REVISED MODEL STATE ADMINISTRATIVE PROCEDURES ACT

GENERAL INTRODUCTION

This proposed revision adopts a different approach to the concept of the model act. In order to make decisions for revision of state Administrative Procedure Acts for state legislatures clearer and more easily adaptable to the differing histories, constitutions and political structures in the various states, the Conference has adopted a two part approach to the revision of the General Introduction

The 1946 Model State Administrative Procedure Act. The first part is a set of "core" provisions. Some of these core provisions resemble the 1961

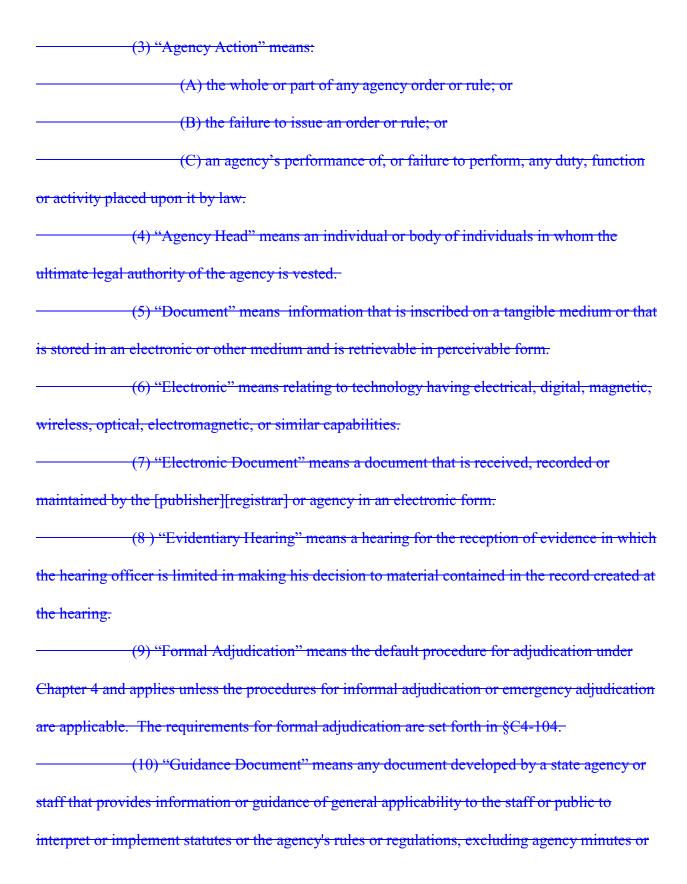

The Model State Administrative Procedure Act. They consist of a minimum core of administrative procedure provisions which can be adopted by a state just as they are drafted with minor revisions to fit local conditions. They are presented in a set of separate articles entitled "Core Articles"; each section of these core articles is designated with a "C" followed by the section number. The second part of the revision process is a set of "optional" provisions. These articles are designated "Optional Articles", and each section of the optional article is preceded by the letter "O" to signify that fact. These optional articles contain more procedural devices and details than the core articles. These optional provisions will be useful to states which desire a greater degree of detail, or which need to solve problems that are not covered in the core provisions. This approach is consistent with the concept of a "model" act. A model act is predicated upon the idea that, because of constitutional, historical and political differences, in some areas the law cannot become uniform in all of the states. Administrative procedure is one of the leading examples of this phenomenon. This core/optional approach is consistent with that view and represents an attempt to put it into practice in a manner that is of maximum benefit to the states.

MODEL STATE ADMINISTRATIVE PROCEDURES ACT CORE PROVISIONS

CORE ARTICLE I

GENERAL PROVISIONS

§ C1-101. SHORT TITLE. This act may be cited as the [state] Administrative Procedure Act.
§ C1-102. DEFINITIONS. In this act:
(1) "Adjudication" means the process for determination of facts pursuant to which	eh an agency formulates and issues an order. Chapter 4 of this Act does not apply to all adjudications but only to those adjudications defined in section C4-101. All adjudications to which Chapter 4 of this Act applies are subject to the requirements of the Adjudication Bill of Rights set forth §C4-102.
(2) "Agency"means each statewide board, authority, commission, institution, department, division, or officer, including the agency head, and one or more members of the agency head or agency employees or other persons directly or indirectly purporting to act on behalf of or under the authority of the agency head, or other statewide government entity that is authorized or required by law to make rules or to adjudicate.
The term does not include the Governor, the Legislature, or the Judiciary. The term does not include any political subdivision of the state or any of the administrative units, boards, authorities, commissions, or other entities of such political subdivision.

documents that pertain only to the internal management of agencies. Nothing in this definition shall be construed or interpreted to expand the identification or release of any document otherwise protected by law.
(11) "Index" means an alphabetical list of items by subject and title in a document with a page number, hyperlink or any other connector that will link the alphabetical list with the document to which it refers.
(12) "Informal Adjudication" means adjudication procedure in the nature of a conference rather than a trial, as provided in C4-111.
(13) "Law" means the whole or a part of the federal or state Constitution, or of any federal or state statute, case law or common law, rule of court, executive order, or rule or order of an administrative agency.
(14) "License" means the whole or part of any agency permit, certificate, approval, registration, charter or similar form of permission required by law.
(15) "Licensing" means a state agency process relating to the granting, denial, renewal, revocation, suspension, annulment, withdrawal, or amendment of a license.
(16) "Order" means an agency action of particular applicability that determines the legal rights, duties, privileges or immunities or other legal interests of one or more specific persons.
(17) "Party" means the agency taking action, the person against whom the action is directed, and any other person named as a party or permitted to intervene or to participate in the agency proceedings.
(18) "Person" means an individual, corporation, business trust, estate, trust, partnership, limited liability company, association, joint venture, governmental subdivision, instrumentality, or agency, public corporation, or any other legal or commercial entity.

(19) "Rule" means the whole or a part of an agency statement of general applicability that implements, interprets, or prescribes law or policy or the organization, procedure or practice requirements of an agency. The term includes amendment, repeal or suspension of an existing rule.
(20) "Rulemaking" means the process for adopting, amending, or repealing a rule.
(21) "Presiding officer" means the person who presides over the hearing in an adjudication to which Chapter 4 applies. The presiding officer can be an agency staff member,
[an administrative law judge as provided in §], or one or more members of the agency head.
(22)"Written" means inscribed on a tangible medium or stored in an electronic or other medium that is retrievable in perceivable form.
Comment
Adjudication. This definition combines includes formal adjudicative proceedings and informal adjudicative proceedings as defined in this Act. Both formal and informal proceedings must be exclusively on the record.
Agency. This definition is drawn in large part from the 1981 MSAPA and the Federal APA. The object is to subject as many state actors as possible to this definition. To that end, the language has been extended to include not only those statewide agencies that adjudicate or make rules, but also any agency with statewide jurisdiction created by the legislature. This will include state agencies that affect individuals in ways different from adjudication or rulemaking.
Agency Head. This definition differentiates between the agency as an organic whole and the particular persons (commissioners, board members or the like) in whom final authority is vested.
Document. A document consists of information stored on a medium, whether the medium be tangible or electronic, provided that the information is retrievable in a perceivable form. The traditional tangible medium has been paper on which information is inscribed by writing, typing, printing or similar means. It is perceivable by reading it directly from the paper on which it is inscribed. This definition also includes information or date stored in an electronic medium that is stored magnetically that may be retrieved and read on a computer monitor or a paper printout.

Electronic. The term "electronic" refers to the use of electrical, digital, magnetic, wireless, optical, electromagnetic and similar technologies. It is a descriptive term meant to include all technologies involving electronic processes. The listing of specific technologies is not intended to be a limiting one. The definition is intended to assure that this act will be applied broadly as new technologies develop. For example, biometric identification technologies would be included if they affect communication and storage of information by electronic means. As electronic technologies expand and include other competencies, those competencies should also be included under this definition. The definition of the term "electronic" in this act has the same meaning as it has in UETA § 2(5) and in the Uniform Real Property Electronic Recording Act.

Electronic Document. An "electronic document" is a "document" that is in an "electronic" form. Documents may be communicated in electronic form; they may be received in electronic form; they may be received in paper, hard copy, and converted into an electronic document. This Act does not limit the type of electronic documents received by the publisher. The purpose of defining and recognizing electronic documents is to facilitate and encourage agency use of electronic communication and maintenance of records.

Guidance Document. This definition is taken from the Virginia APA. See Va. Code Ann. § 2.2-4001. See also the Michigan APA, M.C.L.A. 24.203(6); Idaho I.C. § 67-5250 and N.Y. McKinneys State Administrative Procedure Act, § 102. This is a definition intended to recognize that there exist agency statements for the guidance of staff and the public that differ from, and that do not constitute, rules. Many states recognize such statements under the label "interpretive statement" or "policy statement." See Wash. Rev. Code, § 34.05.010(8) & (15). Later sections of this Act will provide for the publication and availability of this type of document so that they are not "secret" documents. See: Michael Asimow, Guidance Documents in the States, 54 Adm. L. Rev. 631 (2002); Michael Asimow, California Underground Regulations, 44 Adm. L. Rev. 43 (1992).

Index. The definition of index has been added as a guide to agencies, publishers and editors about their duties to make records available and easily accessible to the public in the form of an index, as that term is used throughout this act.

License. The definition of license is drawn largely from the 1961 MSAPA.

Order. This definition is drawn from the 1981 MSAPA. Unlike the federal APA which defines rule, but not order, this section provides a positive definition of order based on case law and agency experience. The key concept is that an order includes solely agency legal determinations that are addressed to particular, specific, identified individuals in particular circumstances. An order may be addressed to more than one person. Further, the definition is consistent with modern law in rejecting the right/privilege distinction in constitutional law. The addition of the language "or other interests" is intended to clarify this change and to include entitlements. See also Cal.Gov.Code § 11405.50.

Person. The definition of a "person" is the standard definition for that term used in acts adopted by (Act) of the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws has furnished guidance to the states since 1946, the date that the first version of the Act was promulgated and published. The Federal Administrative Procedure Act was passed in 1946, and the Conference approved its final draft of the 1946 Act shortly thereafter. The Federal Administrative Procedure Act exerted a substantial influence on the 1946 Act. 1

The 1946 Act incorporated basic principles with only enough elaboration of detail to support essential features² of an administrative procedure act. This is the major characteristic of a model, as distinguished from a uniform, act. The drafters explained that this model act approach was required since the details of administrative procedure must vary from state to state because of different general histories, different histories of legislative enactment and different state constitutions. Furthermore, the drafters explained, the Act could only articulate general principles because 1) agencies—even within a single state—perform widely diverse tasks, so that no single detailed procedure is adequate for all their needs; and 2) the legislatures of different states have taken dissimilar approaches to virtually identical problems.³ By about 1960, twelve states had adopted the 1946 Act.⁴

The 1961 Model State Administrative Procedure Act

After several studies conducted in the nineteen fifties, the Conference decided to revise the 1946 Act. The basis given for that decision was that a maturing of thought on administrative procedure had occurred since 1946. The drafters of the 1961 Act explained that their goals were fairness to the parties involved and creation of procedure that is effective from the standpoint of government.⁵ The resulting 1961 Act followed the model, not the uniform, act approach. It was drafted in a skeletal⁶ fashion, and expressly sought to articulate only major principles.⁷ Some of those major principles were: requiring agency rulemaking to adopt procedural rules; rulemaking procedure that provided for notice, public input and publication; judicial review of rules; guarantees of fundamental fairness in adjudications; and provision for judicial review of agency adjudication. Over one half of the states adopted the 1961 Act or large parts of it.⁸

⁴Those states, as identified in the preface to the 1961 Model State Administrative Procedure Act were: North Dakota, Wisconsin, North Carolina, Ohio, Virginia, California, Illinois, Pennsylvania, Missouri, Indiana.

