdiction.
19

1 In accordance with the decision of the Drafting Committee this section has been
2 moved to follow the section on continuing jurisdiction. It prohibits a court from modifying
3 a custody determination made consistently with this Act by another State unless the 4 tribunal of that state determines that it no longer has jurisdiction under section 202 or 5 that this State would be a more convenient forum under Section 206. The modification
6 State is normally not authorized to determine that the original decree State has lost its 7 jurisdiction. The only exception is when all parties have moved away from the original
8 State. The tribunal of the modification State must have jurisdiction under Section 201.
9

10 Subsection (b) concerns the problem of simultaneous proceedings in the state
11 with modification jurisdiction and enforcement proceedings under Article 3. This section 12 authorizes the court with exclusive continuing jurisdiction to stay the modification
13 proceeding pending the outcome of the enforcement proceeding, to enjoin the parties
14 from continuing with the enforcement proceeding, or to continue the modification
15 proceeding under such conditions as it determines are appropriate. The tribunal may 16 wish to communicate with the enforcement tribunal. However, communication is not 17 mandatory. Since it is the court with jurisdiction, its decision is determinative.

18

1 duties of states to recognize, enforce and not modify a custody determination of 2 another state do not take precedence over the need to enter an emergency order to 3 protect the child. Third, custody determinations made under the emergency jurisdiction
4 provisions must be temporary. Therefore this section provides that orders issued under 5 this section must include a direction to the parties to file a petition in the state with 6 jurisdiction under section 201 or 202. The order stays in effect until that occurs but, in 7 no event, for more than 90 days. The order must state on its face that it is of limited 8 duration.
9

10 It may be necessary for a tribunal to issue an emergency custody determination
11 without notice and hearing in order to prevent irreparable harm to the child. The 12 drafting committee decided not address that issue in the context of this Act. Rather the 13 determination of when irreparable harm exists, the notice required, and the length of 14 time between the ex parte order and a hearing will be determined by individual state
15 law. That is provided for by the introductory phrase in Section 205 which indicates that 16 the notice and hearing rules provided by this Act are subjected to State requirements
17 for dispensing with notice in cases involving irreparable harm.
18

1 SECTION 206. INCONVENIENT FORUM.

2 (a) A tribunal of this State that has jurisdiction under this [Act] to make an initial 3 child-custody determination or a modification may decline to exercise its jurisdiction at 4 any time before making a determination if it finds that it is an inconvenient forum under 5 the circumstances of the case and that a tribunal of another State is a more appropriate
6 forum.

7 (b) The issue of inconvenient forum may raised upon the tribunal's own motion or 8 upon motion of a party or a guardian ad litem or other representative of the child.

9 (c) Before making a finding determining whether it is an inconvenient forum, the 10 tribunal of this State shall consider whether it is appropriate that another State assume 11 jurisdiction. For this purpose, the tribunal shall conduct a hearing, if requested by a 12 party, and shall take into account all relevant factors, including:

13 (1) the length of time the child has resided in another State or States;

14 (2) the distance between this State and the State which would assume 15 jurisdiction;

16 (3) the relative financial circumstances of the parties;

17 (4) the agreement, if any, of the parties on which State should assume 18 jurisdiction;

19 (5) the nature and location of the evidence required to resolve the pending
20 litigation including the testimony of the child;

21 (6) the ability of the tribunal of each State to decide the issue
22 expeditiously, and the procedures necessary to present the evidence;

23 (7) the familiarity of the tribunal with the facts and issues of the pending 24 litigation; and

25 (8) the health and safety of the parties.

1 (d) Before determining whether to decline or retain jurisdiction, the tribunal of 2 this State may communicate, in accordance with Section 107, with a tribunal of another
3 State and exchange information pertinent to the assumption of jurisdiction by either 4 tribunal.

5 (e) If the tribunal of this State finds that it is an inconvenient forum and that a
6 tribunal of another State is a more appropriate forum, it shall stay the proceedings
7 upon condition that a child-custody proceeding be promptly commenced in another
8 named State or upon any other conditions the tribunal considers just and proper,
9 including the condition that a moving party stipulate to the jurisdiction of the other
10 forum.