The 1981 Model State Administrative Procedure Act

In the nineteen seventies, the Conference began work to revise the Act again. The preface to the 1981 Act explained that the approach of the drafters had changed from the 1946 and 1961 Acts. According to the drafters, the 1981 Act was entirely new, and contained more detail than earlier versions of the Act. The drafters explained that substantially more elaboration of detail was justifiable in light of changed circumstances and greater experience with administrative procedure since 1961. The 1981 Act, when completed, contained considerably greater detail than the 1961 Act. In the twenty-odd years since promulgation of the 1981 Act, Arizona, New

In addition, the drafters of this effort have produced an act that is more detailed than the earlier Model Act. There are several reasons for this. First, virtually all state administrative procedure acts are much more detailed than the 1961 Revised Model Act. Second, the states badly need and want guidance on this subject in more detail than the earlier act provided. Third, substantial experience under the acts of the several states suggests that much more detail than is provided in the earlier Model Act is in fact necessary and workable in light of current conditions of state government and society. Since this is a Model Act and not a Uniform Act, greater detail in this act should also be more acceptable because each state is only encouraged to adopt as much of the act as is helpful in its particular circumstances.

⁵ Preface to 1961 Model State Administrative Procedure Act.

⁶The term skeletal administrative procedure act is taken from an article that expounds the benefits of the Federal Administrative Procedure as a "skeletal" act that has survived as a useful procedural tool because of its focus on only major principles. See William D. Araiza, In Praise of a Skeletal administrative procedure act, 56 Admin. L. Rev. 979 (2004).

⁷ Preface, 1961 Model State Administrative Procedure Act.

⁸ Uniform Laws Annotated at 357 (1980 Master Edition) catalogued numerous states that used the 1961 Model State Administrative Procedure Act. They are: Arizona, Arkansas, Connecticut, District of Columbia, Florida, Georgia, Hawaii, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Louisiana, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Mississippi, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Mexico, New York, North Carolina, Oklahoma, Oregon, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Tennessee, Vermont, Washington, West Virginia, Wisconsin, and Wyoming.

⁹ Preface, 1981 Model State Administrative Procedure Act. The greater emphasis on detail in the 1981 Model State Administrative Procedure Act is apparent from the text of the preface:

For example, the 1961 Model State Administrative Procedure Act contained nineteen sections; the 1981 Model State Administrative Procedure Act contained more than eighty sections divided among five different articles.

Hampshire, and Washington have substantially adopted most of its provisions, and several other states have drawn some of their provisions from the Act. 11

The Present Revision

There are several reasons for revision of the 1981 Act. It has been more than twenty years since the Act was last revised. There now exists a substantial body of legislative action, judicial opinion and academic commentary that explain, interpret and critique the 1961 and 1981 Acts and the Federal Administrative Procedure Act. In the past two decades state legislatures, dissatisfied with agency rulemaking and adjudication, have enacted statutes that modify administrative adjudicative procedure in specific areas and that require additional specific procedures to be followed in agency rulemaking. There has been considerable scholarly examination of scope and standard of judicial review of agency action in the past twenty-five years, as well as extensive judicial examination at the state and federal level about the problems and difficulties of this area. Finally, the ABA has undertaken a major study of the Federal Administrative Procedure Act and is recommending revision. Since some sections of the various revisions of the Act are similar to the Federal Administrative Procedure Act, the ABA study furnishes useful comparisons for the Act.

The wide adoption of the "skeletal" 1946 and 1961 Administrative Procedure Acts has persuaded the Committee to draft in less detailed form. 12 The Committee's objectives are to produce a template consisting of basic principles that draw upon the widely-adopted and successful principles from the states and the best of current thinking on administrative procedure. The committee believes that this approach will preserve the best parts of the 1946, 1961 and 1981 Model State Administrative Procedure Acts and will be widely acceptable to state legislatures.

¹¹ Some of those states are: Florida, Iowa, Kansas, California, Mississippi and Montana.

¹² This draft cannot and will not attempt to replicate exactly the brevity of the 1961 Act: too many new problems that the present revision must address have emerged since that act was drafted. But this revision, where possible, will attempt primarily maintain a focus upon essential matters of administrative procedure with only sufficient detail to give effect to those essential features..

15 16 17 18		Adjudication. This definition gives the general meaning of adjudication that distinguishes it from rulemaking. This Act and the definitions in this Section also identify some categories of adjudication that require procedure specified in this Act to be used to reach a decision. For example, the term disputed case, defines a subset of adjudications that must be conducted as prescribed in Article IV of this Act.
20 21 22 23	 	Agency. This definition is drawn in large part from the 1981 MSAPA and the Federal APA. The object is to subject as many state actors as possible to this definition.
24 25 26 27	 	Agency Head. This definition differentiates between the agency as an organic whole and the particular persons (commissioners, board members or the like) in whom final authority is vested.
28 29 30	 	Agency Record. This set of definitions distinguishes between the record compiled by an agency in a proceeding governed by Article 4 of this Act [Subsection (A)]; adjudications for which another statute prescribes hearing procedure [Subsection (B)]; and adjudications not made on the record in an evidentiary hearing, and rulemaking. This definition of record is not binding on reviewing courts, and the provisions of this Act on scope of review recognize the power of reviewing courts to order augmentation of the record.

Record. Modern electronic-age statutes such as the Uniform Computer Information

Transactions Act and the Uniform Electronic Transactions Act, adopt a broad definition of the term record that includes the term document. This act follows those definitions.

Electronic. The term "electronic" refers to the use of electrical, digital, magnetic, wireless, optical, electromagnetic and similar technologies. It is a descriptive term meant to include all technologies involving electronic processes. The listing of specific technologies is not intended to be a limiting one. The definition is intended to assure that this act will be applied broadly as new technologies develop. For example, biometric identification technologies would be included if they affect communication and storage of information by electronic means. As electronic technologies expand and include other competencies, those competencies should also be included under this definition. The definition of the term "electronic" in this act has the same meaning as it has in UETA SECTION 2(5) and in the Uniform Real Property Electronic Recording Act.

Electronic Record. An "electronic record" is a document that is in an "electronic" form. Documents may be communicated in electronic form; they may be received in electronic form; they may be received and stored in electronic form; and they may be received in paper, hard copy, and converted into an electronic record. This Act does not limit the type of electronic documents received by the publisher. The purpose of defining and recognizing electronic documents is to facilitate and encourage agency use of electronic communication and maintenance of records.

Guidance Record. This definition is taken from the Virginia APA. See Va. Code Ann. SECTION 2.2-4001. See also the Michigan APA, M.C.L.A. 24.203(6); Idaho I.C. SECTION 67-5250 and N.Y. McKinneys State Administrative Procedure Act, SECTION 102. This is a definition intended to recognize that there exist agency statements for the guidance of staff and the public that differ from, and that do not constitute, rules. Many states recognize such statements under the label "interpretive statement" or "policy statement." See Wash. Rev. Code, SECTION 34.05.010(8) & (15). Later sections of this Act will provide for the publication and availability of this type of record so that they are not "secret" records. See: Michael Asimow, Guidance Documents in the States, 54 Adm. L. Rev. 631 (2002); Michael Asimow, California Underground Regulations, 44 Adm. L. Rev. 43 (1992).

Index. The definition of index has been added as a guide to agencies, publishers and editors about their duties to make records available and easily accessible to the public in the form of an index, as that term is used throughout this act.

License. The definition of license is drawn largely from the 1961 MSAPA.

Order. This definition is drawn from the 1981 MSAPA. Unlike the federal APA which defines rule, but not order, this section provides a positive definition of order based on case law and agency experience. The key concept is that an order includes solely agency legal determinations that are addressed to particular, specific, identified individuals in particular circumstances. An order may be addressed to more than one person. Further, the definition is consistent with modern law in rejecting the right/privilege distinction in constitutional law. The addition of the language "or other interests" is intended to clarify this change and to include entitlements. See also Cal.Gov.Code SECTION 11405.50.

Party. This definition includes the agency, any person against whom agency action is brought and any person who intervenes. Its terms also include any person who may participate in a rulemaking proceeding, such as someone who offers a comment. This section is not intended to deal with the issue of a person's entitlement to review. Standing and other issues relating to judicial review of agency action are addressed in Article 5 of this Act.

Person. The definition of a "person" is the standard definition for that term used in acts adopted by the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws. It includes individuals, associations of individuals, and corporate and governmental entities.

Rule. This is identical to the 1981 MSAPA definition, which was modeled on the 1961 MSAPA definition. The essential part of this definition is the requirement of general applicability of the statement. This criterion distinguishes a rule from an order, which focuses upon particular applicability to identified parties only. Applicability of a rule may be general, even though at the time of the adoption of the rule there is only one person or firm affected: persons or firms in the future who are in the same situation will also be bound by the standard established by such a rule. It is sometimes helpful to ask in borderline situations what the effect of the statement will be in the future. If unnamed parties in the same factual situation in the future will be bound by the statement, then it is a rule. The word "statement" has been used to make clear that, regardless of the term that an agency uses to describe a declaration or publication and whether it is internal or external to the agency, if the legal operation or effect of the agency action is the same as a substantive rule, then it meets this definition.

§ C1-103 SECTION 103. APPLICABILITY.

- (a) This [act] shall apply to all agencies unless expressly exempted.
- 35 (b) This act creates only procedural rights and imposes only procedural duties.
- They are in addition to those created and imposed by other statutes. To the extent that any other
- 37 statute would diminish a right created or duty imposed by this Act, the other statute is superseded
- by this Act, unless the other statute expressly provides otherwise.

1	I	(c) This act
2	I	(b) This [act] does not require a record or signature to be created, generated, sent,
3		communicated, received, stored, or otherwise processed or used by electronic means or in
4		electronic form.
5		Comment
6 7 8 9		This section is intended to define which agencies are subject to the procedural provisions of this act. It is largely patterned on the same provision in the 1981 MSAPA.
10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17		Many states have made use of an applicability provision to define the coverage of their Administrative Procedure Act. See: Iowa, I.C.A. §SECTION 17A.23; Kansas, K.S.A. §SECTION 77-503; Kentucky, KRS §SECTION 13B.020; Maryland, MD Code, State Government, §SECTION 10-203; Minnesota, M.S.A. §SECTION 14.03; Mississippi, Miss. Code Ann. §SECTION 25-43-1.103; Washington, West's RCWA 34.05.020. These states include ones using primarily the 61 Administrative Procedure Act and others using the 81 MSAPA.
8		Subsection (b) was taken from the 1981 MSAPA.
20 21 22 23 24 25 26		Subsection (eb) was taken from the Uniform Electronic Transactions Act (UETA). Although many agencies make extensive use of electronic records and this act recognizes and encourages such advances, there remain small agencies in manysome states that do not have sufficient resources to move to electronic documentation immediately. This subsection makes clear that, although electronic documentation is encouraged and recognized in this [act], it is not mandatory.
27	I	§ C1-104SECTION 104. SUSPENSION OF ACT'S [ACT]'S PROVISIONS WHEN
28		NECESSARY TO AVOID LOSS OF FEDERAL FUNDS.
29	1	(a) To the extent necessary to avoid a denial of funds or services from the United
30	I	States federal government which would otherwise would be available to the state, the [Governor,
31	I	by executive order][Attorney General by emergency rule], may suspend, in whole or in part, one
32	I	or more provisions of this [act]. The [Governor, by executive order][Attorney General by
33	ı	emergency rule] shall declare the termination of a suspension as soon as it is no longer necessary

1		to prevent the loss of funds or services from the United States.
2	I	(b) If any provision of this [act] is suspended pursuant to this section, the
3	I	[Governor] [Attorney General] shall promptly report the suspension to the Legislature. The
4		report shall include recommendations concerning desirable legislation that may be necessary to
5	I	conform this [act] to federal law, including the exemption, if appropriate, of a particular program
6	I	from the provisions of this [act].
7		Comment
8
9		This approach to the federal funds and federal requirements problem divides the state
10		response between the governor or attorney general and the legislature. See this Act, Optional §
11		O1-103 for a different approach that attempts to limit and simplify the state action necessary in
12		case of problems with federal funding.

6	I	SECTION 105. CONVERSION.
7	I	(a) At any point in an agency proceeding the presiding officer responsible for the
8	I	proceeding:
9	I	(1) may convert the proceeding to another type of proceeding provided for
10	I	by statute if the conversion is appropriate, is in the public interest, and does not substantially
11	I	prejudice the rights of a party;
12	I	(2) if required by law, shall convert the proceeding to another type of
13	I	proceeding provided for by this [act].
14	I	(b) A proceeding of one type may be converted to a proceeding of another type
15	I	only on notice to all parties to the original proceeding.
16	I	(c) To the extent practicable and consistent with the rights of the parties and the
17	I	requirements of this [act] relative to the new proceeding, the record of the original proceeding
18	I	must be used in the new proceeding.
19	I	(d) An agency may adopt rules to govern the conversion of one type of
20	I	proceeding to another. The rules may include an enumeration of the factors to be considered in
21	I	determining whether and under what circumstances one type of proceeding will be converted to
22	I	another.
23	I	Comment
24		TIL: 1 1 1001 N 11 2 1 1 1 2 1 1 1 1 2 1 1 1 2 1
25		This section draws upon the 1981 Model State APA SECTION 1-107, with some modifications. A reference in this section to a "party," in the case of an adjudicative proceeding
26		mounications. A reference in this section to a party, in the case of an adjudicative proceeding means "party" as defined in Section 102, and in the case of a rulemaking proceeding means an active participant in the proceeding or one primarily interested in its outcome. Agency proceedings covered by this article include a rulemaking proceeding as well as an adjudicative proceeding. Subdivision (a) is intended to give agencies flexibility in actions where law does not mandate a particular form of proceeding; in such case the agency is authorized to select the form of action that is most effective and efficient in the particular circumstances.

"Appropriate" as used in section (a)(1) means that the conversion must be to a form that is appropriate for the type of action being taken. Thus, the conversion of a disputed case proceeding to an informal proceeding is proper under this term if the action could have originally been commenced as an informal proceeding.

Conversion must also not substantially prejudice the rights of parties. The courts will have to decide on a case-by-case basis what constitutes substantial prejudice. The concept includes both the right to an appropriate procedure that enables a party to protect its interests, and freedom of the party from great inconvenience caused by the conversion in terms of time, cost, availability of witnesses, necessity of continuances and other delays, and other practical consequences of the conversion. However, even if the rights of a party are substantially prejudiced by a conversion, the party may voluntarily waive them.

The no substantial-prejudice-to-the-rights-of-a-party limitation on discretionary conversion of an agency proceeding from one type to another is not intended to disturb an existing body of law. In certain situations an agency may lawfully deny an individual an adjudicative proceeding to which the individual otherwise would be entitled by conducting a rulemaking proceeding that determines for an entire class an issue that otherwise would be the subject of a necessary adjudicative proceeding. See Note, The Use of Agency Rulemaking To Deny Adjudications Apparently Required by Statute, 54 Iowa L.Rev. 1086 (1969). Similarly, the substantial prejudice limitation is not intended to disturb the existing body of law allowing an agency, in certain situations, to make a determination through an adjudicative proceeding that has the effect of denying a person an opportunity the person might otherwise be afforded if a rulemaking proceeding were used instead.

Under subdivision (a)(2) an agency is required to convert a proceeding of one type to a proceeding of another type when required by rule or statute, even if a party does not consent is prejudiced. Under subdivision (b), however, both a discretionary and a mandatory conversion must be accompanied by notice to all parties to the original proceeding so that they will have a fully adequate opportunity to protect their interests.

6 7		Comment
8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22 23 24 25		This section seeks to assure adequate notice to the public of proposed agency action. It also seeks to assure adequate recordkeepingrecord keeping and availability of records for the public. Article C22 is intended to provide easy public access to agency law and policy that are relevant to agency process. Article C22 also adds provisions for electronic publication of the administrative bulletin and code. Generally, this section is modeled after the 81 Model State Administrative Procedure Act. Most states now have an administrative rules editor or her equivalent and an administrative bulletin published on a regular basis. This Act substitutes the word "publisher" for editor and limits the authority of the publisher to make changes to material submitted to her, except for creating a uniform numbering system, form and style. Subsection (f) is important to provide for public access to all rules and notice of applicable rules, even though those rules are exempted from normal rulemaking procedures under section [$\frac{1}{2} C3-108 & C3-109 \] infra. A distinction must be made for statements that fall within $\frac{1}{2}$, because they are true rules—they fit the definition of rules in $C1-101 supra. However, these rules are exempted from normal rulemaking procedures in this Act for specific reasons such as law enforcment and the like. For more explanation of the reasons for exemption, see $C3-109.
26	I	SECTION 202. REQUIRED AGENCY RULEMAKING AND
27		RECORDKEEPING. In addition to the other rulemaking requirements imposed by law, each
28		agency shall:
29	I	(1) adopt as a rule a description of its organization, stating the general course and
30		method of its operations and the methods whereby the public may obtain information or make
31		submissions or requests;
32	I	(2) adopt rules of practice setting forth the nature and requirements of all formal

I		and informal procedures available, including a description of all forms and instructions used by
2		the agency;
3	I	(3) adopt as a rules descriptions in plain English of the process for application for
4	I	license, benefits available, or other matters for which an application would be appropriate, unless
5		such process is prescribed by a statute;
6	I	(4) file with the [publisher] all rules and law other than this [act].
7	I	(4) file with the publisher all rules, including an emergency rule adopted under
8	I	section 309(a) and an index of guidance documents, including an index;
9	I	(5) file with the administrative rules publisher for publication in the
10	I	[administrative bulletin] a list of any guidance documents records upon which the agency
11		currently relies. The filing shall be made on or before January 1 of each year in a format to be
12		developed by the administrative rules publisher.
13	I	(6) maintain an index of all of its currently operative guidance documents records
14	I	and make the index available for public inspection; and
15	I	(7) make available for public inspection the full texts of all guidance
16	I	documents records to the extent inspection is permitted by law, and upon request, make copies of
17	I	such lists or guidance documents records available without charge, at cost, or on payment of a
18		reasonable fee.
19		Comment
20 21 22 23 24		Like the 1981- MSAPA, one object of this section is to make available to the public all procedures followed by the agency, including especially how to file for a license or benefit. It is modeled on the 1961 Model State Administrative Procedure Act, Sections 2(a) (4) & 2(b), the 1981 MSAPA, Sections 2-102 & 103, and the Kentucky Administrative Procedure Act, KRS
2526	I	§Section 13A.100. Persons seeking licenses or benefits should have a readily available and understandable reference sources from the agency. A second reason is to eliminate "secret law"

1 2 3		by making all guidance documents records used by the agency available from the agency and the administrative publisher.
4	I	§ C2-103 SECTION 203. DECLARATIONS BY AGENCY.
5	I	$(1\underline{a})$ Any interested person may petition an agency for a declaration about of the
6		applicability of any rule or prior order issued by the agency.
7	I	$(2\underline{b})_{\underline{a}}$ Each agency shall adopt rules prescribing the form of the petitions and the
8		procedure for their submission, consideration, and prompt disposition. The provisions of this
9	I	A[act] for formal, informal, or other applicable hearing procedure do not apply to an agency
10		proceeding for a declaration, except to the extent provided in this article or to the extent the
11	I	agency so provides by regulation rule or order.
12	I	$(3\underline{c})_{\underline{c}}$ Within sixty days after receipt of a petition pursuant to this section, an
13		agency shall either decline to issue a declaration in writing or schedule the matter for hearing.
14	I	$(4\underline{d})_{\underline{}}$ If the agency declines to consider the petition, it shall promptly notify the
15		person who filed the petition of its decision, including a brief statement of the reasons therefor.
16		An agency decision to decline to issue a declaration is not subject to judicial review.
17	I	$(\underline{5e})_{\underline{}}$ If the agency issues a declaration, the agency declaration shall contain the
18		names of all parties to the proceeding, the particular facts on which it is based, and the reasons
19		for its conclusion. A declaratory order has the same status and binding effect as any other order
20	I	issued in an agency adjudicative proceeding adjudication.
21		Comment
2223242526		This section embodies a policy of creating a convenient procedural device that will enable parties to obtain reliable advice from an agency. Such guidance is valuable to enable citizens to conform with agency standards as well as to reduce litigation. It is based on the 1981 MSAPA, Section 2-103 and Hawaii Revised Statutes, Section 91-8.

Subsection (5) is based on the 1981 MSAPA, §Section 2-103, the California APA, West's Ann.Cal.Gov.Code §Section 11465.60; and the Washington APA, West's RCWA 34.05.240. A declaratory decision issued by an agency is judicially reviewable; is binding on the applicant, other parties to that declaratory proceeding, and the agency, unless reversed or modified on judicial review; and has the same precedential effect as other agency adjudications. A declaratory decision, like other decisions, only determines the legal rights of the particular parties to the proceeding in which it was issued. The requirement in subdivision (a) that each declaratory decision issued contain the facts on which it is based and the reasons for its conclusion will facilitate any subsequent judicial review of the decision seguity. It also ensures a clear record of what occurred for the parties and for persons interested in the decision because of its possible precedential effect.

3	I	[SECTION 204. MODEL PROCEDURAL RULES.
4	I	(a) The [Attorney General] [Legislature] shall publish default procedural rules for
5	I	use by agencies. The default rules shall provide of the procedural functions and duties of as many
6	I	agencies as is practicable.
7	I	(b) Except as otherwise provided in section (c), the default procedural rules shall
8	I	constitute the default procedural rules under subsection (a) shall be used by all agencies.
9	I	(c) An agency may adopt a rule of procedure that differs from the default
10	I	procedural rules adopted under subsection (a) only through rulemaking, and the final rule must
11	I	state with particularity the need and reasons for the variation from the default procedural rules].
12	I	Comment
13	ı	One purpose of this provision is to provide agencies with a set of procedural rules. This
14	1	is especially important for smaller agencies. Another purpose of this section is to create as
15	1	uniform a set of procedures for all agencies as is realistic, but to preserve the power of agencies
16	1	to deviate from the common model where necessary because the use of the model rules is
17	1	demonstrated to be impractical for that particular agency. Like Section 2-105 of the 81 MSAPA,
18	1	this section requires all agencies to use the model rules as the basis for the rules that they are
19	- 1	required to adopt under Section 202. An agency may deviate from the model rules only for
20	-	impracticability.

222324		This section is modeled on Minn. M.S.A. §Section 14.366. This section and the following section, §Section C3-102 state the minimum docketing and rule makingrulemaking record keeping requirements for all agencies. This section also recognizes that many agencies 1 2 use electronic recording and maintenance of dockets and records. However, for smaller agencies, the use of electronic recording and maintenance may not be feasible. This section therefore 3 permits the use of exclusively written, hard copy dockets. The current rulemaking docket is a 4 summary list of pending rule-making proceedings or an agenda referring to pending rulemaking. 5 6 § C3-102SECTION 302. This section is taken from the 1981 MSAPA, section 3-112. The following states have similar or identical agency rule-making record provisions: Az., A.R.S. §Section 41-1029; Colo., C.R.S.A. §Section 24-4-103; Minn., M.S.A. §Section 14.365; Miss., Miss. Code Ann. §Section 25-43-3.110; Mont., MCA 2-4-402; Okl., 75 Okl.St.Ann. §Section 302; and Wash., RCWA 34.05.370.

The comment to the 1981 MSAPA section from which this section is taken makes the case for adoption of this section, and especially for subsection (c) for judicial review.

In requiring an official agency rule=making record, subsection (a) should facilitate a more structured and rational agency and public consideration of proposed rules, and the process of judicial review of the validity of rules. The requirement of an official agency rule=making record has recently been suggested for the Federal Act in S. 1291, the "Administrative Practice and Regulatory Control Act of 1979," title I, Section 102(d), [5 U.S.C. 553(d)], 96 Cong.Rec. S7126 at S7129 (daily ed. Jun. 6, 1979) (Sen. Kennedy).

Subsection (b) requires all written submissions made to an agency and all written materials considered by an agency in connection with a rule-making proceeding to be included in the record. It also requires a copy of any existing record of oral presentations made in the proceeding to be included in the rule-making record. In certain instances Section 3-104(b)(3) assures a record of oral presentations in a rule-making proceeding. But subsection (b) does not require other oral communications relating to a rule-making proceeding, whether or not ex parte, to be electronically recorded or reduced to writing and to be included in the official agency rule-making proceeding to be electronically recorded or reduced to writing and to be included in the rule-making proceeding to be electronically recorded or reduced to writing and to be included in the rule-making record. See Scalia, "Two Wrongs Make a Right," Regulation 38 (July-August 1977); Administrative Conference of the U.S., Recommendation no. 77-3, 42 Federal Register 54253 (1977). Cf. Home Box Office, Inc. v. FCC, 567 F.2d 9 (D.C.Cir.1977) certiorari denied, 434 U.S. 829 (1977). See also generally, "Ex Parte Communication During Informal Rulemaking," 14 Colum. Journ. of Law and Social Prob. 269 (1979). Of course, if an agency wants to impose on itself by rule such a prohibition on ex parte oral communications in rule makingrulemaking, or a requirement that all such oral communications be reduced to writing and included in the agency rule-making record, it may do so. Paragraph (9) of subsection (b) is bracketed because this paragraph is wholly dependent on subsequently bracketed Section 3-204(d).