11 (f) The tribunal of this State may decline to exercise its jurisdiction under this 12 [Act] if a child-custody determination is incidental to an action for divorce or another
13 proceeding while retaining jurisdiction over the divorce or other proceeding.
14

15 Comment

16 This section generally retains the focus of the original section. It authorizes
17 tribunals to decide that another State could do a better job of making the custody
18 determination. If so the tribunal may defer to the other State. The list of factors that the 19 court may consider has been updated from the original UCCJA. The list is not meant 20 to be exclusive. For example, although it is not specifically listed the fact that the 21 person remaining in the State which made the original custody determination has 22 moved to another part of the State would be relevant in the context of the distance 23 between the parties and the familiarity of the tribunal with the facts and issues of the 24 case. Similarly in considering the ability of the two States to arrive and a expeditious 25 resolution of the controversy, the tribunal could consider the different procedural and 26 evidentiary laws of the two States, as well as the flexibility of the tribunal dockets.
27

28 There are two departures from Section 7 of the UCCJA. First, the tribunal may 29 not simply dismiss the action. To do so would leave the case in limbo. Rather the 30 tribunal shall stay the case and direct the parties to file in the State that has been found 31 the be the more convenient forum.
32

33 Second, subsection (g) of the UCCJA which allowed the court to assess fees
34 and costs if it was a clearly inappropriate tribunal, has been eliminated. The Drafting 35 Committee determined that if a tribunal had jurisdiction under this Act it could not be a 36 clearly inappropriate tribunal.

4 The attorney fee standard for this Section is patterned after the International

5 Child Abduction Remedies Act, 42 U.S.C. §11607(b)(3). While not required by federal

6 statute, it does make the attorney's fee standards uniform between state and federal

1 SECTION 208. INFORMATION TO BE SUBMITTED TO TRIBUNAL

2 (a) In a child-custody proceeding, each party, in its first pleading, or in an
3 affidavit attached thereto, shall give information under oath as to the child's present
4 address, the places where the child has lived within the last five years, and the names
5 and present addresses of the persons with whom the child has lived during that period.
6 The pleading or affidavit must state whether the party:

7 (1) has participated, as a party, witness, or in any other capacity, in any 8 other litigation concerning the custody or visitation of the same child;

9 (2) has information of any child-custody proceeding concerning the child
10 in a tribunal of this or any other State; and

11 (3) knows of any person not a party to the proceedings who has physical 12 custody of the child or claims to have a custodial right or a right of visitation with the 13 child.

14 (b) If the information required in subsection (a) is not provided, the tribunal, upon 15 its own motion or that of a party, may stay the proceeding until the information is 16 provided.

17 (c) If the declaration as to any of the items in subsection (a) is in the affirmative, 18 the declarant shall give additional information under oath required by the tribunal. The 19 tribunal may examine the parties under oath as to details of the information furnished
20 and other matters pertinent to the tribunal's jurisdiction and the disposition of the case.

21 (d) Each party has a continuing duty to inform the tribunal of any child-custody
22 proceeding concerning the child in this or any other State of which the party obtained 23 information during this proceeding.

24 (e) Upon a finding, which may be made ex parte, that the health, safety, or liberty 25 of a party or a child would be unreasonably put at risk by the disclosure of identifying

1 information, or if an existing order so provides, a tribunal of this State shall order that
2 the address of the child or party or other identifying information not be disclosed in a
3 pleading or other document filed in a proceeding under this [Act]. The information must 4 be provided to the tribunal.

The pleading requirements from the Section 9 of UCCJA are carried over into 8 this revision. Subsection (b) has been added. It authorizes the tribunal to stay the 9 proceeding until the information required in Subsection (a) has been disclosed.

10

Subsection (d) has been added to protect the address of victims of domestic 12 violence or child abuse. The source for the section is UIFSA §312.

1 [ARTICLE] 3
3

4 SECTION 301. DUTY TO ENFORCE.

5 (a) A tribunal of this State shall recognize and enforce a child-custody
6 determination of a tribunal of another State if the latter tribunal exercised jurisdiction
7 that was in substantial conformity with this [Act] or the determination was made under 8 factual circumstances meeting the jurisdictional standards of this [Act] and the 9 determination has not been modified in accordance with this [Act]. The determination 10 may be enforced in the same manner as a child-custody determination of a tribunal of 11 this State.