The language of subsection (c) is a modified form of S.1291, the "Administrative Practice and Regulatory Control Act of 1979," title I, Section 102(d), [5 U.S.C. 553(d)], which provides: "The file required by this subsection shall be available to the courts as the agency record in connection with review of the rule, but the file need not constitute the exclusive basis for judicial review or for agency action." See 96 Cong.Rec. S7126 at S7129 (daily ed. Jun. 6, 1979) (Sen. Kennedy). Although this section requires the creation and maintenance of an official agency rule-making record, subsection (c) makes clear that the requirement of such a record does not mean that the rules made must be based exclusively on the rule-making record or judicially reviewed exclusively on the basis of that rule-making record.

Conventional wisdom and substantial experience dictate that neither the making of usual rules by an agency, nor judicial review of their validity, should be required to be based wholly on any official agency rule-making record. See Hamilton, "Procedure for the Adoption of Rules of General Applicability: The Need for Procedural Innovation in Administrative Rulemaking," 60 Calif.L.Rev. 1276 (1972); 2 Recommendations and Reports of the Administrative Conference of the U.S., 66 (1970-1972), Recommendation 72-5; Auerbach, "Administrative Rule-making in Minnesota," 63 Minn.L.Rev. 151 at 218-222 (1979). The burden imposed on agencies by a duty in every case to assemble their entire factual and argumentative justification for a rule prior to its adoption, and to enter that entire justification in the official agency record of the rule-making proceeding, is far too great to justify such a requirement.

In addition, a requirement that the validity of a rule, on judicial review, be based wholly on an official record made before the agency in the rule=making proceeding, could be inconsistent with the policy of Section 5-107(1). That provision states that a petitioner for judicial review of a rule "need not have participated in the rule=making proceeding on which that rule is based." It may be unfair to bind persons with an agency rule=making record as the only basis for judicial review of a rule if they did not participate in the rule=making proceeding because of Section 5-107(1), or because they did not know of the existence of that rule=making proceeding, or because at the time of that proceeding they did not know or could not know that their interests would at a future time be adversely affected by the product of that rule=making proceeding. See also Auerbach, "Informal Rule Mmaking: A Proposed Relationship Between Administrative Procedures and Judicial Review," 72 N.W.UnivL.Rev. 15 at 16-17 (1977), stating that an APA should distinguish "between the administrative proceedings on the basis of which an agency promulgates an informal rule and the record on the basis of which the courts determine the rule's validity. The record for judicial review should not be the product of the informal rule=making proceedings, but a record especially made for the purpose." The reason for this is that the purpose of rule=making proceedings should be "not to try a case' but to contribute to the dual objectives of informing the agency and safeguarding private interests." This statute contemplates, therefore, that in any judicial review proceeding in which the validity of an agency rule is at issue, the agency and the challenging party will have an opportunity, within certain limits, to supplement the official rule=making record required by this section with whatever materials they deem appropriate. See Sections 5-114 and 5-115. Those supplemental submissions and the official rule=making record may be considered by the court, however, only as they are relevant to the specific standards specified for judicial review of agency action in Section 5-116. And, as provided in Section 3-110(b), the agency is limited to the particular reasons of fact, law, or policy for its adoption of the rule stated in the concise explanatory statement, but it may supplement the agency rule=making record on judicial review with further evidence and argument to justify or to demonstrate the propriety of those particular reasons.

Of course, to the extent another provision of law expressly requires a particular class of rules to be made by the agency and, therefore, judicially reviewed, wholly on the basis of the official agency rule-making record, that other provision of law will control. This permits the legislature and the agency to make a determination from time to time, that in light of the particular circumstances, a specified class of rules should be made and judicially reviewed wholly on the basis of that official agency rule-making record. In this connection see also Section 4-101(b). It provides that another statute may expressly require a particular class of rule makingrulemaking to be conducted pursuant to some or all of the adjudication procedures provided in Article FV4, including the requirement that the agency determination be made exclusively on the basis of the official agency record.

§ C3-103 [SECTION 303. ADVICE ON POSSIBLE RULES BEFORE NOTICE OF

PROPOSED RULE ADOPTION.

(a) In addition to seeking information by other methods, an agency, before notice of proposed rule adoption, may solicit comments from the public on a subject matter of possible rulemaking under active consideration within the agency by causing notice to be published in the [administrative bulletin] of the subject matter and indicating where, when, and how persons may comment. (b) Each agency may also appoint a committee to comment, before publication of a notice of proposed rule adoption, on the subject matter of a possible rulemaking under active consideration within the agency. The membership of those committees must be published at least

1	ı	[annually] in the [administrative bulletin].]
2 3	1	Comment
4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12		This section is modeled on the 1981 Model State Administrative Procedure Act, section 3-101. As noted there, seeking advice before proposing a rule may alert the agency very early to potential serious problems that may cause the agency to be forced to rewrite the rule entirely later. Several states have enacted provisions of this type in their APAs. Some of them merely authorize agencies to seek informal input before proposing a rule, and several of them indicate that the purpose of the provision is to promote negotiated rulemaking. Those states are Idaho, I.C. § 67-5220; Minnesota, M.S.A. § 14.101; Montana, MCA 2-4-304; and Wisconsin, W.S.A. 227.13.
13	I	SECTION 304. NOTICE OF PROPOSED RULE ADOPTION.
14	I	(a) At least [30] days before the adoption of a rule, an agency shall cause notice
15		of its contemplated action to be published in the [administrative bulletin]. The notice of proposed

17	I	(1) a short explanation of the purpose of the proposed rule;
18	I	(2) the specific legal authority authorizing the proposed rule;
19	I	(3) the text of the proposed rule;
20	I	(4) where, when, and how persons may present their views on the

26		submissions on the proposed rule;
27	I	(B) the end of the period during which an oral proceeding may be

2	I	(C) the date of any required oral proceeding on the proposed rule:
3		(6) The published summary of the regulatory analysis must also indicate
4	I	where persons may obtain copies of the full text of the regulatory analysis; and
5	I	(7) where, when, and how persons may present their views on the
6		proposed rule and demand an oral proceeding thereon if one is not already provided.
7	I	(b) Within [3] days after its publication in the [administrative bulletin], the
8		agency shall cause a copy of the notice of proposed rule adoption to be mailed or sent
9		electronically to each person who has made a timely request to the agency for a mailed or
10		electronic copy of the notice. An agency may charge persons for the actual cost of providing
11		them with written mailed copies where a person has made a request for a written copy.

3	I	(b) For action with a proposed rule adoption which has an estimated impact of
4		more than
5		$[], the agency shall prepare a regulatory analysis according to this section.
6		(c) Except to the extent excused by law, in the situations described in subsections
7	I	(1) and (2) of this section, an agency shall prepare a A regulatory analysis in conformity with this
8	I	section, which must contains:
9	I	(1) a description of any persons or classes of persons who will be affected
10		by the rule and the costs and benefits to those classes of persons;
11	I	(2) an estimate of the probable impact, economic or otherwise, of the
12		proposed rule upon affected classes;
13	I	(3)a comparison of the probable costs and benefits of the proposed rule
14	I	to the probable costs and benefits of inaction; and
15	I	$(4)_{\underline{}}$ a determination of whether there are less costly methods or less
16		intrusive methods for achieving the purpose of the proposed rule.
17	I	(d) Each regulatory analysis statement filed under this section shall be filed with
18	I	the [publisher] in the manner provided in § C3-103 Section 315 [and shall be submitted to the
19		[regulatory review agency] [department of finance and revenue] [other]].
20		Comment
21 22 23 24 25		These provisions are taken primarily from the 1981 MSAPA. Regulatory analyses are widely used as part of the rulemaking process in the states. Subsection (4) provides for a summary of the regulatory review analysis to be published in order to give the public notice of the claimed benefits and costs, and an opportunity to challenge them. The subsection also

1 2		provides for submission to the rules review entity in the state, if the state has one.
3	I	§ C3-105 SECTION 306 . PUBLIC PARTICIPATION.
4		(a) An agency shall afford persons the opportunity to submit information and

7	I	(b) $\underline{\underline{U}}$ unless required by law other than this $\underline{\underline{A}}$ [act], an agency may, but is not
8	I	required, to hold a public hearing. An agency may schedule an oral proceeding on a proposed
9		rule, if such hearing is not required by law. At the discretion of the agency at such proceeding,
10	I	persons may At a public hearing the agency may allow persons to present oral argument, data, and

19		presentations made at the oral proceeding. Oral proceedings must be open to the public and be
20		recorded by stenographic or other means.
21	I	(e) Each agency shall issue rules for the conduct of public hearings.
22		Comment
2324		This section is substantially similar to § 3-104 of the 1981 MSAPA. However, the

1 2 3 4		decision gives discretion to the agency about whether to hold an oral hearing is left to the discretion of the agency on proposed rules in the absence of a statutory or constitutional requirement that an oral hearing be held.
5	I	§ C3-106SECTION 307. TIME AND MANNER OF ADOPTION.

18		Comment
19 20 21 22 23 24 25 26	1 1	This section is based in large partdraws upon the 1981 MSAPA, section 3-107; and similar provisions from a number of states. See Mississippi Administrative Procedure Act, Miss. Code Ann. §Section 25-43-3.107 and the Minn. Administrative Procedure Act, M.S.A. §Section 14.05. The 1981 MSAPA drew heavily on the federal "logical outgrowth" test. Both the 1981 MSAPA and tThe logical outgrowth tests are antest attempts to strike a balance between the need for notice to the public in rulemaking, the need of the agency to make modifications in proposed rules as a result of comments received, and encouragement to agencies to consider the
272829		information received in comments from the public in formulating final rules. The 1981 MSAPA accurately reflected the factors that courts consider in applying following cases discuss and analyze the logical outgrowth test. See, and this section seeks to incorporate the factors identified

23 24		This section is taken from the 1961 MSAPA, §Section 3(2)(b), and the Virginia Administrative Procedure Act, Va. Code Ann. §Section 2.2-4012.1. Some state courts have indicated that any exemption from rulemaking requirements must be strictly construed to be 1 2 limited to an emergency or virtual emergency situation. 3 4 However, recognizing that there may be a few other justifications for exemption, this 5 section adopts a broader rule for matters that will be noncontroversial. Thus, a situation where the agency is merely making a stylistic correction or correcting an error that the agency believes 6 is noncontroversial may be adopted without formal rulemaking procedures. See the VA 7 8 Fast-Track RegulationRule provision at Va. Code Ann. §Section 2.2-4012.1. 9 10 In order to prevent misuse of this procedural device, noncontroversial rule promulgation requires the consent of elected officials, and may be prevented by the requisite number of persons 11 filing objections. 12 13 14 § C3-109. EXEMPTION FOR GUIDANCE DOCUMENTS. 15 (a) An agency shall have the authority to SECTION 310. GUIDANCE 16 RECORDS. 17 (a) An agency may issue guidance documentsrecords. 18 (b) An agency need not follow the procedures of $\frac{3-102}{304}$ to $\frac{3-105}{308}$ 19 for guidance documents records. Each guidance document record must include a statement that it 20 was adopted pursuant to this section when published in the [administrative bulletin]. 21 (c) Guidance documents records are advisory only to the public; however an 22 agency may not rely on a guidance record, they are but a guidance record is binding on the 23 agency. 24 (ed) A reviewing court may determine de novo the validity of a guidance 25 document adopted under this section record. (de) It shall be the duty of every agency annually to file with the fpublisher for 26 27 publication in the [administrative bulletin] a list of anyll guidance documents records upon which the agency currently relies. The filing shall be made on or before January 1 of each year in a

1 format to be developed by the [publisher]. The publisher shall index the guidance documents so 2 submitted and make them available to the public. (e)publisher. 3 4 (f) Each agency shall also maintain an index of all of its currently operative 5 guidance documents and records, make the index available for public inspection, and make 6 available for public inspection the full texts of all guidance documents records to the extent inspection is permitted by law; and, upon request, make copies of such lists or guidance 7 8 documents records available without charge, at cost, or on payment of a reasonable fee. 9 Comment 10 11 This section is modeled largely on the provision in the Va. APA. See Va. Code Ann. §Section 2.2–4008. 12 13 14 This section recognizes the need for guidance documents records that an agency will prepare 1) as a guide to its employees and 2) as a guide to the public. Agency law often needs 15 16 interpretation, and agency discretion needs some channelling. The public needs to know the 17 agency opinion about the meaning of the law and regulations rules that it administers. Increasing public knowledge and understanding reduces unintentional violations and lowers transaction 18 19 costs. See Michael Asimow, California Underground Regulations, 44 Admin. L. Rev. 43 (1992); 20 Peter Strauss, The Rulemaking Continuum, 44 Duke L. J. 1463 (1992). Excusing the agency from full procedural rulemaking for guidance documents records furnishes a powerful economic 21 22 incentive for agencies to use these devices to inform their employees and the public. 23 24 Many states have recognized the need for this type of exemption in their statutes. They 25 are also referred to as interpretive statements or policy statements. These states have defined interpretive and policy statements differently from rules, and also excused agencies creating them 26 27 from some or all of the procedural requirements for rulemaking. See Ala. Ala. Code §Section 28 41-22-3(9)(c) (2000) ("memoranda, directives, manuals, or other communications which do not 29 substantially affect the legal rights of, or procedures available to, the public."); Colo. Colo. Rev. Stat. §§Section 24-4-102(15), 24-4- 103(1) (exception for interpretive rules or policy statements 30 "which are not meant to be binding as rules"); AMAX, Inc. v. 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16		This provision is similar to the 1981 MSAPA, §Section 3-110 requirementfor requirement for a concise explanatory statement of a rule when it is adopted. Arkansas (A.C.A. §Section 25-15-204) and Colorado (C.R.S.A. §Section 24-4-103) have similar provisions. The federal Administrative Procedure Act uses the identical terms in section 553 (c) (5 U.S.C.A. §Section 553). However, this provision also requires the agency to explain why it rejected substantial arguments made in comments.

27 28		Comment

This section is a slightly modified form of the 1961 Model State Administrative 1 2 Procedure Act, section (3)(c). As noted in the comment to the 1981 MSAPA, section 3-113, there have been no complaints from the states about the two year time limitation on procedural 3 challenges to rules. 4 5 § C3-112 This section also deals with the new concept, not part of the 1961 or 1981 6 7 MSAPA, of fast-track rules. 8 9 SECTION 315. FILING OF RULES. (a) An agency shall file in the office of the [secretary of state] publisher each rule it 10 adopts, including rules it adopts pursuant to section 309, and all rules existing on the effective 11 12 date of this A[act] that have not previously been filed. The agency may file a rule under this 13 section as an electronic document record. The filing must be done as soon after adoption of the 14 rule as is practicable. At the time of filing, each rule adopted after the effective date of this A[act] 15 must have attached to it the explanatory statement required by § C3-110 Section 312. The 16 [secretary of state] publisher shall affix to each rule and statement a certification of the time and date of filing and keep a permanent register open to public inspection of all filed rules and 17 attached explanatory statements. In filing a rule, each agency shall use a standard form prescribed 18 19 by the [secretary of state]. 20 (b) Subject to applicable constitutional or statutory provisions, an emergency rule 21 becomes effective immediately upon filing with the [Publisher] [Secretary of State], or at a stated 22 date, if the agency finds that this effective date is necessary because of imminent peril to the 23 public health, safety, or welfare. The agency's finding and a brief statement of the reasons 24 therefor shall be filed with the rule. The agency shall take appropriate measures to make 25 emergency rules known to the persons who may be affected by them.

8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15	I	This is a substantially revised version of the 1961 Model State Administrative Procedure Act, section 4 (b)&(c) and 1981 Model State Administrative Procedure Act, section 3-115. Most of the states have adopted provisions similar to both the 1961 Model State Administrative Procedure Act and the 1981 Model State Administrative Procedure Act, although they may differ on specific time periods. Subsection (c)(3) has been adopted from TX, V.T.C.A., Government Code §Section 2001.036.

25 26 27		As was explained in the comment to the 1981 MSAPA, these exemptions attempt to strike a fair balance between the need for public participation in, and adequate publicity for, agency policymaking on the one hand, and the conflicting need for efficient, economical, and

1		checuve government on the other hand. The roth exemptions listed here are widery used in the
2		states, and represent a judgement in those states that, for rules of this type, the full procedural
3		rules process is unnecessary, unduly burdensome on the agencies, or would lead to inefficient or
4		ineffective government. States that have some or all of these exemptions are: Arizona, A.R.S. §

14 15 16 17 18		The general principle of When this section is that an agency must conduct an appropriate adjudicative proceeding whenever a statute or the due process clause of the state or federal applicable, parties have a right to an evidentiary hearing.
19 20		Comment
21 22 23 24 25	 	Article 4 of this Act does not apply to all adjudications but only to those adjudications, defined in Article 1-102(6) as a "disputed case." This section connects the definitions of Adjudication in Article 1, section 102(1), "disputed case" in Article 1, section 102(6), and order, [section 102(18)]. The definition of adjudication in section 102(1) is general and intended to distinguish adjudication from rulemaking. On the other hand, disputed case is the definition of
26 27 28 29 30 31		the subset of adjudications that fall within this section because a federal or state statute or constitution requires an evidentiary hearing for the determination of facts. If an adjudication is required by this section, the default procedure is a formal hearing procedure; but the agency can instead conduct anto resolve particular facts. This section is subject to the exceptions in section 411 for informal hearing or an and section 414 for emergency hearing if the requirements for those alternative procedures apply exceptions under this Article apply. All disputed cases are also
32		subject to the adjudication bill of rights of section 4-102 of this article.

This type of hearing is made by a neutral decision maker, and must be based exclusively on evidence contained in a record made at the hearing. This type of hearing requires at a minimum that a party be permitted to introduce evidence, argue to the presiding officer, and rebut opposing evidence. The hearing must also be conducted on the record.

In some cases, statutes or the constitution call for administrative proceedings that do not reach the level of an evidentiary hearing. For example, the constitution or a statute might merely require a consultation or a decision that is not based on an exclusive record or a purely written procedure or an opportunity for the general public to make statements. In some cases, the agency has discretion to provide or not provide the create a procedure for adjudication. In other cases, the hearing called for by the statute is informal and investigative in nature, and any decision that results is not final but is subject to a full administrative hearing at a higher agency level. This section does not apply in such cases. Examples of cases in which the required procedure does not meet the standard of an evidentiary hearing for determination of facts are: Goss v. Lopez, 419 U.S. 565 (1975) and Hewitt v. Helms, 459 U.S. 460 (1983). Agency action pursuant to statutes that do not require evidentiary hearings are not subject to this section. This section does not apply where agency regulations are not subject to this section. This section does not hearing.

If an adjudicative proceeding is required by this section, the proceeding may be a formal hearing procedure, or may be a special hearing procedure provided by a statute applicable to the particular proceeding. This Act also makes available the alternatives of an informal hearing or an emergency decision. For a statute to create a right to an evidentiary hearing, express use of the term "evidentiary hearing" is not necessary in the statute. Statutes often use terms like "appeal" or "proceeding" or "hearing", but in context it is clear that they mean an evidentiary hearing. An evidentiary hearing is one in which the resolution of the dispute involves particular facts and the presiding officer is limited to material in the record in making his decision.

Hearings that are required by procedural due process guarantees include life, liberty and property interests, where a statute creates a justified expectation or legitimate entitlement. Thus, this This section seeks to includes more than what were described as "rights" under older common law. In cases where the right to an evidentiary hearing is created by due process, attention is directed to section C4-1104-110 (1) F infra which may permit an informal hearing.

However, tThis section does not apply to an investigatory hearing, or a hearing that merely seeks public input or comment. Also, this section is not applicable to the situation where a party is entitled to a de novo administrative or judicial hearing. This section does not apply to a situation where a procedural rule creates a right to an evidentiary hearing. An agency may by rule make all or part of this article applicable to adjudication that does not fall within requirements of this section.

This section is modeled ondraws upon the California, (see Cal. Cal.Gov.Code §Section 11410.10); Minnesota, (see Minnesota Statutes Annotated, §Section 14.02, subd. 3; Washington (see Revised Code of Washington, 34.05.413(2) and (perhaps) Kansas (see Kansas Stat. Ann.,

6		(c) Provisions of this section shall be reduced, changed or displaced only by
7		express statutory language that names this section and its caption.
8 9	I	Comment
10		This section specifies the minimum hearing requirements that must be met in agency
11		adjudication disputed cases under this statute act. This section applies to all agencies whether or
12	-	not an agency provision rule provides for a different procedure; this procedure is excused only if a
13	-	state or federal statute specifically expressly provides otherwise. This section does not prevent an
14		agency from adopting more stringent procedures than those in this section. This section does not
15	-	supersede conflicting state or federal statutes.
17		There are several interrelated purposes for this procedural provision: 1) to create a
18		minimum fair hearing procedure; and 2) to attempt to make that procedure applicable to all
19		agencies. In many states, individual agencies have lobbied the legislature to remove various
20		requirements of the state Administrative Procedure Act from them. The result in a considerable
21		number of states is a multitude of divergent agency procedures. This lack of procedural
22	١	uniformity creates problems for litigants, the bar and the reviewing courts. This section attempts
23		to provide a minimum, universally applicable procedure in all disputed cases. The important goal
24		of this section is to protect citizens by a guarantee of minimum fair procedural protections. The
25		procedures required here are only for actions that fit the definition of a disputed case and fall within the providions of Section 401. Thus, they do not spread quasi judicial procedures
26		wideley, and do not create any significant agency loss of efficiency or increased cost.

36		There are two interrelated purposes for this procedural provision: 1) to create statutorily a
37		minimum fair hearing procedure; and 2) to provide that minimum procedure "across the board"

1		so that it is applicable to an agencies. In many states, agencies have petitioned and loobled the
2 3		legislature to remove various requirements of the state Administrative Procedure Act from them. The result is a crazy quilt of widely different agency procedures in a single state. This lack of
4		uniformity creates problems for litigants, the bar and the reviewing courts. This section
5		represents an attempt to provide a minimum, bare bones, across the board procedure for all
6		agency adjudications. The important goal of this section is to protect citizens by a guarantee of
7		minimum fair procedural protections. The procedures required here are only for actions that fit
8		the definition of adjudication under this Act and are not so onerous as to create any substantial
9		loss of efficiency or increased cost.

11		Subsection (c) has been included in order to help to insure that full consideration is given
12		to the consequences of reducing the minimum provisions of this section.

37	§ C4-105. INFORMAL SETTLEMENTS. Except to the extent precluded by another
38	provision of law, informal settlement of matters that may make unnecessary more elaborate
39	proceedings under this Act is encouraged. Agencies shall establish by rule specific procedures to
40	facilitate informal settlement of matters. This section does not require any party or other person to settle a matter pursuant to informal procedures, except as provided by law. 1 2 Comment 3 4 This section is largely drawn from the same provision 1961 MSAPA, Sections 9&10 asnd 5 the 1981 MSAPA section for informal settlement. This section expressly encourages informal settlements of controversies that would otherwise end in more formal proceedings. Obviously, 6 7 economy and efficiency in government commends such a policy except as it is otherwise precluded by law. A requirement that each agency issue rules providing for informal settlement 8 9 procedures assures that everyone is on notice as to the availability and utility of such procedures. 10 When accepted by an agency an offer of settlement becomes an "order" because it fits the Section 11 1-102(9) definition of that term. The last clause of the section "except as provided by law" is 12 intended to make clear that other provisions of this act or other statutes may make provisions for informal settlement procedure, and this section and parties are subject to those other provisions. 13 14 15 § C4-106. 13 14	I	Comment

15 16 17 18 19 20	I	The informal hearing procedure is intended to satisfy due process and public policy requirements in a manner that is simpler and more expeditious than formal adjudication. The informal hearing procedure provides a forum in the nature of a conference in which a party has an opportunity to be heard by the presiding officer. The informal hearing procedure provides a forum that may accommodate a hearing where by regulation or statute a member of the public may participate without appearing or intervening as a party.
21 22 23 24 25 26 27 28 29		This section builds on the 1981 Model State Administrative Procedure Act, Articles 4-401 et seq. and 4-501 et seq. , which provided for two different types of informal hearings, the conference and the summary hearing. This section adopts a single category of informal procedure that an agency may use to perform the same functions as the conference and summary hearings and the following section leaves to the discretion of the presiding officer the exact hearing procedure to be followed. This section also draws upon the California provision for an informal procedure, see Ann.Cal.Gov.Code §SECTION 11445.20.