12 (b) This [article] applies to proceedings to enforce orders made under the Hague
13 Convention on the Civil Aspects of International Child Abduction and the International 14 Child Abductions Remedies Act, 42 U.S.C. §§11601 et seq.

15 (c) In this [article] "respondent" means the person against whom an enforcement 16 proceeding has been commenced.

17 (d) This [article] does not confer jurisdiction upon a tribunal of this State to 18 modify a child-custody determination issued by a tribunal of another State. A tribunal
19 of this State may, however, issue a temporary order enforcing a visitation schedule that 20 implements the original schedule. A temporary order issued under this subsection shall 21 remain in effect for the period of time necessary to for the person seeking the order to 22 obtain an order from the State having jurisdiction under [Article 2], but not longer than 23 90 days. The limited duration must be stated in the order.

24
25 Comment

26 This article supplies the enforcement mechanism for the interstate child custody
27 cases. It reflects some of the decisions made at the last drafting committee meeting to 28 shorten the time periods and to provide a summary remedial process modeled after

1 habeas corpus. Subsection (a) is the transformation of Section 13 of the original
2 UCCJA which contained the basic duty to enforce. The language of the original section
3 was retained to ensure that the duty to enforce has not been lessened in this Act.
4 Enforcement of custody determinations of issuing states is also required by federal law
5 in the PKPA, 28 U.S.C. §1738A(a). The changes made in Article 2 of this Act now make 6 the enforcement section of this Act consistent with the enforcement provisions of the 7 PKPA.
8

9 Subsection (a) also incorporates language from Section 15 of the UCCJA to the 10 effect that a custody determination of another state will be enforced in the same
11 manner as a custody determination made by a tribunal of this State. Whatever 12 remedies are available to enforce a local determination can be utilized to enforce a 13 custody determination of another State. This article provides an additional remedy.
14 However it does not authorize the tribunal to take actions that are not authorized by this 15 article or by other local law. Thus a tribunal could not require a respondent to pay a 16 punitive damage award to the petitioner, even if petitioner asked for that remedy, unless 17 such an award were otherwise available.
18

19 Subsection (b) applies the enforcement remedy provided by this Act to orders
20 requiring the return of a child issued under the authority of the International Child
21 Abduction Remedies Act, 42 U.S.C. §11601 et seq. implementing the Hague
22 Convention on the Civil Aspects of International Child Abduction. A specific section
23 was thought necessary because even though an ICARA proceeding often occurs prior 24 to any formal custody determination, the need for a speedy enforcement remedy is just 25 as necessary.
26

27 For purposes of this article, respondent is defined as the person against whom a 28 custody proceeding is filed. The definition has been added here to clarify certain 29 aspects of the notice and hearing sections.
30

31 Subsection (d) makes it clear that the procedure for enforcement of a custody
32 determination does not authorize a modification of that custody determination. Whether 33 such a provision is necessary in light of the provisions on continuing jurisdiction and 34 modification jurisdiction is questionable. However, it has been included here to 35 emphasize that whether a tribunal may modify a custody determination is governed by 36 those sections and the PKPA, 28 U.S.C. §1738A(f). The final sentences
37 authorize a court to issue a temporary order if it is necessary to enforce visitation rights
38 without violating the rules on non-modification. Such an order could include make-up
39 visitation or substitution a specific visitation schedule for "reasonable and seasonable."
40 However requests for a permanent change in the visitation schedule must be 41 addressed to the tribunal with exclusive continuing jurisdiction. The order remains in 42 effect only long enough for the petitioner to obtain an appropriate order from the State
43 having jurisdiction under Article 2, but, in no event, for more than 90 days. This 44 provision is the counter-part of emergency jurisdiction for visitation enforcement.
45

1 SECTION 305. PETITION.

2 (a) A petition under this [article] must be verified and certified copies of all orders
3 sought to be enforced must be attached to the petition.