13	I	agency action is directed may obtain judicial review without exhausting administrative remedies.
16 17		The procedure of this section is intended permit immediate agency emergency adjudication, but also to provide minimal protections to parties against whom such action is
18		taken. Emergencies regularly occur that immediately threaten public health, safety or welfare:
19		licensed health professionals may endanger the public; developers may act rapidly in violation of
20		law; or restaurants may create a public health hazard. In such cases the agencies must possess
21		the power to act rapidly to curb the threat to the public. On the other hand, when the agency acts
22		in such a situation, there should be some modicum of fairness, and the standards for invoking
23		such remedy must be clear, so that the emergency label may be used only in situations where it
24		fairly can be asserted that rapid action is necessary to protect the public.
25		ranny can be asserted that rapid action is necessary to protect the public.
26		Federal and state case law have held that in an emergency situation an agency may act
27	1	rapidly and postpone any formal hearing without violation, respectively, of federal or state
28		constitutional law. FDIC v. Mallen, 486 U.S. 230 (1988); Dep't of Agric. v. Yanes, 755 P.2d
29		611 (OK. 1987).
30
31		The generic provision in this section has several advantages over the present divergent approaches to emergency agency action. First, all agencies have the needed power to act without delay, but there is provision for some type of brief hearing, if feasible. Second, this article limits the agency to action of this type only in a genuine, defined emergency. Third, there are pre and post deprivation protections. This section seeks to strike an appropriate balance between public need and private fairness.

	This section does not apply to an emergency adjudication, cease and desist order, or other action in the nature of emergency relief issued pursuant to other express statutory authority.
	SECTION 413. INTERVENTION.
	(a) The presiding officer shall grant a petition for intervention if:
	(1) The petitioner has a statutory right to initiate the proceeding in which intervention is sought; or
	(2) The petitioner has an interest which is or may be adversely affected by
1	the outcome of the proceeding, and that interest is not adequately represented in the proceedings.
	(b) The presiding officer may impose conditions upon the intervener's
!	participation in the proceedings, either at the time that intervention is granted or at any S	subsequent time.
:	(c) The presiding officer, at least [24 hours] before the hearing, shall issue an (order granting or denying each pending petition for intervention, specifying any conditions, and briefly stating the reasons for the order. The presiding officer shall promptly give notice of an order granting, denying, or modifying intervention to the petitioner for intervention and to all parties.
	Comment
	Subsection b recognizes the normal judicial practice of limiting the participation of intervenors to their interest and maintaining an orderly and expeditious hearing. Section four simply provides for notice suitable under the circumstances to enable parties to anticipate and prepare for changes that may be caused by the intervention

4	I	Comment
5		This section sets out the basic concept followed in the United States that petitions to
6		review non-final agency action are rarely granted. There are, however, some exceptions.
8	-	In the case of judicial review of agency orders, this section provides a limited right to
9	1	review of non-final agency action, and to interlocutory review during the pendency of judicial
10		review. This section draws upon the 1961 MSAPA provision regarding inadequacy of remedy,
11		but adds the requirement from the 1981 MSAPA that the harm to the individual by denying
12		immediate review must outweigh or be found disproportionate to the public benefit that results
13		from waiting until the agency action is final. This is a factor that agencies frequently raise in
14		response to petitions for non-final review, and is justified by the delegation by the legislature to
15		the agency to defend the public interest.

21	i	prudential exception to finality and ripeness sometimes recognized for rules and other types of
22	i	agency action by agencies such as advisory letters and guidance records. It seeks to incorporate
23	i	the general tests for finality and ripeness taken from the cases of Abbott Laboratories v. Gardner,
24	i	387 U.S. 136, 148-149, 87 S.Ct. 1507, 18 L.Ed.2d 681 (1967); FTC v. Standard Oil Co.,449 U.S.

The scope of paragraph (a)(5) will ultimately be established by judicial interpretation.

Subsection 5 is bracketed because it is a "weak" version of the zone of interests test employed in Clarke v. Securities Industry Ass'n, 479 U.S. 388, 107 S.Ct. 750 (1987) that defines zone of interest very broadly. Some states may wish to retain the zone requirement if it defines the zone of interests broadly.

1		SECTION 507 . EXHAUSTION OF ADMINISTRATIVE REMEDIES.
2	I	(a) A Except as otherwise provided in subsection (b), a person may file a petition
3	I	for judicial review under this [act] only after exhausting all administrative remedies available
4		within the agency whose action is being challenged and within any other agency authorized to
5	I	exercise administrative review, but:
6	I	(1b) a A petitioner for judicial review of a rule need not have participated
7	I	in the rule-making proceeding upon which that rule is based, or have petitioned for its
8		amendment or repeal;
9	I	$(2\underline{c})$ a If the issue that petitioner for judicial review need not exhaust
10		administrative remedies to the extent that this act or any other statute states that exhaustion is not
11		required; or
12	I	(3)challenges was not raised and considered in the rulemaking proceeding,
13	I	then:
14	I	(1) before bringing a petition for judicial review, the petitioner must
15	I	petition the agency to initiate rulemaking under section 317 to take action to resolve or cure the
16	I	issue or issues that the rule petitioner challenges; and
17	I	(2) in the petition for judicial review the petitioner must disclose the
18	I	petition to the agency for rulemaking and the agency action on that petition.
19	I	(d) the court may relieve a petitioner of the requirement to exhaust any or all
20		administrative remedies; to the extent that the administrative remedies are inadequate [or
21		requiring their exhaustion would result in irreparable harm disproportionate to the public benefit
22		derived from requiring exhaustion].

3
4		This section is identical with § 5-107 of the 1981 MSAPA. It accurately reflects the
5		approach that many states have taken to exhaustion of administrative remedies. The default rule
6	1	created by this section is a requirement creates a default requirement of exhaustion, which is
7		generally followed in the states. It draws on provisions of the 1961 & 1981 MSAPAs. However,
8		subsections (a)(1) to (3) create a series of exceptions that have been widely recognized in judicial
9	-	decisions to the exhaustion requirement. Subsection(a) (1)the section creates several exceptions
10	-	to the default rule. Subsection (a)(1) seeks to create issue exhaustion in appeals from rulemaking
11		for persons who did not participate in the rulemaking challenged. It excuses persons seeking
12		judicial review of a rule who were not parties before the agency from the exhaustion requirement-
13		Subsection (a)(2) excuses exhaustion where any other provision of this Act or another law
14		permits it.; but, if the issue that they seek to raise was not raised and considered in the
15	- 1	rulemaking proceeding that they challenge, then they must first petition the agency to conduct
16	- 1	another rulemaking to consider the issue. If the agency refuses to do so or if the agency conducts
17	-	a second rulemaking that is adverse to the petitioner on the issue or issues raised in his petition
18		for rulemaking, then the petitioner may seek judicial review. Subsection (a)(3) recognizes the
19		judicially created exception to the exhaustion requirement where an agency relief would be
20		inadequate. The bracketed material is optional.
21
22		SC5-108. CLOSED RECORD; EXCEPTION.
23	- 1	(a) material in brackets in subsection (a)(3) was placed there because, although
24	-	that is the language used in some states' APAs, the drafters consider it to be a subset of the
25	- 1	inadequacy addressed in the non bracketed sections of subsection (a)(3).

This section establishes a default closed record for judicial review of adjudication and 1 2 rulemaking. It is well established in most states and in federal administrative procedure that, in case of adjudication, judicial review is based upon that evidence which was before the agency on 3 the record. Otherwise, for example, the standards of judicial review could be subverted by the 4 5 introduction of additional evidence to the court that was not before the agency. See Western States Petroleum Ass'n v. Superior Court, 888 P.2d 1268 (Cal. 1995). For rulemaking, the 6 record for judicial review is defined in § C3-102Section 3-102 of this Act.-7 8 9 An effect of this definition is that the closed record approach does not apply to informal 10 agency action and ministerial agency action. 11 12 Section (b) creates 13 14 The section contains an exception to the closed record on review in the limited situations 15 where procedural petitioner alleges error, such as, for example, ex parte contacts or violation of separation of functions, that does not appear in or is not evident from the record. Other 16 examples of error that do not appear or are not evident from the record-17 18 19 § C5-109 are: improper constitution of the decision making body, grounds for disqualification of a decision maker, or unlawful procedure. 20 21 22 SECTION 509. 16 17		Scope of review is notoriously difficult to capture in verbal formulas, and its application
18	1	varies depending on context. For that reason, the drafters have chosen to return to shorter
19	· 	formulations of the scope of review, similar to the 1961 MSAPA. See Ronald M. Levin, Scope procedure. Subsection (c)(1) includes, but is not limited to, agency: 1 2 (A)violations of constitutional or statutory provisions and actions that are in excess of statutory authority from SECTION 15(g) of the 1961 MSAPA, and includes 3 subsections (c) (1), (2) and (4) of the 1981 MSAPA. The section thus includes challenges to the 4 facial or applied constitutionality of a statute, challenges to the jurisdiction of the agency, 5 erroneous interpretation of the law, and may include erroneous application of the law. 6 Subsection (c) (2) is part of the 1961 MSAPA (section 15(g) and the 1981 MSAPA (section 5-7 8 116 (c) (1)-(6). This section is not intended to preclude courts from according deference to 9 agency interpretations of law, where such deference is appropriate. 10 11 Subsection (c) defines the courts' power to review the exercise of agency discretion, and 12 includes review of rules. Such review may include: agency reliance on factors that may not be taken into account under subsection (c) (1) of this section. 13 14 (B) failure to rely on factors required to, or ignored factors that 15 must be taken into account under subsection (c) (1) of this section. 16 (C) assertion or reliance on factual bases for action that, law; 17 agency action does not bear a reasonable relationship to statutory purposes or requirements; necessary factual premises of the action do not withstand reviewscrutiny under the relevant 18 19 standard of review-for factual findings in subsection (4) of this section. Subsection 41 (a)(1) includes, but is not limited to, violations of constitutional or statutory provisions and 42 actions that are in excess of statutory authority from § 15(g) of the 1961 MSAPA, and includes subsections (c) (1), (2) and (4) of the 1981 MSAPA. 43

13 14	This approach is taken from the Washington APA. This approach has the advantage of simplicity and transparency. It eliminates as many formal procedures as possible.

1 OPTIONAL ARTICLE II 2 OPTIONAL GENERAL PROVISIONS 3 § O2-104. MODEL RULES. 4 5 ALTERNATIVE 1 (1) The [Attorney General] [Legislature] shall publish model procedural rules for 6 use by the agencies. The model rules shall include general procedural functions and duties of as 7 8 many agencies as is practicable. 9 (2) The model procedural rules shall constitute the default procedural rules for use 10 by all agencies, and shall bind all agencies as of the date of publication by [Attorney General] 11 [Legislature]. 12 (3) An agency may adopt a rule of procedure that differs from the model 13 procedural rules only through a rulemaking proceeding f, and the final rule must state with 14 particularity the need and reasons for the variation from the model procedural rules]. 15 ALTERNATIVE 2 16 (1) The [Attorney General] [Legislature] shall publish model procedural rules for 17 use by the agencies. The model rules shall include general procedural functions and duties of as 18 many agencies as is practicable. 19 (2) The model rules and additions, amendments, or revisions thereto shall be 20 appropriate for the use of as many agencies as is practicable and shall be filed with the [secretary 21 of state [administrative rules publisher] and provided to any agency upon request. The adoption 22 by an agency of all or part of the model rules does not relieve the agency from following the

1 rulemaking procedures required by this Act.