4 (b) A petition for enforcement of a child-custody determination must state:

5 (1) whether the tribunal that issued the determination identified the 6 jurisdictional basis it relied upon in exercising jurisdiction, and, if so, what it was;

7 (2) whether the determination for which enforcement is sought has been 8 stayed, vacated, or modified by a tribunal whose decision must be enforced under 9 [Article 2] or the Parental Kidnaping Prevention Act, 28 U.S.C., Section 1738A;

10 (3) whether any proceeding is pending that could affect the current 11 proceeding, including proceedings relating to domestic violence and protective orders;

12 (4) subject to Section 208(d), the present address of the child and the 13 respondent, if known; and

14 (5) whether relief in addition to the delivery of the child is sought.

15 (c) The petitioner shall attach to the petition an order to show cause. The order 16 must direct the respondent to appear with the child at a hearing at a specific time within 17 twenty-four hours after the petition is filed and inform the respondent that the tribunal 18 will order the delivery of the child and set a hearing to determine whether further relief is 19 necessary, unless the respondent can demonstrate that:

20 (1) the issuing tribunal did not have jurisdiction under [Article 2];

21 (2) the child-custody determination for which enforcement is sought has 22 been vacated, stayed, or modified by a State having jurisdiction to do so under [Article 23 2];

24 (3) the respondent was entitled to, but did not receive, notice and 25 opportunity to be heard in the proceedings before the tribunal that issued the order for

1 which enforcement is sought.

2 (d) The tribunal may extend or shorten the time requirements of this Section
3 upon a showing of good cause.

8

9

10

12

The petition is intended to provide the tribunal with as much information as possible. Attaching certified copies of all orders sought to be enforced allows the tribunal to have the necessary information. The drafting committee eliminated the registry on the ground that most states had not implemented it. Therefore the only method by which the tribunal will have the orders is to require the parties to produce them.

13

15

16

17

The remainder of the information required relates to the permissible scope of the tribunal's inquiry. The petitioner has the responsibility to inform the court of all proceedings that would affect the current enforcement action. Specific mention is made of domestic violence and orders of protection to ensure that they are disclosed.

18

20

21

22

23

25

The final section relates to the order to show cause and its contents. The order requires the respondent to appear within 24 hours. It also informs the respondent that there will be a hearing at that time. At the hearing the tribunal will order the child to be delivered to the petitioner unless the respondent is prepared to assert that the issuing state lacked jurisdiction, the respondent did not receive notice, or that the order sought to be enforced has been vacated, modified, or stayed by a tribunal with jurisdiction to do so.

26

27

The tribunal may extend or contract the time for hearing.

1 SECTION 306. SERVICE OF THE SHOW CAUSE ORDER. Subject to Section
2 308, the petitioner shall serve the show cause order upon respondent and any person
3 who has physical custody of the child by any method authorized [by the law of this
4 State.]

5

6

Comment

7

8

9

10

11

The petitioner has the responsibility to serve the show cause order. Rather than specifying how order should be served, this section leaves that issue to local law. The Drafting Committee made the same decision regarding notice in Article 2 with regard to the dispensing of notice in emergency cases.

1 state's decree was rendered in compliance with the PKPA. This [Act] requires
2 enforcement of custody determinations that are made in conformity with Article 2 on 3 jurisdiction.
4

5 The certified copy of the custody determination entitling the petitioner to the child
6 is prima facie evidence of the issuing tribunal's jurisdiction to enter the order. Upon a 7 showing of a violation of the order, the burden shifts to the respondent to show that the 8 custody determination is not entitled to enforcement.
9

10 It is a defense to enforcement that another jurisdiction has issued a custody
11 determination that is required to be enforced under Article 2 or the PKPA. An example
12 of when this could occur is when one tribunal has based its original custody
13 determination on the current UCCJA §3(a)(2)(significant connections) and another 14 jurisdiction has rendered an original custody determination based on the current 15 UCCJA §3(a)(1)(home state). When this occurs, the PKPA as well as Article 2 and 16 Section 301 of this Act mandate that the home state determination be given full faith
17 and credit in all other states, including the state that rendered the significant 18 connections determination.
19

20 Lack of opportunity to be heard by a person entitled to notice and hearing at the 21 original custody determination is a defense to enforcement of the custody
22 determination. The defense of lack of notice should not be available if the respondent 23 purposely hid from the petitioner, took deliberate steps to avoid service of process or 24 elected not to participate in the initial proceedings.
25

26 There are no other defenses to an enforcement action. The drafting committee 27 discussed whether there should be a defense if the child would be endangered by the 28 enforcement of a custody or visitation order. If the child would be endangered, there is 29 a basis for the assumption of emergency jurisdiction under Section 204 of this Act.
30 Upon the finding of an emergency, the tribunal should issue a temporary order and 31 direct the parties to proceed in the tribunal that is exercising continuing jurisdiction over 32 the custody proceeding Article 2.
33

34 The tribunal shall determine at the show cause hearing whether fees should be 35 awarded under Section 309. If so, it should order them paid. The tribunal may 36 determine if additional relief is appropriate. If so, it may set an additional hearing to 37 determine that issue.
38

39 The remainder of this section is derived from UIFSA §316 with regard to the 40 privilege of self-incrimination, spousal privileges and immunities.
41

1 petitioner has filed an enforcement proceeding. If the tribunal finds immediate harm
2 exists, it should temporarily waive the notice requirements and issue a warrant to take
3 physical custody of the child. After the warrant is executed, the respondent receives 4 notice of the proceedings.
5

6 The term "harm" cannot be totally defined and, like the issuance of temporary 7 restraining orders, is left to the circumstances of the case. It includes cases where the 8 respondent is the subject of a criminal proceeding. It also would include situations 9 where the respondent is secreting the child in violation of a court order, abusing the 10 child, a flight risk and other circumstances that the tribunal concludes makes the 11 issuance of notice a danger to the child. The tribunal must hear the testimony of the 12 petitioner or another witness prior to issuing the warrant. The tribunal must state the 13 reasons for the issuance of the warrant. The warrant can be enforced by law
14 enforcement officers throughout the jurisdiction. The warrant may authorize entry upon 15 private property to pick up the child or, if necessary, a forcible entry at any hour.
16

17 The warrant must provide for the placement of the child pending the 18 determination of the enforcement proceeding. Since the issuance of the warrant would 19 not occur absent a risk of immediate harm to the child, placement cannot be with the 20 respondent. Normally the child would be placed with the petitioner. However, if 21 placement with the petitioner is not indicated, the tribunal can order any other 22 appropriate placement authorized under the laws of the tribunal's state. Placement with 23 the petitioner may not be indicated if there is a likelihood that the petitioner also will flee
24 the jurisdiction. Placement with the petitioner may not be practical if the petitioner is 25 proceeding through an attorney and is not present before the tribunal.
26

27 This section authorizes the tribunal to utilize whatever means are available in the 28 tribunal's jurisdiction to ensure the appearance of the petitioner and child at the 29 enforcement hearing. Such means might include cash bonds, a surrender of a 30 passport or whatever the tribunal determines is necessary.
31

32 After the child is taken has been taken into physical custody the respondent shall 33 be served with notice of the show cause hearing. The show cause hearing will then be 34 held as in Section 307.

1 SECTION 310. RECOGNITION AND ENFORCEMENT. A tribunal of this State
2 shall accord full faith and credit to an order enforcing a child-custody determination
3 made consistently with this [Act] by a tribunal of another State unless the order has 4 been stayed, vacated, or modified by a tribunal authorized to do so under [Article 2].

8 The enforcement order to be effective must also be enforced by other states.
9 This section requires tribunals of this state to give full faith and credit to enforcement
10 orders issued by other states when made consistently with the provisions of this Act.

1 the custody determination except when requested by the tribunal, when there is a
2 violation the Hague Convention on the Civil Aspects of Child Abduction or when the 3 person holding the child has violated a criminal statute.. The Act does not mandate that 4 the prosecutor be involved in all cases referred to it. There is only so much time and 5 money available for enforcement proceeding. Therefore the prosecutor eventually will 6 have to develop guidelines to determine which cases will receive priority.
7

8 The prosecutor is authorized to locate the child and enforce the custody
9 determination. This Act does not attempt to suggest how the prosecutor should 10 exercise its duties under this Act. The prosecutor is authorized to utilize any criminal or 11 civil proceeding to secure the enforcement of the custody determination, including 12 proceedings under this Act. If the prosecutor proceeds pursuant to this Act, the 13 prosecutor is subject to its provisions.
14

15 The prosecutor does not represent any party to the custody determination. It acts 16 as a "friend of the court." It's role is to ensure that the custody determination is 17 enforced.