2	Comment
3	The purpose of Alternative 1 section is to create as uniform a set of procedures for all
4	agencies as is realistic, but to preserve the power of agencies to deviate from the common model
5	where necessary because the use of the model rules is demonstrated to be impractical for that
6	particular agency. Like § 2-105 of the 81 MSAPA, Alternative 1 of this section requires all
7	agencies to use the model rules as the basis for the rules that they are required to adopt under §
8	C2-102. An agency may deviate from the model rules only for impracticability.
9
10	Alternative 2 recognizes that the availability of model rules will be helpful to smaller
11	agencies that lack sufficient resources to draft their own rules effectively. However, Alternative 2
12	does not attempt to channel agencies into a uniform set of procedural rules as does Alternative 1.

9	subject matter of possible rule making under active consideration within the agency by causing
10	notice to be published in the [administrative bulletin] of the subject matter and indicating where,
11	when, and how persons may comment.
12	(b) Each agency may also appoint committees to comment, before publication of a
13	notice of proposed rule adoption, on the subject matter of a possible rule making under active
14	consideration within the agency. The membership of those committees must be published at least

20	§ O3-103. CONTENTS, STYLE, AND FORM OF RULE.
21	(a) Each rule adopted by an agency must contain the text of the rule and:
22	(1) the date the agency adopted the rule;
23	(2) a concise statement of the purpose of the rule;

1	(3) a reference to all rules repealed, amended, or suspended by the rule;
2	(4) a reference to the specific statutory or other authority authorizing
3	adoption of the rule;
4	(5) any findings required by any provision of law as a prerequisite to
5	adoption or effectiveness of the rule; and
6	(6) the effective date of the rule.
7	(b) To the extent feasible, each rule should be written in clear and concise
8	language understandable to persons who may be affected by it.
9	(c) An agency may incorporate, by reference in its rules and without publishing
10	the incorporated matter in full, all or any part of a code, standard, rule, or regulation that has been
11	adopted by an agency of the United States or of this state, another state, or by a nationally
12	recognized organization or association, if incorporation of its text in agency rules would be
13	unduly cumbersome, expensive, or otherwise inexpedient. The reference in the agency rules must
14	fully identify the incorporated matter by location, date, and otherwise, [and must state that the
15	rule does not include any later amendments or editions of the incorporated matter]. An agency
16	may incorporate by reference such matter in its rules only if the agency, organization, or
17	association originally issuing that matter makes copies of it readily available to the public. The
18	rules must state where copies of the incorporated matter are available at cost from the agency
19	issuing the rule, and where copies are available from the agency of the United States, this State,
20	another state, or the organization or association originally issuing that matter.
21	(d) In preparing its rules pursuant to this Chapter, each agency shall follow the
22	uniform numbering system, form, and style prescribed by the [administrative rules editor].

In the case of each one of these types of rules, it was determined that subjecting the particular class of statements in question to the extensive procedures and full publication requirements applicable generally to rules was either unnecessary, unduly burdensome on the agencies, or would lead to inefficient or ineffective government. This is, for these particular types of rules, the costs of submitting them to all usual rule-making requirements was deemed not worth the benefits. See Bonfield, "The Iowa Administrative Procedure Act: Background, Construction, Applicability, Public Access to Agency Law, the Rulemaking Process," 60 Iowa L.Rev. 731 at 832-833 (1975), hereinafter cited as Bonfield, IAPA. Note that to the extent other law states that any such exempted rules must follow usual rule-making or publication requirements, they will be subject to those requirements. See Bonfield, IAPA at 844-845. The 1961 Revised Model Act and most state acts accomplish the result of this section by excluding enumerated statements from their definition of "rule." The more overt approach of this section seems preferable.

Exclusionary paragraph (8) is a modified form of Florida Act, Section 120.52(14)(c)(1). Exclusionary paragraph (9) is Iowa Act, Section 17A.2(7)(e). See Bonfield, IAPA at 839; Auerbach, MAPA at 248. Exclusionary paragraph (10) in brackets is meant to eliminate the problems that might arise in states having public employee collective bargaining laws if such a collective bargaining agreement between a state agency and its employees were considered a rule.

Existing acts leave wholly ungoverned agency statements of the general type categorically excluded from usual rule-making requirements by this subsection. States, however, should also give serious consideration to imposing some minimum obligations on agencies with respect to the mode by which they adopt such statements. They might consider, for instance, the addition of a subsection (b) to this section stating:

To the extent it is practicable an agency shall, before adopting a rule under this section, give advance notice in some suitable manner of the contents of the contemplated rule to persons who would be affected by it, and solicit their views thereon.

§ O3-108. REVIEW BY ADMINISTRATIVE RULES REVIEW COMMITTEE.

(a) The [administrative rules review committee] shall selectively review possible, proposed, or adopted rules and prescribe appropriate committee procedures for that purpose. The committee may receive and investigate complaints from members of the public with respect to possible, proposed, or adopted rules and hold public proceedings on those complaints.

(b) Committee meetings must be open to the public. Subject to procedures established by the committee, persons may present oral argument, data, or views at those meetings. The committee may require a representative of an agency whose possible, proposed, or adopted rule is under examination to attend a committee meeting and answer relevant questions. The committee may also communicate to the agency its comments on any possible, proposed, or adopted rule and require the agency to respond to them in writing. Unless impracticable, in advance of each committee meeting notice of the time and place of the meeting and the specific subject matter to be considered must be published in the [administrative bulletin].

1	(c) The committee may recommend enactment of a statute to improve the
2	operation of an agency. The committee may also recommend that a particular rule be superseded
3	in whole or in part by statute. The [speaker of the house and the president of the senate] shall
4	refer those recommendations to the appropriate standing committees. This subsection does not
5	preclude any committee of the legislature from reviewing a rule on its own motion or
6	recommending that it be superseded in whole or in part by statute.
7	(1) If the committee objects to all or some portion of a rule because the
8	committee considers it to be beyond the procedural or substantive authority delegated to the
9	adopting agency, the committee may file that objection in the office of the [secretary of state].
10	The filed objection must contain a concise statement of the committee's reasons for its action.]
11	(2) The [secretary of state] shall affix to each objection a certification of
12	the date and time of its filing and as soon thereafter as practicable shall transmit a certified copy
13	thereof to the agency issuing the rule in question, the [administrative rules editor, and the
14	administrative rules counsel]. The [secretary of state] shall also maintain a permanent register
15	open to public inspection of all objections by the committee.
16	(3) The [administrative rules editor] shall publish and index an objection
17	filed pursuant to this subsection in the next issue of the [administrative bulletin] and indicate its
18	existence adjacent to the rule in question when that rule is published in the [administrative code].
19	In case of a filed objection by the committee to a rule that is subject to the requirements of
20	Section [], the agency shall indicate the existence of that objection adjacent to the rule in the
21	official compilation referred to in that subsection.
22	(4) Within [14] days after the filing of an objection by the committee to a

1	rule, the issuing agency shall respond in writing to the committee. After receipt of the response,
2	the committee may withdraw or modify its objection.
3	(5) After the filing of an objection by the committee that is not
4	subsequently withdrawn, the burden is upon the agency in any proceeding for judicial review or
5	for enforcement of the rule to establish that the whole or portion of the rule objected to is within
6	the procedural and substantive authority delegated to the agency.]

8	a rule is not an implied legislative authorization of its procedural or substantive validity.]

10	committee may also require an agency to publish notice of the committee's recommendation as a
11	proposed rule of the agency and to allow public participation thereon, according to the provisions
12	of Sections [] through []. An agency is not required to adopt the proposed rule.]

22	REVIEWABILITY.
23	(a) The agency head, upon its own motion may, and upon appeal by any party

1	shall, review an initial order, except to the extent that:
2	(1) a provision of law precludes or limits agency review of the initial
3	order; or
4	(2) the agency head, in the exercise of discretion conferred by a provision
5	of law,
6	(A) determines to review some but not all issues, or not to exercise
7	any review,
8	(B) delegates its authority to review the initial order to one or more
9	persons, or
10	(C) authorizes one or more persons to review the initial order,
11	subject to further review by the agency head.
12	(b) A petition for appeal from an initial order must be filed with the agency head,
13	or with any person designated for this purpose by rule of the agency, within [10] days after
14	rendition of the initial order. If the agency head on its own motion decides to review an initial
15	order, the agency head shall give written notice of its intention to review the initial order within
16	[10] days after its rendition. The [10]-day period for a party to file a petition for appeal or for the
17	agency head to give notice of its intention to review an initial order on the agency head's own
18	motion is tolled by the submission of a timely petition for reconsideration of the initial order
19	pursuant to Section [], and a new [10]-day period starts to run upon disposition of the petition
20	for reconsideration. If an initial order is subject both to a timely petition for reconsideration and
21	to a petition for appeal or to review by the agency head on its own motion, the petition for
22	reconsideration must be disposed of first, unless the agency head determines that action on the

1	petition for reconsideration has been unleasonably delayed.
2	(c) The petition for appeal must state its basis. If the agency head on its own
3	motion gives notice of its intent to review an initial order, the agency head shall identity the
4	issues that it intends to review.
5	(d) The presiding presiding officer for the review of an initial order shall exercise
6	all the decision-making power that the presiding officer would have had to render a final order
7	had the presiding officer presided over the hearing, except to the extent that the issues subject to
8	review are limited by a provision of law or by the presiding officer upon notice to all parties.
9	(e) The presiding presiding officer shall afford each party an opportunity to
10	present briefs and may afford each party an opportunity to present oral argument.
11	(f) Before rendering a final order, the hearing officer may cause a transcript to be
12	prepared, at the agency's expense, of such portions of the proceeding under review as the
13	presiding officer considers necessary.
14	(g) The presiding officer may render a final order disposing of the proceeding or
15	may remand the matter for further proceedings with instructions to the person who rendered the
16	initial order. Upon remanding a matter, the presiding officer may order such temporary relief as
17	is authorized and appropriate.
18	(h) A final order or an order remanding the matter for further proceedings must be
19	rendered in writing within [60] days after receipt of briefs and oral argument unless that period is
20	waived or extended with the written consent of all parties or for good cause shown.
21	(i) A final order or an order remanding the matter for further proceedings under
22	this section must identify any difference between this order and the initial order and must

1	include, or incorporate by express reference to the initial order, all the matters required by
2	Section [].
3	(j) The presiding officer shall cause copies of the final order or order remanding
4	the matter for further proceedings to be delivered to each party and to the agency head.

11	a petition for reconsideration, stating the specific grounds upon which relief is requested. The
12	filing of the petition is not a prerequisite for seeking administrative or judicial review.
13	(2) The petition must be disposed of by the same person or persons who rendered
14	the initial or final order, if available.
15	(3) The presiding officer shall render a written order denying the petition, granting
16	the petition and dissolving or modifying the initial or final order, or granting the petition and
17	setting the matter for further proceedings. The petition may be granted, in whole or in part, only
18	if the presiding officer states, in the written order, findings of fact, conclusions of law, and policy
19	reasons for the decision if it is an exercise of the agency's discretion, to justify the order. The

OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE HEARINGS

1	§ 04-113. OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE HEARINGSCREATION, POWERS,
2	DUTIES.
3	(a) There is created the office of administrative hearings within the [Department
4	of], to be headed by a director appointed by the governor [and confirmed by the senate].
5	(b) The office shall employ administrative law judges as necessary to conduct
6	proceedings required by this Act or other provision of law. [Only a person admitted to practice
7	law in [this State] [a jurisdiction in the United States] may be employed as an administrative law
8	judge.]
9	(c) If the office cannot furnish one of its administrative law judges in response to
10	an agency request, the director shall designate in writing a full-time employee of an agency other
11	than the requesting agency to serve as administrative law judge for the proceeding, but only with
12	the consent of the employing agency. The designee must possess the same qualifications required
13	of administrative law judges employed by the office.
14	(d) The director may furnish administrative law judges on a contract basis to any
15	governmental entity to conduct any proceeding not subject to this Act.
16	(e) The office may adopt rules:
17	(1) to establish further qualifications for administrative law judges,
18	procedures by which candidates will be considered for employment, and the manner in which
19	public notice of vacancies in the staff of the office will be given;
20	(2) to establish procedures for agencies to request and for the director to
21	assign administrative law judges; however, an agency may neither select nor reject any individual
22	administrative law judge for any proceeding except in accordance with this Act;

1	(3) to establish procedures and adopt forms, consistent with this Act, the
2	model rules of procedure, and other provisions of law, to govern administrative law judges;
3	(4) to establish standards and procedures for the evaluation, training,
4	promotion, and discipline of administrative law judges; and
5	(5) to facilitate the performance of the responsibilities conferred upon the
6	office by this Act.
7	(f) The director may:
8	(1) maintain a staff of reporters and other personnel; and
9	(2) implement the provisions of this section and rules adopted under its

9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22 23	This section is taken in part from the 1981 MSAPA. Several states have adopted provisions similar to this section into their APA's. States which have adopted similar provisions are: Alabama (Ala.Code 1975 § 41-22-20), Iowa (I.C.A. § 17A.19), Kansas (K.S.A. § 77-606), Oregon (O.R.S. § 183.480), Tennessee (T. C. A. § 4-5-322) and Wisconsin (W.S.A. 227.53). A provision of this type, one that establishes a unitary form of appeal procedure, gives clear notice of procedure for appeal. In addition, the judicial appeal provisions within this APA have been drafted with the procedural problems and situations that frequently arise in judicial appeals from administrative agencies. This provision will also generate a more coherent and accessible body of procedural law, thus making the judicial task more manageable. See Donald W. Brodie and Hans A. Linde, State Court Review of Administrative Action: Prescribing the Scope of Review , 1977 Az. St. L. Rev. 537. If it is impossible to enact this provision because of constitutional prohibition or other legislative or statutory problem, § § C5-101 & 104 provide an alternative, non exclusive judicial appeal provision.
24	§ O5-102. FINAL AGENCY ACTION REVIEWABLE. A person who qualifies
25	under this Act regarding (i) standing, (ii) exhaustion of administrative remedies (), and (iii) time
26	for filing the petition for review (), and other applicable provisions of law is entitled to judicial
27	review of final agency action, whether or not the person has sought judicial review of any related
28	non-final agency action.
29	Comment

1 2 This section creates a right to judicial review of final action, and lists the requirements that must be met in order to obtain judicial review. This right was recognized by the 1961 3 MSAPA and the 1981 MSAPA. The definitions (§ 1-101) define "agency action" and "final 4 agency action." 5 6 7 § O5-103. NON FINAL AGENCY ACTION REVIEWABLE. A party may seek judicial review of non final agency action only upon showing that: 8 (1) the agency's conclusions with respect to that issue are intended to be definitive 9 10 rather than tentative or interlocutory in character; and 11 (2) postponement will cause the party to suffer substantial and irreparable harm 12 that is disproportionate to the public benefit derived from postponement; and 13 (3) the risk of such harm outweighs the risk that immediate judicial consideration of that issue would prevent the court from reaching a sufficiently informed decision with respect 14 15 to that issue or would unduly interfere with the orderly development of agency policy.

This section provides for an interlocutory review and continues the approach of the 1961 and 1981 MSAPAs that the circumstances in which this remedy is available should be limited. Generally, finality requires that 1) the agency action marks the consummation or termination of the agency's decisionmaking process. Subparagraph (1) addresses that question. Under this section, an agency that has left open the possibility of reexamining an issue, upon a showing of good reasons to do so, can still be found to have rendered a "final" decision with respect to that issue, if the agency has no plans to reexamine it. Subparagraph (2) incorporates the principle, taken from case law, that permits exceptions to exhaustion and ripeness requirements where the parties will suffer exceptional hardship from delay; however, the subsection limits the operation of the section further by the additional requirement that a court should permit an interlocutory appeal only where the harm to the individual is substantially greater than the benefit to the public of waiting for a final order, as was provided in the 1981 MSAPA. Subparagraph (3) draws from case law the considerations that should be taken into account in deciding whether to permit interlocutory review. This subsection seeks to identify the factors commonly accepted from case law in the area, for example, of ripeness. Subsection (3) will also be helpful in making decisions about timing of judicial review of appropriate rules and guidance documents.

2	§ O5-104. FORM OF APPEAL. Judicial review is initiated by filing a petition for
3	review in [the appropriate] court. A petition for review may seek any type of relief available
4	under law.
5	Comment
6 7 8 9 10 11	This section establishes a single form of action for appeals. It is taken from the 1981 MSAPA. The unitary form of action provided for in this act is a type of limited judicial review of agency action, as prescribed by the other provisions of this Act. However, another statute may provide different standards for judicial review.
12	§ O5-105. VENUE OF APPEALS FROM AGENCY ACTION. Any person affected
13	or aggrieved by final agency action as described in § O5-101 of this Act shall seek review where
14	the agency maintains its headquarters, where the person filing the appeal resides or as otherwise
15	provided by law by filing a petition for review.
16	Comment
17 18 19 20 21 22 23	This section establishes a single form of review. Such a procedure gives clear notice of the type of action that must be taken to seek judicial review. It also eliminates the risk created by traditional legal procedural distinctions between, and requirements of, different writs used to seek judicial relief from agency action. However, other statutes may impose different requirements for appeal.
24	§ O5-106. STANDING.
25	(a) The following persons have standing to obtain judicial review of final or non-
26	final agency action:
27	(1) a person to whom the agency action is specifically directed;
28	(2) a person who was a party to the agency proceedings that led to the

1	agency action;
2	(3) if the challenged agency action is a rule, a person subject to that rule;
3	(4) a person eligible for standing under another provision of law; or
4	(5) a person otherwise aggrieved or adversely affected by the agency
5	action. For purposes of this paragraph, no person has standing as one otherwise aggrieved or
6	adversely affected unless:
7	(A) the agency action has prejudiced or is likely to prejudice that
8	person;
9	(B) that person's asserted interests are not marginally related to or
10	consistent with the purposes of the statute involved; and
11	(C) a judgment in favor of that person would substantially
12	eliminate or redress the prejudice to that person caused or likely to be caused by the agency
13	action.

16	This section is drawn substantially from the 1981 MSAPA. It includes both the injury in
17	fact test and the zone of interest test, a part of the federal standing test which some states have
18	followed. See Friends of Black Forest v. County of El Paso, 80 P.3d 871 (Colo. App., 2003);

23	test is that persons who have nothing to do with the objectives that led the legislature to pass a
24	particular substantive statute are unlikely to bring actions that will advance or promote those
25	legislative goals and purposes. Where standing is at issue, the principal inquiry should be
26	whether the legislature has created a cause of action through the APA or otherwise. Cass R.

test for standing If a state legislature desires, this section can be substituted for § C5-106.

2	§ O5-107. TIME FOR FILING PETITION FOR REVIEW. Subject to other
3	requirements of this Act or of another statute:
4	(a) A petition for judicial review of a rule may be filed at any time, except as
5	limited by § [].
6	(b) A petition for judicial review of an order is not timely unless filed within []
7	days after rendition of the order, but the time is extended during the pendency of the petitioner's
8	timely attempts to exhaust administrative remedies, if the attempts are not clearly frivolous or
9	repetitious.
10	(c) A petition for judicial review of agency action other than a rule or order is not
11	timely unless filed within [] days after the agency action, but the time is extended:
12	(1) during the pendency of the petitioner's timely attempts to exhaust
13	administrative remedies, if the attempts are not clearly frivolous or repetitious; and
14	(2) during any period that the petitioner did not know and was under no
15	duty to discover, or did not know and was under a duty to discover but could not reasonably have
16	discovered, that the agency had taken the action or that the agency action had a sufficient effect
17	to confer standing upon the petitioner to obtain judicial review under this Act.

19 20	This section establishes the time limits within which action must be brought. Subsection
21	(1) establishes the time when appeals from rules must be taken. Subsection (2) establishes the
22	time for taking an appeal from an adjudication. That subsection also tolls the time for appeal
23	while a party makes good faith efforts to exhaust remedies. This tolling is recognized by several
24	cases. See ICC v. Bhd. of Locomotive Eng'rs, 452 U.S. 270 (1987); 32 County Sovereignty Cmte.
25	v. Dept. of State, 292 F.3d 727 (D.C. Cir. 2002), both of which hold that an appeal cannot be
26	filed while relief is being sought before the agency. Subsection (3) establishes the time when

	O5-108. PETITION FOR REVIEW-FILING AND CONTENTS.
	(a) A petition for review must be filed with the clerk of the court.
	(b) A petition for review must set forth:
	(1) the name and mailing address of the petitioner;
	(2) the name and mailing address of the agency whose action is at issue;
	(3) identification of the agency action at issue, together with a duplicate copy, sun	nmary, or brief description of the agency action;
	(4) identification of persons who were parties in any adjudicative
proceedin	igs that led to the agency action;
	(5) facts to demonstrate that the petitioner is entitled to obtain judicial review as	described in §O5-102(i),(ii) and (iii);
	(6) the petitioner's reasons for believing that relief should be granted; and
	(7) a request for relief, specifying the type and extent of relief requested.

	O5-109. PETITION FOR REVIEW.
	(a) A petitioner for judicial review shall serve a copy of the petition upon the agency in	the manner provided by [statute] [the rules of civil procedure].

1	(b) The petitioner shall use means provided by [statute] [the rules of civil
2	procedure] to give notice of the petition for review to all other parties in any adjudicative
3	proceedings that led to the agency action.
5
6	This section is taken from § 5-110 of the 1981 MSAPA. This section makes a distinction
7	between service upon the agency and notification of all other parties to any agency adjudicative
8	proceedings. See the definition of "party to agency proceedings," Section 1-101(6). Subsection
9	(b), requiring notification of parties in any proceedings that led to the agency action, applies only
0	if those proceedings were adjudicative, since that is the only type of agency proceeding under this
1	Act in which persons may be "parties." By contrast, persons who offer input in rule-making
2	proceedings do not become "parties."
3
4	§ O5-110. LIMITATION ON NEW ISSUES.
5	(a) A person may obtain judicial review of an issue that was not raised before the
6	agency, only to the extent that:
17	(1) the agency did not have jurisdiction to grant an adequate remedy based
8	on a determination of the issue;
9	(2) the person did not know and was under no duty to discover, or did not
20	know and was under a duty to discover but could not reasonably have discovered, facts giving
21	rise to the issue;
22	(3) the agency action subject to judicial review is a rule and the person has
23	not been a party in adjudicative proceedings which provided an adequate opportunity to raise the
24	issue;
25	(4) the agency action subject to judicial review is an order and the person
26	was not notified of the adjudicative proceeding in substantial compliance with this Act. or

	(5) the interests of justice would be served by judicial resolution of an issue ari	sing from:
	(A) a change in controlling law occurring after the agency action;
or
	(B) agency action occurring after the person exhausted the last feasible	opportunity for seeking relief from the agency.

	3 O5-111. SCOPE OF REVIEW; VALIDITY OF AGENCY ACTION.
	(a) Except to the extent that this Act or another statute provides otherwise:
	(1) The burden of demonstrating the invalidity of agency action is on the party ass	serting invalidity; and
	(2) The validity of agency action must be determined in accordance with the stand	dards of review provided in this section, as applied to the agency action at the time it was taken.
	(b) The court shall make a separate and distinct ruling on each material issue on which th	ne court's decision is based.
	(c) The court shall grant relief only if it determines that a person seeking judicial relief h a	s been substantially prejudiced by any one or more of the following:
	(1) The agency action, or the statute or rule on which the agency action is hased is	s unconstitutional on its face or as applied.

	(2) The agency has acted beyond the jurisdiction conferred by any provision of law.
	(3) The agency has not decided all issues requiring resolution.
	(4) The agency has erroneously interpreted the law.
	(5) The agency has erroneously applied the law; however, in making this determination the	court shall take into account the discretion that the legislature has accorded to the agency to appl	y the law.
	(6) The agency has engaged in an unlawful procedure or decision-making process, or has fai	led to follow prescribed procedure.
	(7) The persons taking the agency action were improperly constituted as a decision-making t	body, motivated by an improper purpose, or subject to disqualification.
	(8) The agency action is based on a determination of fact, made or implied by the agency, that	t is not supported by evidence that is substantial when viewed in light of the whole record befo	are the court, which includes the agency record for judicial review, supplemented by a	any additional evidence received by the court under this Act.
	(9) The agency action is:
	(A) outside the range of discretion delegated to the agency by any
provision of law;
	(B) agency action, other than a rule, that is inconsistent with a rule of the agency; [or]	l
	(C) agency action, other than a rule, that is inconsistent with the agency's prior pra	ctice unless the agency justifies the inconsistency by stating facts and reasons

- 1 to demonstrate a fair and rational basis for the inconsistency. [; or] [.]
- 2 (D) [otherwise unreasonable, arbitrary or capricious.]
